Long-Standing

Blood Diseases are cured by the persevering use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

This medicine is an Alterative, and causes a radical change in the system. The process, in some cases, may not be quite so rapid as in others; but, with persistence, the result is certain. Read these testimonials:—
"For two years I suffered from a severe pain in my right side, and had other troubles caused by a torpid liver and dyspepsia. After giving several medicines a fair trial without a cure, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was greatly benefited by the first bottle, and after taking five bottles I was completely cured."—John W. Benson, 70 Lawrence st., Lowell, Mass.

Last May a large carbuncle broke out on my arm. The usual remedies had no effect and I was confined to my bed for eight weeks. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Less than three bottles healed the sore. In all my experience with medicine, I never saw more

Wonderful Results.

Another marked effect of the use of this medicine was the strengthening of my sight."—Mrs. Carrie Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

"I had a dry scaly humor for years, and suffered terribly; and, as my brother and sister were similarly afflicted, I presume the malady is hereditary. Last winter, Dr. Tyson, (of Ferdinand, Fla.) recommended me to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and continue it for a year. For five months I took it daily. I have not had a blotch upon my body for the last three months."—T. E. Wiley, 146 Chambers st., New York City.

"Last fall and winter I was troubled with a dull, heavy pain in my side. I did not notice it much at first, but it gradually grew worse until it became almost unbearable. During the latter part of this time, disorders of the stomach and liver increased my troubles. I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and after faithfully continuing the use of this medicine for some months, the pain disappeared and I was completely cured."—Mrs. Augusta A. Furbush Haverhill, Mass.

The Lowest of Human Beings.

The advertising columns of the London news, papers have recently announced that nine cannibals from Fearful Fango would be fed three times a day in view of the audience at the Aquarium. At 2, 6 and 10 o'clock, the spectators have enjoyed the privilege of seeing these specimens of an extraordinary type of American savage, beat their beef and fish over a fire, and then tear the flesh to pieces with their fingers and devour it practically raw.

This family of Ona Indians are the only representatives of their large tribe that have ever been taken from their homes. The thing about the Onas which most stimulates scientific interest and popular curiosity is the fact that they are regarded by some authorities as the lowest stratum of civilized humanity that has yet been discovered. This family now in London seem to possess the most limited vocabulary. Lista said he could not learn that the Onas have any words except those relating to hunting and fishing and the few natural objects that interest them. Popper could never get them to speak except in monosyllables, and they seldom made themselves intelligible. It is probable that their vocabulary does not embrace more than 200 or 300 words.

The brief accounts given in the London newspapers of these visitors bear witness that they are blessed with wonderful appetites. The explorers who have seen them at home also testify that when food is scarce they can endure hunger with remarkable fortitude. Mr. Stubenrauch, who has a sheep ranch on the coast, tells a curious story of a captive Ona girl, about sixteen years old, who fell into his hands while he was chasing her friends, who had been stealing sheep. He says she refused to take any kind of food for eight days. On the ninth day he placed the carcass of a sheep beside her. Breakfast then began, lasted three hours, and when it was over, as Mr. Stubenrauch asserts with great solemnity, the girl's body was swollen to extraordinary dimensions and the sheep had almost entirely disappeared.

Low as these miserable creatures are in the scale of humanity, it can hardly be said that some of the poorest of the Shoshone tribes in our own latitude occupy a much higher plane. Some of the wretched natives in Nevada and other parts of the great basin, living in holes dug in hillsides, or merely sheltered by brush heaps, greedily eating food that most other savages reject, are unmistakably the poorest specimens of mankind in North America. As the western historian, Bancroft, says it is hardly possible to conceive a lower plane of humanity.—N. Y. Sun.

The Murderous Bender Family.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—N. Coberly, now a laborer of this city, tells a remarkable story of the fate of the famous Bender family of Kansas, and claims that he was one of the hundred vigilantes who hunted down the Benders, and after ridding them with bullets left their bodies unburied on the hillside, to be devoured by wild beasts.

Coberly states that in 1872 he was constable of Havana township, Montgomery county, Kas., where the Benders lived and kept a tavern. The large number of mysterious murders in the vicinity caused the citizens to organize a vigilance committee. Several suspicious characters were arrested, but finally young Bender was taken into custody and confessed that his people had murdered a prominent citizen by the name of York. In relating the circumstances of the capture of the Bender family, Coberly said: "Young Bender was taken to the banks of Dunn creek, not far distant, and the vigilantes proceeded toward the Bender tavern. I didn't go with the party to the creek, but nobody ever saw young Bender after that. At the tavern, the old couple and Kate were secured, and then began the search. Thirteen bodies, including that of York, were exhumed in the orchard. One of these was that of a child, buried with its murdered father, and the little one had evidently been entombed alive, a small feather pillow having been placed over its face with the evident intention of smothering it upon it. After the search was concluded and the mode of killing explained, namely, placing the victim seated with his back to the cloth partition, and then striking his head out there, with an ax. Old man Bender, the old woman and Kate were loaded into their own wagon and headed south. I was one of the 100 men who followed and surrounded that wagon. Reaching Rocky hill, near Cole creek, in a barren, desolate region a few miles from the Bender tavern, the team was halted, and 100 bullets whizzed through the air and the three demons were literally riddled with balls. Their bodies were not buried. They were thrown among the rocks on the hillside, where wolves probably fed upon them.

"The vigilantes took a back track. All were sworn to secrecy. No investigation of the case was ever made by Kansas authorities, but you can rest assured that the Bender family will never again be heard of in this world. Next spring three more bodies of murdered men were found in Dunn creek, and, all told, it is believed the Benders killed seventeen people, including the child that was buried alive.

A DUTY TO YOURSELF.

It is surprising that people will use a common, ordinary pill when they can secure a valuable English one for the same money. Dr. Ayer's English Pills are a positive cure for sick-headache and all liver troubles. They are small, sweet, easily taken and do not gripe. J. W. Conn, Druggist.

Down in little Cape May county,

N. J., there is a county clerk who has been continuously in office since 1840, and, previous to that time, was the deputy county clerk, commencing the latter duties when about 22 years of age. His name is Jonathan Hand, of an old and historic New Jersey family.

CAUTION TO MOTHERS.

Every mother is cautioned against giving her child laudanum or paregoric; it creates an unnatural craving for stimulants which kills the mind or the child. Ayer's Baby Soother is specially prepared to benefit children and cure their pains. It is harmless and contains no Opium or Morphine. Sold by J. W. Conn, Druggist.
