Monkey Miners.

Captain E. Metz tells a story of the queer little animals who work for him in the mines. He is from Vermont, and fought in the Union army during the rebellion and settled in the south after the war. His mines are situated near Chesterfield, in South Carolina, about twenty miles off the railroad.

"I have twenty-four monkeys," said he, "employed about my mines. They do the work well of seven able-bodied men, and it is no reflection upon the human laborers to say they do a class of work a man cannot do as well. In many instances they lead valuable aid where a man would be useless. They gather up small pieces of quartz that would pass unnoticed by the workman and pile them up in little heaps that can be easily gathered up in a shovel and thrown into the mill. They are exceedingly adept at catching the little particles. Their sharp eyes never escape the very things that the human eyes would pass over."

"How did you first come to employ them?" "When I went to digging gold I had two monkeys that were exceedingly interesting pets. They were constantly following me about the mines, and one day I noticed they were busily engaged in gathering up little bits of quartz and arranging them in piles. They seemed to enjoy the labor very much and would go to the mines every morning and work there during the day. It did not take me long to catch on to their value as laborers, for at that time our workmen, who are mostly colored men, were unskilled and oftentimes useless. My two pets had not worked long before I decided to procure more. So I immediately imported a number, and now have two dozen working daily in and about my mines. It is exceedingly interesting to watch my two pet monkeys teach the new ones how to work, and strange to see how the new-comers take to it."

"Strange to say they control themselves. They work as they please, sometimes going down into the mines when they have cleaned up all the debris on the outside. They live and work together without quarreling any more than men do. They are quite methodical in their habits and go to work and quit like true workmen."

LOOK OUT FOR FIRE.

To Theater Owners, Managers and Whom it May Concern: This is to certify that I have equipped the Windsor theater in Astoria with the Lindgren stationary chemical fire engine. After examining all other systems of fire protection, and after repeated tests of the Lindgren stationary chemical fire engine, and upon the recommendation of the insurance underwriters, I have no hesitation in pronouncing it the cheapest and most powerful, as well as perfect, fire protection for theaters ever invented. In my opinion every theater and opera house in the United States, as well as Europe, should be equipped with these chemical fire engines, and thus save the loss of life and thousands of dollars in property.

Respectfully, H. I. GOLDY, Owner Windsor Theater, Chicago, Ill.

See What a Practical Fireman Says.

Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 19, 1896. To Whom it May Concern: This is to certify that I, George A. Burbank, witnessed the exhibition of the Lindgren chemical engine test to-day, and as I have witnessed a great many such chemical tests in New York City, Boston, Mass., and other large cities in the East, I hereby state that it was the quickest and most satisfactory test, and was also pronounced so by two of our councilmen and all the citizens present, and I will also state that the time of applying the chemical was left entirely to me and I did not give the word until the fire was well started. In other tests I have witnessed, they have always put the chemical on the minute the fire was started and water would answer just as well as there was no fire at all. I take great pleasure in recommending the "Lindgren" as far superior to any other "chemical" engine on the market.

(Signed) GEORGE A. BURBANK, Secretary Paid Fire Department, Director of the Northwestern Fire Association. Was last year Secretary of the Northwestern Fireman's Association.

The above engines are made in one, three and five-gallon sizes for hand use; sixty-gallon single tank on two wheels, two eighty-gallon tanks on four wheels, sixty, one hundred, three hundred and five hundred-gallon stationary; other sizes made to order.
