Some boys, while bathing on the beach near Carnahan's store yesterday, found a human skull, which was brought to this office. It looks like the skull of an In-dian, and is in a good state of preservation, minus the lower jaw. It would do first rate as a piece of stage property in the graveyard scene from "Hamlet."

A Fulton county man owns a saw mill, or did last week, but doesn't now. He went to his saw mill early the other morning, intending to take down the blinds, sweep out and prepare for the day's business, when he discovered that thieves had been there before him. They had stolen the saws, log-carriage, cant books, does crowhers wrenches, files. hooks, dogs, crowbars, wrenches, files, tallow for the saws, tin lantern—everything. They even carried off the water wheel and logs, and would have got away with the water privilege, doubtless, had they had a little more time.

In another column is an account of In another column is an account of the insanity of Henry Walmbold, who was taken to the insane asylum at Stockton, Cal., last Wednesday. Walmbold was well known here, where he had resided for several years. He tried at various times to be a political agitator, but didn't agitate anybody very much. Of late he had been engaged on a perpetual motion machine. He fished all the past season, and left here about the 5th with $200. He was a man of considerable intellect in some ways but a little vague at times. He will be back here before long no crazier than usual. no crazier than usual.

The strume: Barbara Boscowitz has The stramer Barbara Boscowitz has arrived down from Naas river, says the Victoria Colonist, and way ports with a large passenger list, principally returning fishermen. She also brought 1,250 cases from the B. A. I' company, Skeens river. The pack on this river will be only a two-third one, the canneries averaging 9,000 cases apiece. On Naas river McLellan's cannery had put up 6,000 cases, Findiay, Durham & Brodie, 3,000, and the Cascade Packing company 1,500. At River's inlet the run has been unprecedently large, the two canneries runcedently large, the two canneries run-ning there have all the fish they can handle, and are shutting down because they ran out of material. Shotboldt & Draney have 16,000 cases, and will also put up 400 barrels sait saimon. McDowell's cannery has a pack of 10,000 cases. The pack at Alert bay is only fair.

Fort Stevens, to a Telegram reporter,
"as I beheld at the government works at the mouth of the Columbia river. I was down there last April, about the 1st, and since that time they have made an enorlife." since that time they have made an enormous stride with the great stone jety.
Believe me, lacking the length of three of our Portland blocks the work has grown in the last four and one-half months just one mile. It is an interesting sight to see the stone taken from the great barges which are towed from the quarry, and then rest towed from the great barges which are towed from the quarry, and then put on the flat cars, to be run out over the sea towards Japan, behind the little engine which rolls great clouds of smoke behind it. Then the construction derrick is swung around, construction derrick is swang around, and, lifting the contents of the car up, turns it clear about and deposits it exactly where wanted. I cannot forget how odd that train looked going out on the water. It was a sight I never beheld before, but one which I want to see again, for it filled me with a peculiar feeling, as if it were going out into the sea never to return."

S. F. Examiner, 13. Henry Warmbold, of Astoria, Oregon,

Henry Warmbold, of Astoria, Oregon, astronomer, astrologer, physiognomist, phrenologist, evolutionist and theosophist, was arrested Saturday night at the Masonic cemetery.

Professor Warmbold is above the medium height, has long fair hair, which curls at the end, and a long beard, while a mild and gentle expression pervades his countenance.

To Dr. Phelan he stated yesterday morning, that he had been arrested in an invocation to Isis and Osiris, by which he had intended saving the world from

he had intended saving the world from destruction.

"You know, doctor," said he, "that my latter life has been devoted to astronomy and astrology, and I know the subjects perfectly. Why I came to be operating in San Francisco I will explain."

"You know, sir. that I am a theosophist, and that I have reached the reminiscent period, and remember 2,000 years ago. At that time I was Jesus Christ, and vainly supposed that I had come to save the world. It was an error."

"The proof of what I say may be established by the fact that on my forheadfeet, hands and over my heart, I bear the marks which I received on the cross 2,000 years ago."

"In my latter career I have been a fisherman at Astoria, but by the transmission of thought I was notified that my affinity lived in San Francisco, and being thus warned I gave up my occupation and was directed here by the great, but invisible, powers of nature.

"On reaching this point the same power directed me to the Masonic cemetery, where I found the gates swung ajar and the maiden of my dreams awaiting me with outstretched arms."

"She knew me at a glance by the powers of transmission of thought, and we

with outstretched arms."

"She knew me at a glance by the powers of transmission of thought, and we communed."

"From that day to this we have constantly communed. When I reach the cemetery and she is not there I look upon the earth's surface and I find a stone, and on this stone she has transmitted her thoughts, which I read."

"What do you know of astronomy and her thoughts, which I read."

"What do you know of astronomy and astrology?"

"This: The planetary system is in a ferment, and I am the man destined to save the world again. My affinity, who is the essence of beauty, commands Isis, or the moon, while I command Osiris, the sun. Together we can cause a conjunction which would be to the world's advantage, as both sun and moon have advantage, as both sun and moon have had a family quarrel which must result in a fatal explosion unless the trouble is put at rest."

"On Saturday night I had builded a fire, my affinity stood by my side in spirit, Isis had come at my command, Osiris was surlily obeying my call, when the callous limbs of the law lay their irreverent hands upon me. I was arrested, the sum is fall and the result was a rested, thrown in fail, and the result must come. I deplore it, of course, but it is unavoid

"That's enough," said Dr. Phelan, one of the commissioners of insanity. "My good man, we will have to send you to Stockton." "I expected as much," said the pro-fessor. "I am too learned. Two thous-and years hence I shall come back to saye the world. It is not my fault but your own cruelty that I do not do it now, but you know, doctor, through all ages, man's inhumsnity to man has made countless housands mourn. The attendants placed him in the van and one more patient was added to over crowded Stockton.

Insane In San Francisco.

Henry Walmbold, a German fisherman, aged 36 years, residing at 553 Mission street, was committed to the Stockton insane asylum yesterday. Walmbold was arrested at the Masonic cemetery on Sunday, where an officer found him drinking refuse water of the vilest description. When questioned by the officer he said that he was Jesus Christ, and that he was drinking of the spring of eterns!

In the United States circuit court yesterday E. T. B. Mills, of the firm of Mills & Co., secured a judgment for $12,870 against the Oregon Railway and Navigation company. The amount was secured on the ground that it was an overcharge of freight on a large consignment of wheat shipped by the plaintiff from Washington territory to San Francisco in February, 1886. The amount which the plaintiff tendered as due, at the agreed rate, was $72,438, while the amount charged and paid by the plaintiff under protest was $56,307.—S. F. Chronicle, 13.

Quarantine Fees.

The board of health held a special meeting yesterday, at which war was declared against the Pacific Coast Steamship company by the adoption of a resolution directing quarantine officer Lawlor to allow no vessel belonging to that company to dock or land its passengers without the payment of the quarantine fees amounting to $7.50. It is understood that the Pacific Coast Steamship company has refused to pay quarantine fees on the ground that the action of the board of health in levying such fees was illegal. The resolution just adopted by that body will doubtless bring matters to a climax.—S. F. Chronicle, 13.

A Denial of Adverse Rumors

A contemporary recently stated that the grading on the Astoria and South Coast railroad would shortly be discon-tinued "owing to a lack of ready funds to proceed."

to proceed."

"This statement is untrue," said William Reid, president of the Astoria and South Coast railroad, to an Oregonian reporter yesterday. "Instead of discontinuing work the company has two surveying parties, of sixteen men each, in the field. One party has surveyed and located twelve miles from the beside junction to the summit of Lewis and Clarke river. The other party has surveyed from the summit of the Lewis and Clarke down to the Nehalem river valley, and has reached Jewell, thirteen miles distant, through an immense body of timber, finding the summit to be 1,300 feet high, and requiring a tunnel of only feet high, and requiring a tunnel of only 300 feet at the top. This party is now proceeding on the way southerly to the Willamette valley."

"A contract has been let by the Pa-cific Construction company to W. H. Parker to complete the entire grading and rock work for seven and a half miles from the Seaside up the Lewis and Clarke, to be finished by Christmas; another contract, for the same distance, for the clearing has been let to H. Le-fevre, at the rate of $1,000 per mile, including grubbing; another contract has been let to Charles H. Ewing for the grading from the Ocean house to Grimes' hotel, to be finished before October 8, next; another contract has been let to Hoffman & Bates for the long treatle work across the Nekanikum river and across O'Hanna creek, and the bridge across the entrance to the lake; the contract for the fire was let less Saturder to tract for the ties was let last Saturday to L.
