The old road had about fallen into disuse, but is now possible again.

There was a dreamy autumnal flavor in the air yesterday; the smoky hills seemed withdrawn afar in Time's remotest blue; all sights were mellowed and all sounds subdued; and the stream ran smooth and twinkling in the hazy yellow sunlight.

W. T. Burney and L. T. Barin have a legal copartnership at Oregon City.

Mr. Hugg had gotten up about two o'clock in the morning and had gone out of doors to see if his barn was in danger of being destroyed by the fire that was burning near by, and he had just gone out in time for a tree to come crashing down upon him.

In the circuit court yesterday an injunction was filed by Robt' Carruthers on behalf of the city, enjoining the mayor or city clerk from issuing any city warrant in compliance with ordinances refunding money to men who had paid for liquor licenses and on going out of business had petitioned to have a portion of the money so paid refunded to them.

Wednesday night just before the steamer Lurline left Portland for Astoria, one of the waiters slipped and fell from the upper deck to the dock, striking on his chin and falling limp as a rag into the Willamette. One of the deck hands seeing the accident jumped overboard and rescued the drowning man, who on being brought ashore was found to be dangerously hurt. He was taken to St. Vincent's hospital.

Says the Seattle Press of the 24th: Several races bid fair to grow out of the late tournament at Tacoma.

Yesterday Capt. I. H. Albertson, of the Seattle hose team received a challenge from the Astoria team to run 150 yards for $1,000.

This challenge the boys will not accept, the distance being too short, but a counter challenge will be sent the Astorians to run 300 yards for $1,000 the race to take place in Seattle at any time the Astorians may select.

The signal service has under consideration the adoption of a new signal to take the place of the cautionary signal now in use along the coasts.

It is a yellow pennant and is intended to signify that the service has information of value to mariners.

Under the present arrangements slips are sometimes held in port when it would be safe for them to sail, owing to the lack of definiteness of the storm signal.

The adoption of the yellow pennant is urged by all interested who have been consulted about it, and it will probably soon be added to the code.

When that is done storm signals will only be displayed when high winds are reported within 100 miles of the stations at which they fly.

Any person entitled to pre-empt and homestead a quarter section of land may exercise both privileges by taking the pre-emption first. The government laws prohibit anyone from leaving any land of his own to pre-empt, and if a homestead or timber claim is desired, it can be taken after the pre-emption has been secured.

By taking this course, a man can secure 480 acres of land in this locality, but "timber culture claims" and "desert land" are not found in this locality. A pre-emption is obtained by six months residence and the payment of $125 per acre within thirty-three months from settlement.

A residence of five years, and the payment of $22 and other small fees at the land office, is necessary to secure a homestead or it may be commuted on the terms of a pre-emption. Lands, valuable chiefly for timber or stone, may be purchased direct from the government at $2.50 per acre.

School lands are sold at $1.25 per acre, on easy terms, and the amount sold to one person is limited to 320 acres.

Tide lands are sold by the state on similar terms to the school lands. There is also, a special provision for selling mineral and coal lands direct from the government.

Land is to be obtained under all these provisions in this county at present, but the influx of immigration will make it difficult to get good locations after this year.

World Plead Guilty To Save Him. When lovely woman stoops to folly And finds too late that men betray, What charm can soothe her melancholy? What grief can wash her guilt away?

Woman's ill bestowed regard, and the constancy with which she clings to the object of her affections, however unworthy, has long been the theme of the poet and the moralist.

This phase of life was fittingly illustrated yesterday in the circuit court. Some time ago a being that was once a man and answers to the name of George Smith, in company with a girl called Edith Holmes, stole a watch and ring, and secreted them in the top story of a First street drive.

When apprehended Smith managed to get his frail partner implicated, and they were jointly indicted. Although knowing that he had tried to get her imprisoned and convicted to save himself, the Holmes girl told the judge that she would plead guilty and take all the burden upon herself if he would let Smith go.

They were both convicted yesterday afternoon, and will be sentenced next Monday.

Adjoined to 9 A. M., Sept. 27th. Alaska Salmon Fishing. The work throughout the Karluk river was comparatively poor.

The highest catch was made at South End, Lewis Worth being in charge of the seine. The biggest lot pulled in in one haul was 7,610.

The red salmon, which is the most sought for, was the scarcest in the river. Those that were in the river were also shy of the bait.

There are seven canneries on the Karluk river, which is two in excess of last season, and yet the entire catch is almost 40 per cent. less than that of last year.

The salmon after being caught are handled entirely by Chinese. A large force of Chinese are necessarily employed. Their ingenuity and business-like methods have been developed during their stay in the north, and this season they were prepared for action, and ready to turn everything to account.

The packing companies are so careful of their employes that they will allow them to have no liquor on the ground. The Chinese, knowing of this, took up a considerable quantity of Sam Shu, or Chinese gin, and their wet merchandise netted them a handsome profit.

The stuff, which is horrible at its best, cost the Chinese about 90 cents a gallon, and they sold it for $2 a quart bottle. The moon at South End did no fishing at night, as they were not prepared for the work, having no lanterns with them.

Had they been able to work at night it is claimed that they could have caught double the number of salmon. Twelve thousand cases were put up at the new cannery when 30,000 cases were counted on at the lowest estimate.

The catch all around in Alaskan waters is said to have fallen far below that of previous seasons. - S. F. Chronicle, 23.

Edwin S. Miller to-day began suit against J. W. Bailey, to recover $1,000.47. Miller alleged that while he and Bailey were partners in business they made several promissory notes, payable to Wadhams & Elliot, for goods.

On the 7th of September 1885, the co-partnership of Bailey & Miller was dissolved, when Bailey agreed for valuable consideration, to liquidate the debts existing against the firm, excepting one due J. A. Folger & Co., of San Francisco.

It is alleged that Bailey wholly failed to keep his part of the agreement, and on the 19th of last August, William Wadhams began suit against the defunct firm for the amount due his firm $1,162.90.

In order to secure withdrawal of the action from the court, Miller made a partial payment to Wadhams & Elliot, of $1,006.47, on the 14th of last September, which Bailey refused to refund.
