THE MERCHANT OF VENICE.

As Once Played by Booth in Virginia

A story is told of Edwin Booth's experience that is good enough to be true. Once, during the days of his early struggles, Booth was "barn-storming" down in Virginia at a place called Lee's Landing. The impro-vised theatre was a tobacco ware-house, and it was crowded by the planters from miles around. Booth and his companions expected to take the weekly steamer expected to call late at night, and between the acts were busy packing up. The play was the "Merchant of Venice," and they were just going on for the trial scene when they heard a whistle, and the manager came running in to say that the steamer had arrived, and would leave again in ten minutes. of flesh, are you?" "You bet your life!" said Ruggles "Now, I'll make you one more of-fer," continued Booth. "In addition shotgun and two of the best coon dogs in the state."
