Ask For Ayer's Sarsaparilla,
Sarsaparilla, and be sure you get it, when you want the best blood-purifier. With its forty years of unexampled success in the cure of Blood Diseases, you can make no mistake in preferring Ayer's Sarsaparilla to any other. The fore-runner of modern blood medicines, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is still the most popular, being in greater demand than all others combined.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla is selling faster than ever before. I never hesitate to recommend it."—George W. Whitman, Druggist, Albany, Ind.

"I am safe in saying that my sales of Ayer's Sarsaparilla far exceed those of any other, and it gives thorough satisfaction."—L. H. Bush, Des Moines, Iowa.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's Pills are the best selling medicines in my store. I can recommend them conscientiously."—Bickhaus, Pharmacist, Roseland, Ill.

"We have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla here for over thirty years and always recommend it when asked to name the best blood-purifier."—W. T. McLean, Druggist, Augusta, Ohio.

"I have sold your medicines for the last seventeen years, and always kept them in stock, as they are staples. There is nothing so good for the youthful blood as Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—R. L. Parker, Fox Lake, Wis.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla gives the best satisfaction of any medicine I have in stock. I recommend it, or, as the Doctors say, 'I prescribe it over the counter.' It never fails to meet the cases for which I recommend it, even where the doctors' prescriptions have been of no avail."—C. F. Calhoun, Monmouth, Kansas.

LUOINDY'S TURN.
And She Took It With a Vengeance.
A pair of elderly, healthy looking men and a limp looking, broken spirited woman in a calico dress and a bonnet fashionable before the war, appeared in a lawyer's office up town one day last week.

One of the men said that they wanted a deed made out, and then he turned to his companion and they discussed the details of the trade they were about to make.

The meek looking, heavy eyed little woman tried to say something once or twice, but her husband silenced her with:

"Come, come, now, Looindy; we an't be settling the business ourselves. It ain't a woman's place to take a hand in a matter of this kind. She's got other fish to fry. I'm doing this tradin' myself. You jest sit still till yer wanted."

Looindy, thus admonished, "set still," but she seemed a little less limp and a trifle more spirited, while her heavy eyes brightened a good deal when her husband said:

"Now, Looindy, we're ready fer yer. Jest come along byar an' scratch yer name out in full on this blank line. That's all we want of yer."

It was simply refreshing to see the color come to Looindy's cheeks, and to note the firmness of her voice as she said:

"I shan't do it, Cy."
"You shan't do what?"
"I shan't sign my name to that deed."

"Why, good lawd, woman; that's all I brang you along fer!"
"I know it, Cy, and I ain't a goin' to do it."
"What in thunder do you mean?" gasped out Cy, as he stared at Looindy with his eyes like saucers and his mouth wide open.

"I mean just what I say, Cy Jackson. Oh, you needn't stare so at me, Cy. It's my time to take a hand in this trade, Cy, an' I'm goin' to do it. It ain't often I get a chance to show you I'm of any consequence in this world, but now I'll learn you that I am!"

"Lookee here, Looindy, I'm blamed if I'm goin' to stand this! What sile you to go to cuttin' up like this? Now, you put your name to that deed an' have done with your foolin'!"

"I ain't foolin', Cy," she replied calmly, as she took the pen he handed her and put it back on the pen-rack, and then pulled her faded old shawl up around her gaunt shoulders.

"Lookee here, Cy," she said at last, "the way I look at it, that land's mine much as it's yours. I've dug an' niggered harder'n you have, an' I'm blamed if I ain't goin' to have some say so 'bout sellin' it. Now, I'll tell you what I'll do! Give me half the money Higgins is goin' to pay you for the land right here in my own fist an' I'll sign the paper!"

"You must be crazy, Looindy; I want you to stop!"

"Forty million of men couldn't make me sign without," she said calmly, as she dropped into an chair.

"Looindy!"

"Well, Cy?"

"I—I—blamed if I—I—what you mean, carryin' on like this."

"I mean that I am going to have a dollar or two in the bank I can call my own, and some decent duds. Hand over the money, Cy, an' I'll sign; an' I'll never sign without it."

Half an hour later Cy and a dozed look on his livid face and Looindy with a serenely triumphant expression on her's, as she walked away with a roll of bills clutched tight in her bony hand, and visions of a new "alpacky" dress and a $5 bonnet and a bank account of her own before her glistening eyes. Her time had come, without a doubt.

HAPPINESS AND CONTENTMENT
Cannot be had in hand if we look on the dark side of every little obstacle. Nothing will so directly and make it a burden as Dyspepsia. Ayer's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure the worst form of Dyspepsia, Constipation and Indigestion, and make life a happiness and pleasure. Sold at 25 and 50 cents by J. W. Conn, Druggist.

The city of Buenos Ayres, in the Argentine Republic, has expended during the last six years $10,000,000 in constructing sixty magnificent school buildings for 600 pupils each. These school houses are the finest buildings in the city, and a collective exhibit of them has made a sensation at the Paris exhibition. The Argentine Republic is now, after the United States the country which spends most, in proportion to population, for education.

Scarlet Fever and Diphtheria
Are spread by contagion, by the transfer of living matter. These particles come from the skin, the membranous lining of the mouth, nose and throat, and from the intestines and urinary organs. Disinfect promptly and thoroughly with Darby's Prophylactic Fluid, the great germ destroyer.

Prof. H. T. Lupton, of the Vanderbilt University, Tenn., says: "As a disinfectant and detergent Darby's Prophylactic Fluid is superior to any preparation with which I am acquainted."

Miss Kate Young, teacher of the West Sebeva (Mich.) school, took a novel method of supplying a demand that the school board refused to heed. She had each pupil bring an egg, and then sold them at a convenient grocery. With the proceeds she purchased towels and soap, and the appearance of the children after play hours is much improved.

At Pargond, Ark. says United Labor, in the mills and stove factories wages range from $1.25 to $1.50 per day; farm hands, $15 per month. Corn, 50 cents; flour, $6.50; bacon, 10 to 12 cents. Receipts are high. Board $3 to $4 per week. Section men get Gould prices—$1.15 per day—and $3.50 per week for board.

An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure. Plunder's Oregon Blood Purifier expels all impurities of the blood and should be used in all diseases of the stomach, liver and kidneys. Take it.

During the first six months of the present year there have been about 300 strikes, involving about 75,000 men, against 400 strikes and nearly 115,000 men in the same period in 1888. In the first six months of 1887 the strikes were over 500 in number and more than 200,000 men engaged in them.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla, operating through the blood, radically cures scrofulous taint.

A railroad publication issued in New York City says that the failure of the locomotive engineers to down the "Q" roads on their strike has taken 1,000 men out of the order and that it will be ten years before it will be powerful as before.

"BET WITH HIM TRACY! BET!"
A Reminiscence of the Enthusiasm Over Smuggler's Great Race.
"Yes," said an old sport in one of the pool-rooms yesterday, "there is a thrill about a horse race you cannot get in any other way. The thrill is intensified just in proportion as your money has gone up on the event. When Smuggler beat Goldsmith Maid at Cleveland, back thirteen years ago, 'he crowd almost destroyed the grand stand. In illustration of the excitement which reigned, I recall the actions of a preacher from Elkhart, who was present with a friend. As the horses were scoring, the parson's friend, whose name was Tracy, and who knew about as much of horses as he did of the glacial period, remarked a belief that Smuggler might win over the Maid. This was about as probable to the experienced tar as a republic in Russia, and one of the fraternity, overhearing the remark, overflowed in a proposition.

"I'll bet you $100 to $20 he don't," he said.

"The preacher was interested, but somewhat shocked, and silently protested by pinching Tracy's arm."

"The start was made, and with the word 'go' the persistent sport renewed his offer, but it didn't take. With the horses on the backstretch and bunched he came again, but Tracy wasn't game. As they turned into the stretch the stable Dabbi, who was behind the Maid, with the assistance of American Girl, had gotten the stallion into a pocket, but his driver, taking all chances, pulled him completely up, and taking the center of the track sent him for the wire like a ghost. No horse for a furlong ever made such speed before or since, and as Smuggler came to the front with the rush of a storm he carried the spectators from their mental feet. Every man was up and yelling, and the Elkhart preacher, who must have had latent sporting blood in his veins, forgot of his pulp and pastorate, was flourishing his cushion and shrieking in reference to his last proposition: 'Bet him, Tracy. Thunder and clams! Bet with him. I'll split with you on it!'"

"It was too late, though; so Tracy didn't bet."—K. C. Times.

DYSPEPSIA.
IS that misery experienced when we suddenly become aware that we possess a diabolical arrangement called a stomach. The stomach is the reservoir to which every fibre and tissue must be nourished, and any trouble with it is soon felt throughout the whole system. Among a dozen dyspepsias there will be the same predominant symptoms. Dyspepsia is a mental power and a bilious temperament are subject to sick headaches, those fleshy and phlegmatic have constipation, while the thin and nervous are condemned to gloomy forebodings. In all dyspepsias are wonderfully forgetful; others have great irritability of temper.

Whatever form Dyspepsia may take, one thing is certain.

The underlying cause is in the LIVER,
and one thing more is equally certain, no one will remain a dyspeptic who will
