By a notice published in another column it will be seen that the house hold furniture of Capt. W. P. Whit-comb will be sold at public auction at 10 o'clock Thursday morning at Hustler's dock.

The Columbia sailed for San Francisco yesterday with the following freight from here: 1,705 bdls shooks, 1,383 bdls laths, 243 bdls pickets, 410 cases salmon, 90 sks oysters, and ten tons assorted truck.

Mr. A. M. Cumming one of the owners of the cranberry ranch near Ilwaco came up from Oakland, Cal., yesterday bringing with him 29 China men, making in all 50 men employed in picking the berries. Next year Mr. Cumming intends to do all his picking with white labor.

Early Yesterday morning the nose of Mrs. Rastkaka, a Russian Finn lady, who lives in upper Astoria, com-menced bleeding and all efforts to check it for twelve hours were futile, until she was brought down to Dr. Fulton. She was taken home very weak from loss of blood.

Last evening Job Ross celebrated his seventy-eighth birthday by a family reunion at his residence. Among those present were N. Clinton and family, Mrs. L. P. Hall and family, Mrs. Elizabeth Coe and family, J. R. Hall and wife and a number of others. At a late hour the reunion broke up, after wishing the old gentleman many happy returns of the day.

Astoria manufacturers seem to be able to compete with those of other cities in the manufacture of boxes at any rate. The Astoria box factory has just filled an order for a car load of boxes for the cracker factory at Tacoma. There should be more mauufacturies in this city to not only supply the home demand but to supply the wants of outlying districts.

The Essie Tittell dramatic company gave the second performance at the opera house last evening, it being only fairly patronized. The comedy drama entitled "Our Boarding House" fairly brought down the house and as on the previous evening the perfor-mance gave general satisfaction. Tonight the Irish comedy drama "Colleen Bawu" will be produced:

The funeral of the late Joseph T. Brown took place yesterday from the residence of his mother, and from there the funeral cortege moved to the Catholic church where high mass was said. Rescue No. 2, Astoria No. 1, and the Tender compady attended in a body, followed by a large concourse of sorrowing friends, and all that was mortal of poor Joe, as he was familiarly known, was laid to rest in the hillside cemetery.

In regard to the comment which ap-peared in yesterday's Oregonian concerning the affidavit of health officer Estes in the Jim Turk case, the doctor has the affidavits of deputy sheriff Kinney who arrested Turk, and Mr. Danziger, one of Turk's bondsmen, and the evidence of others to the effect that Turk's delirious condition at the time was exactly as the doctor's affidavit stated, and he will be pleased to submit the evidence to anyone who may have inferred from the remarks in yesterday's Oregonian, that he had done anything unprofessional.

Yesterday morning while some of the crew of the U.S. fish commissioners' steamer Albatross were burning the paint off one of the combings of a hatch on the stern of the vessel the paint caught fire making quite a little blaze, and sending up very heavy black smoke causing some one on the shore to give the alarm of fire. In a few moments an excited crowd was on the streets shouting out that the Albatross was on fire. The fire bell sounded, and the department re-sponded promptly, but their services were not needed, as the fire was put out without resultant damage

As is too often the case when in teresting news is awaiting transmis-sion, the line "went down" yesterday afternoon just before THE ASTORIAN telegraphic report of the tourna-ment at Tacoma could be sent. Private dispatches received in the city yesterday in regard to the time made in the wet test contest were somewhat conflicting. But it is probable that the report that Rescues made the wet test in 34 1-10 seconds was correct. Thus breaking the record, which was made at Denver last August by Aspen Hose No. 1, in 34 1-5 seconds. Rescues' time beats that by one tenth of a sec-

The Tillamook Headlight correctly remarks that "what this country needs is a large number of settlers of courageous minds and hardy physical strength; who are willing to endure a few hardships while they are carving out a home in the forest. Such a class of citizens is to be desired very much. Clerks and professional men are good in their place, but are very apt to get discouraged when it come The Potter leaves here every morning at 7 o'clock with the exception of Monday morning. This is the latest. at our desk writing on the subject, it seems easy enough, and we feel now as if we could "log over" a quarter section of land or clear out a farm in a few minutes, but we have found by actual experience that it is no afternoon picnic, and that it takes many a hard, well directed stroke to accom-plish much. A LITTLE JOURNEY FROM HOME.

Notes of a Trip By Land and Water

TACOMA, Sept, 15, '89. "The train starts for Tacoma at ten o'clock to-night," was told the writer last Saturday evening in Portland. So, at ten o'clock he was in a seat in a Northern Pacific car headed for the scene of the tournament. But when ten o'clock came, came not the departure of the train, but three bag-gage smashers who leisurly began to they go to Salem to attend the state gage smashers who leisurily began to toss trunks and gripsacks on a van and wheel it to the baggage car. With considerable hilarity they kept this up till 10:26 when the train started, everyone being agreed that had they known the train was going to be about half an hour late, they wouldn't have burried so. have hurried so.:

At one the next morning a late supper or an early breakfast was eaten on board the transfer boat Tacoma while crossing the Columbia, and between six and seven that morning the terraced streets of Tacoma were seen.

To an Astorian who notes the present street improvements going on in Astoria, Tacoma's streets do not seem so irregular. In general the town has an out-all-night sort of ap pearance: on the east side of the street the second stories are flush with the sidewalk, and the occupants can look over the roofs of their neighbors farther down the hills.

Tacoma has fine wide avenues, and a large number of substantial buildings are going up,

"The train for Seattle starts at 7:30," was the answer to a question and as "train leaves Tacoma for Seattle at 7:30 A. M.," was in the advertisement in the paper the writer supposed that could be relied upon. But, like the previous evening in Portland, it was a previous evening in Portland, it was a neice of of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Allen, sort of go-as-you-please affair. The train that should have gone at 7:30, got away at 8:15.

We dwellers in Astoria, who are used to having a boat that advertises to leave at a certain hour, go prompt ly at that hour, would think it singu lar to have it wait till thirty or forty minutes after its advertised time of leaving, but the passengers here took it in such a matter-of-course way as to make it appear that such delay was an ordinary and usual occurrence Besides the distinction of being a slow train and a late one, the train that the writer rode on from Tacoma to Seattle this morning is a "go-as you-please," in every sense.

The brakeman, who seemed op-pressed with the weight of his dignity, sat down in the same car that some ladies were occupying and deliberately smoked a stinkadoro cigar. The conductor passed and repassed; one lady coughed and audibly won-dered if there was a smoking car on the train. The conductor never tumbled the brakeman kept on placidly smoking, and encouraged by such go ings on, two of the passengers began smoking short black pipes. Two babies woke and began to cry; the smoke grew thicker (this was in a regular passenger car) and at last the ladies chokingly withdrew.

The train wabbled slowly along through a beautiful country. On each side for nearly thirty miles was rich flat land, with clustering hop vines laden with ripe hops, in large tracts, and fat cattle eating the after and an aged father and brothers and one sister all well known in this city. The deceased leaves a large circle of sorrowing friends to mourn his early death. The funeral will take place from the residence of Capt. J. G. Hustler at 11 A. M. today. The interment will be in the hillside cemetery.

and tumble-down shacks the exception. There was almost a complete absence of all fruit: every few miles tracts covered with ash, cottonwood and vine naple were being cleared away and the sod turned over. Hops is the great crop in that valley. This year $1,300,000 worth of hops will be grass in green meadows.

All over the large area swept by fire last June are going up solid brick and iron structures; where formerly stood the wharves a new system of wharves and docks is building, Meanwhile business goes on in tents. The most of those doing business under canvas expect to get under substantia roofs before the rains set in.

The work of rebuilding doesn't stop night nor day, and everything is crowded to completion.

Some of the make shifts are comical, and show how hard pressed business men have been to keep on.

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer occupies an antiquated dwelling on Fourth and Columbia avenue, while substantial quarters are being built. The reporters write on a fir slab in what was the kitchen, the paper is mailed in a wood shed, the press, a wheezy old affair, is protected by a tarpaulin stretched on four posts in the orehard; a road engine, such as is ordinarily used for threshing machines, etc., is under an apple tree and furnishes motive power; the type is set in a barn, where rough oil lamps shed the best light procurable. In these cramped quarters, Washington's leading newspaper, which costs $10,000 a month to run, is got out daily or nightly.

A section about as long as from Trullinger's mill to the Clatsop mill, and as wide as from Flavel's wharf to the Catholic church was swept com-pletely by the fire. At the present rate there will be no cinders or ruins observable in eighteen months from

Returning to Tacoma the afternoon on the steamer North Pa-cific, for just half what it cost to enjoy the brakeman's eigar on the morning train, a large number of firemen were found from various places, who will meet this week in friendly rivalry.

A Scrap of Paper Saves Her Life It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed tes than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, she bought a larger bottle, it helped her more, bought another and grew better fast, a larger bottle, it helped her more, bought another and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 40 pounds. carable. Cured by Cultura Remotides.

My disease (psoriasis) first broke out on my left cheek, spreading across my nose, and almost covering my, face, It ran into my eyes, and the physician was afraid I would lose my eyesight altogether. It spread all over my head, and my hair all fell out, until I was entirely baid-headed; it then broke out on my arms and shoulders, until my arms were just ope sore. It covered my entire body, my face, head, and shoulders being the worst. The white scabs fell constantly from my head, shoulders, and arms ! she skin would thicken and be red and very iteby, and would crack and bleed if soratched. After spending many hundreds of dollars. I was pronounced incurable. I heard of the Cuthoura Kements, and after using two bottles Cuthoura Remonts, and after using two bottles Cuthoura Hemoty-ken four bottles, I was almost cured; and when I had used six bottles of Cuthoura Resolvent, and one box of Cuthoura and one cake of Cuthoura Soar, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years. I thought the disease would leave a very deep rear, but the Cuthoura Remembers cured; it without any sears. I cannot express with a pen what I suffered before using the Cuthoura Remembers. They saved my life, and I feel it my duty to recommend them. My hair is restored as good as ever, and so is my eyesight. I know of a number of different persons who have used the Cuthoura Remembers, and all have received great benefit from their use. Mis ROSA KELLY, Rockwell City, Calhoun Co., Iowa,
