Grand jury comes in, presents fol-lowing report and are discharged;

In the circuit court of the state of Oregon, for the county of Clatsop. To Hon. F. J. Taylor, judge of said Court:

The undersigned, your grand jury, submit the following report:

We have investigated all charges brought before us, and disposed of the cases in such marmer as seemed to us warranted by the evidence.

We visited the county jail, and find that it is properly and efficiently managed, but badly out of repair and we recommend new flooring and thorough and extensive repairs.
We also find that there is no cell suitable for the temporary confinement of insane persons, and we recommend diately.

The city jail we also find properly kept, but recommend that it be so altered and repaired as to afford better light to the inmates, as at present it is so dark as to necessitate the burning of gas during the hours of day-light.

The court house, which was built thirty or forty years ago has about outlived its usefulness, and is a dis-grace to the great and growing county of Clatsop, and we recommend that the county take immediate steps to secure a suitable site for a new court that the city was ready to receive the bouse, and that it shall, as soon as practicable, build a court house adesion of First street. quate to the increased and constantly increasing business of the county.

We did not think it necessary or practicable to attempt a minute ex-amination of the books and accounts of the various county officers. We heard no complaints against any of them, and so far as we have been able to observe they are properly and efficiently performing their business duties.

We recommend that a safe be pur-chased for the use of the sheriff, and we further recomend that the county provide for said office permanent books, and ledgers. Those now kept are furnished by the sheriffs themprovide selves, and are private property, which each outgoing sheriff takes away with him, at the end of his term.

We visited St. Mary's hospital, which is the county hospital, and found it excellently managed, and in every way worthy of commendation. It is neat, clean and comfortable, and situated in a healthful locality, and the patients kindly waited upon and cared for.

And having now completed ou labors we ask to be discharged. A. V. Allen,

Is Consumption Incurable?
