Grandfather Smith, of Punxsutaw Grandfather Smith, of Punxsutawney, Pa., who was gathered to his fathers several years ago, used to say, after the great flood of 1861, that it was all in the moon. "Whenever," he said, "the moon changes at 11 o'clock and 59 minutes in the day time on June 1st, you may look out for heavy rains and a big flood. I have seen two or three floods during my lifetime and they were all caused my lifetime and they were all caused by the change of the moon at this particular time—11:59 June 1st. When the change of the moon comes again at that time, look out." Sev-eral of the citzens of that place remembered this, and, looking up the almanac, found that the change of the moon took place on June 1, 1889, precisely at 11:59, and in consequence they marvel much.

It is not many years ago that the cottonwood tree was considered use less for the purpose of lumber. day it is crowding white pine out of the market for certain purposes, and large fortunes are being made all along the Mississippi river out of this wood, which was once despised as much in that field as a garfish always has been among fishermen.

Four years ago a man named John M. Brosins landed in Atlanta, Ga., with $150 in his pocket, and a chest of tools which were made in 1848. The same man to-day is worth ever $300,000. The fortune was made on two patents—an axle for a wagon and a sewing machine.
