

The Daily Astorian. ASTORIA, OREGON: THURSDAY JULY 4, 1889. A GREAT CELEBRATION.

This is the real Centennial Fourth. One hundred years ago—in 1789—our history as a nation began.

The greatest celebration the nation ever had goes on to-day. It is not in the roar of cannon or the martial tread of the parades, nor in the huzzas of the 65,000,000 people.

To-day come together 300 men to arrange for the admission of four great commonwealths.

To-day meet four constitutional conventions: one at Olympia to decide upon the constitution of the new state of Washington; one at Helena, of the Montana delegates; one at Sioux Falls for South Dakota; one at Bismarck for North Dakota.

Each will consist of 75 men and their actions will make the popular form of government for the citizens of the four new states.

Not is this a magnificent celebration of the centennial Fourth! The fact is one unequalled in the world's history; that on the beginning of the second century of the nation, amid peace and plenty, surrounded by unexampled prosperity, four new states, sovereign commonwealths, step in stately grandeur to the front and are hailed and known by the other 38 that grace the galaxy of stars on the nation's flag.

This thought, which our readers can elaborate to suit themselves, is THE ASTORIAN'S contribution to the literature, the orations, and the American talk of the Fourth of July 1889.

Hurray for the four new states, and the progress of the nation that has made possible their creation on the nation's centennial Fourth!

ATTENDANTS and officers in prisons, poor houses and lunatic asylums need to be careful how they treat those committed to their care.

King Kalakaua is trying to borrow $10,000 with which to go to Paris to see his old friend the elephant.

Grit makes the man, and want of it the chump: the men who win lay hold, hang on and lump.

It is said of an inveterate gambler that on the day of judgment he would "play the last trump."

Bad luck will not long pursue the man who does not trust it, but buckles down to work on his own account.

Mary Anderson is said to be regaining her nervous poise in London. Her avoirdupois, however, is still insignificant.

Buffalo Bill continues to hold his position as the social lion of Paris. He is as much at home now in a French salon as he ever was in a Colorado saloon.

"It takes a calf to catch a calf," as the comic opera singer said when she gave a wicked look and saucy kick in the direction of the callow youths in the front row of the orchestra.

The gossips of Europe tell great yarns about the shah of Persia's grandeur. It is stated that the precious stones embedded in his throne are worth $30,000,000. On the other hand, his manners aren't worth a denarius.

Is Consumption Incurable? Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an incurable Consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and now on my third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made."
