Beauty

Is desired and admired by all. Among the things which may best be done to enhance personal beauty is the daily use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. No matter what the color of the hair, this preparation gives it a lustre and pliancy that adds greatly to its charm. Should the hair be thin, harsh, dry, or turning gray, Ayer's Hair Vigor will restore the color, bring out a new growth, and render the old soft and shiny. For keeping the scalp clean, cool, and healthy, there is no better preparation in the market.

"I am free to confess that a trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor has convinced me that it is a genuine article. Its use has not only caused the hair of my wife and daughter to be but it has given my rather stunted mustache a respectable length and appearance."—R. Britton, Oakland, Ohio.

"My hair was coming out (without any assistance from my wife, either). I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor, using only one bottle, and I now have as fine a head of hair as any one could wish for."—R. T. Schmitt, Dickson, Tenn.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor in my family for a number of years, and regard it as the best hair preparation I know of. It keeps the scalp clean, the hair soft and lively, and preserves the original color. My wife has used it for a long time with most satisfactory results."—Benjamin M. Johnson, M. D., Thomas Hill, Mo.

"My hair was becoming harsh and dry, but after using half a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor it grew black and glossy. I cannot express the joy and gratitude I feel."—Miss C. Hardy, Delavan, Ill.

COOL BAKER'S FAMOUS EULOGY.

It Was Delivered Over the Victim of Judge Terry's Cruel Skill.

The following funeral oration pronounced by Colonel E. D. Baker, on the occasion of the burial of Senator David C. Boderick, who was shot by the late Judge Terry, has passed into history as one of the finest eulogies ever delivered. The senator was killed by Judge Terry in a duel in California on September 13th, 1859:

A senator lies dead in our midst! He is wrapt in a bloody shroud, and we, to whom his toils and cares were given, are about to bear him to the place appointed for all the living. It is not fit that such a man should pass to the tomb unheralded; it is not fit that such a death should call forth no rebuke, or be followed by no public lamentation. It is this conviction which impels the gathering of this assemblage. We are here of every nation and pursuit, of every creed and character, each in his capacity of citizen, to swell the mournful tribute which the majesty of the people offers to the unreplying dead.

He lies to-day surrounded by little of funeral pomp. No banners droop over the bier, no melancholy music floats upon the reluctant air. The hopes of high hearted friends droop like fading flowers upon his breast, and the struggling sigh compels the tear in the eye that seldom weeps. Around him are those who had known him best and loved him longest; who have shared the triumph and endured the defeat. Near him are the gravest and noblest of the state, possessed by a grief at once earnest and sincere; while beyond, the masses of the people whom he loved, and for whom his life was given, gather like a thunder cloud of swelling and indignant grief.

In such a presence, fellow citizens, let us linger for a moment at the portals of the tomb, whose shadowy arches vibrate to the public heart, to speak a few brief words of the man, and of his death. Up to the time of his arrival in California, his life had been passed among events incident to such a character. Fearless, self-reliant, open in his emotions, warm in his friendships, welded to his opinions, and marching directly to his purpose through and over all opposition, his career was checkered with success and defeat; but even in defeat his energies were strengthened and his career developed.

When he reached these shores, his keen observation taught him at once that he trod a broad field, and that a higher career was before him. He had no false pride; sprung from a people and a race whose vocation was labor, he toiled with his own hands, and sprang at a bound from the workshop to the legislative hall. From that time there congregated around him and against him the elements of success and defeat—strong friendships, bitter enmities, high praise, malignant calumnies—but he trod with a free and proud step that onward path which has led him to glory and the grave.

Fellow citizens! the man whose body lies before you was your senator. From the moment of his election his character has been maligned, his motives attacked, his courage impeached, his patriotism assailed. It has been a system tending to one end. What was his crime? Review his history—consider his public acts weigh his private character—and before the grave encloses forever judgment between him and his enemies! It was his boast, and amid the general license of a new country, it was a proud one, that his most scrutinizing enemy could fix no single act of immorality upon him! Temperate, decorous, self-restrained, he passed through all the excitement of California unshaken. No man could charge him with broken faith or violated trust; of habits simple and inexpensive, he had no lust of gain. He overreached no man's weakness in a bargain, and withheld from no man his just dues. Never, in the history of the state, has there been a citizen who has borne public relations more stainless in all respects than he.

One year ago to-day I performed a duty such as I perform to-day, over the remains of senator Ferguson, who died as Broderick died, tangled in the meshes of the code of honor. To-day there is a more eminent sacrifice. To-day I renew my protest; to-day I utter yours. The code of honor is a delusion and a snare; it patters with the hope of true courage and binds it to the feet of crafty and cruel skill. It surrounds its victim with the pomp and grace of the procession, but leaves him bleeding on the altar. It is a shield, dized with the name of chivalry, to cover the malignity of murder, a citizen who has borne public relations more stainless in all respects than he.

It substitutes cold and deliberate preparation for courageous and manly impulse, and arms the one to disarm the other; it may prevent fraud between practiced duellists, who should be forever without its pale, but it makes the mere "trick of the weapon" superior to the noblest cause and truest courage. Its pretense of equality is a lie—it is equal in all the form, it is unjust in all the substance—the habit of arms, the early training, the frontier life, the border war, the sectional custom, the life of leisure, all these are advantages which no negotiation can neutralize and which no courage can overcome.

And now, as the shadow turns toward the east, and we prepare to bear these poor remains to their last resting place, let us not seek to repress the generous pride which prompts the recital of noble deeds and manly virtues. He rose unaided and alone; he began without family or fortune, in the face of difficulties; he inherited poverty and obscurity; he died a senator in congress, having written his name in the history of the great struggle for the rights of the people against the despotism of organization and the corruption of power.

He leaves in the hearts of his friends the tenderest and proudest recollections. He was honest, faithful, earnest, sincere, generous and brave; he felt in all the great crisis of his life that it was his high duty to uphold the interest of the masses; that he could not falter. When he returned from the fatal field, while the dark wing of the archangel of death was casting its shadow upon his brow, his greatest anxiety was for the performance of his duty. He felt that all his strength and his life belonged to the cause to which he had devoted them.

"Baker," said he—and to me they were his last words—"Baker, when I was struck I had to stand firm, but the blow blinded me and I could not." I trust that it is no shame to my manhood that tears blinded me as he said it. Of his last hour I have no heart to speak. He was the last of his race; there was no kindred hand to smooth his couch or wipe the death damp from his brow; but round that dying bed strong men, the friends of his early manhood, the devoted adherents of later life, bowed in irrepressible grief, "and lifted up their voices and wept."

But fellow citizens the voice of lamentation is not uttered by private friendship aloud—the blow that struck his manly breast has touched the heart of a people, and as the tidings spread, a general gloom prevails. Who now shall speak for California?—who will be the interpreter of the wants of the Pacific coast?

"Ah, who that gallant spirit shall resume, Leap from Eutaw's bank, and call us from the tomb?"

But the last words must be spoken, and the imperious mandate of death must be fulfilled. Thus, O heart! we bear thee to thy rest. Thus, surrounded by tens of thousands, we leave thee to the equal grave.

Distress After Eating.
This result of indigestion will no longer be experienced if Simons' Liver Regulator is taken after each meal. It is such a good digester, and so mild and pleasant in its effect that it is used by many, after a hearty meal, to insure good digestion. The Regulator does not nauseate or irritate the stomach, but corrects acidity, dispels flat gases, allays irritation, and assists the stomach in its digestion.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

The British Columbia Salmon Pack.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 18.—The Colonist this morning printed the salmon pack of British Columbia to date, totaling 379,000 cases, being 127,000 cases above the largest pack of any previous year. Of this amount the northern canneries contributed 100,000 cases, the remainder being from Fraser river. Fish are still running freely on the latter, and some canneries will pack fall salmon. It is estimated that the year's pack will reach 420,000 cases. This has all been sold at $5.50 to $6.20, and calculating at $7 per case makes a total value of over two millions and a half of dollars. The Fraser canneries have from 10,000 to 30,000 cases each.

DYSPEPSIA.

It is that misery experienced when we suddenly become aware that we possess a diseased arrangement called a stomach. The stomach is the reservoir from which every fibre and tissue must be nourished, and any trouble with it is soon felt throughout the whole system. Among a dozen dyspepsias no two will have the same predominant symptoms. Dyspepsias of active mental power and bilious temperament are subject to Sick Headache; those, fleshy and phlegmatic have Constipation; while the thin and nervous are abandoned to gloomy forebodings. Some dyspepsias are wonderfully forgetful; others have great irritability of temper. Whatever form, Dyspepsia may take, one thing is certain, the underlying cause is in the LIVER, and one thing more is equally certain, no one will remain a dyspeptic who will

It will correct Acidity of the Stomach, Expel foul gases, Allay Irritation, Assist Digestion, and, at the same time

Start the Liver to working, when all other troubles soon disappear.

"My wife was a confirmed dyspeptic. Some three years ago by the advice of Dr. Steiner, of Augusta, she was induced to try Simmons' Liver Regulator. I feel grateful for the relief it has given her, and may all who read this and are afflicted in any way, whether chronic or otherwise, use Simmons' Liver Regulator and I feel confident health will be restored to all who will be advised.—Wm. M. Kincaid, Fort Valley, Ga.
