Cough medicines, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is in greater demand than ever. No preparation for Throat and Lung Troubles is so prompt in its effects, so agreeable to the taste, and so widely known, as this. It is the family medicine in thousands of households.

"I have suffered for years from a bronchial trouble that, whenever I take cold or am exposed to inclement weather, shows itself by a very annoying tickling sensation in the throat and by difficulty in breathing. I have tried a great many remedies, but none does so well as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral which always gives prompt relief in returns of my old complaint."—Ernest A. Hepler, Inspector of Public Roads, Parish Terre Bonne, La.

For Home Use.

I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults."—Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

"Twenty years ago I was troubled with a disease of the lungs. Doctors afforded me no relief and considered my case hopeless. I then began to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and before I had finished one bottle, found relief. I continued to take this medicine until a cure was effected. I believe that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life."—Samuel Griego, Waukegan, Ill.

"Six years ago I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs and soon developed all the alarming symptoms of Consumption. I had a cough, night sweats, bleeding of the lungs, pains in chest and sides, and was so prostrated as to be confined to my bed most of the time. After trying various prescriptions, without benefit, my physician finally determined to give me Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took it, and the effect was magical. I seemed to rally from the first dose of this medicine, and, after using only three bottles, am as well and sound as ever."—Rodney Johnson, Springfield, Ill.

THE CHINOOK MIRACLE.

Marvelous Tales of the Effects of the Spice-Laden Wind from the Pacific.

As soon as you get into the Dakotas you hear of "the chinooks." From that you go westward, the story grows bigger. The chinook is a warm wind which comes from the Pacific, crosses the Cascade and the Rocky mountain ranges, and makes its genial influence felt as far as the eastern border of the Dakotas. The farmers on the prairies do not know whence the chinook cometh or whether it goeth, but they do know that it is a blessed reality.

When the mercury is a way down in the thirties below zero, so near the bulb that there is danger of its going out of sight, the eyes of the people of three of the four new states turn hopefully to the west. By and by there appears just above the western horizon a gray cloud, like floating mist, no larger than a man's hand, perhaps. That is the sure forerunner of the chinook. The cold may be intense; water courses may be frozen to the bottom; cattle may be perishing from hunger; the ground may be covered many inches deep with snow; existence may seem a burden to all things animate. Then the cloud appears. Twelve hours later what a transformation! There is the breath of spring in the air. The snow is going off. The cattle are browsing on the bunchgrass. The coulees are full of running water. Doors are ajar, windows are open, and everybody is out in the open air. The chinook has wrought the change.

When you ask the Dakotan about the blizzards he admits that they are severe, but as an offset he glories the chinook. In Montana the big stockman still holds to the theory that he can carry his herds through the winter without feeding if only the chinooks are frequent enough. But in Washington on the big prairies between the Cascades and the Rockies, the most marvelous tales of all are told.

In the closing hours of the constitutional convention of Washington, a delegate offered a resolution to the effect that there be incorporated in the instrument a declaration that natives of this new state be known hereafter as "chinookers." The appropriateness of the name, he argued, was found in the fact that chinook meant warm breath. He believed it was much better than the present custom of calling Washington people west of the Cascades "clam eaters," and those east "bunchgrassers."

S. G. Cosgrove, of Pomeroy, is the department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic for Washington. He enjoys the distinction of being the only private elevated to that position. He came west from Ohio, where he was a prominent educator. Telling of what he had known the chinook to accomplish, Mr. Cosgrove said this:

"I have seen eight feet of snow—that is eight feet measured as it fell from time to time—go off the ground in twelve hours. That was the hardest winter I have known in Washington. Usually the chinooks are so frequent that the snow has no opportunity to accumulate. But that winter it lay nineteen days before melting. The farmers have not prepared for it and the cattle had a hard time getting through. There was an interesting exhibition of the instinct of the poor brutes. At the first sign of the chinook the old cows which had been about to drop with hunger, could be seen staggering toward the tops of the hills. They seemed to know that there the snow would melt fastest and the grass be uncovered soonest. In eastern Washington you can see teams working in the fields every month in the winter. We have days which are cold and when the ground freezes to some depth, but one day's chinooking will take all the frost out of the ground. You may not believe it, but I have seen six inches of frost go out of the ground in one hour. That is a pretty big story to tell farmers back in the Mississippi valley, but it is true."

It is a positive cure for syphilitic poisoning, Ulcers, Eruptions and Bumps. It purifies the whole system and throughly builds up the constitution. J. W. Conn, Druggist.

GUARD AGAINST THE STRIKE.
And always have a bottle of Ayer's English Remedy in the house. You cannot tell how soon you may strike your life to one, or a cold or cough may fasten itself upon you. One dose is a preventive and a few doses a positive cure. All Throat and Lung troubles yield to its treatment. A sample bottle is given you free and the Remedy guaranteed by J. W. Conn, Druggist.

This country has 1,000 canning factories, and leads the world.
If the food is not properly digested it becomes corrupt, and poisons the system it was intended to nourish. This is indigestion.
My wife has suffered for many years with indigestion. After trying everything else recommended, she tried Simmons' Liver Regulator. In three days after taking it according to directions she was in perfect health; she does not suffer at all and can eat anything she wants without any of her previous symptoms." W. C. NOTHING LIKE IT
Its peculiar efficacy is due as much to the process and skill in compounding as to the ingredients themselves. Take it in time. It checks diseases in the outset, or if they be advanced will prove a potent cure.

No Home should be Without It.

It takes the place of a doctor and costly prescriptions. All who lead sedentary lives and find the best preventive of all and cure for Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, Biliousness, Piles and Mental Depression. No loss of time, no interference with business while taking. For children it is most innocent and harmless. No danger from exposure after taking. Cures Colic, Diarrhea, Bowel Complaints, Feverishness and Nervousness. Invalids and delicate persons will find it the mildest Aperient and Tonic they can use. A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.
"I have been practicing medicine for twenty years and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons' Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system."
J. M. Huxton, M.D., Washington, Ark.

The theatrical business in Pompeii, which has been at a standstill since the eruption of Vesuvius, in 79, A. D., appears to be looking up, judging from the following announcement of Signor Luigni: "After a lapse of more than 1,800 years, the theater of this city will be opened with 'La Figlia del Reggimento.' I solicit a continuance of the favors bestowed on my predecessor, Marcus Quintus Martius, and beg to assure the public that I will make every effort to equal the rare qualities displayed during his management."

People of sedentary habits, who are subject to constipation, can regulate their bowels by the use of Ayer's Pills.
