Long-Standing

Blood Diseases are cured by the persevering use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

This medicine is an Alternative, and causes a radical change in the system. The process, in some cases, may not be quite so rapid as in others; but, with persistence, the result is certain. Read these testimonials:

"For two years I suffered from a severe pain in my right side, and other troubles caused by a troubled liver and dyspepsia. After giving several medicines a fair trial without a cure, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was greatly benefited by the first bottle, and after taking five bottles I was completely cured."—John W. Benson, 70 Lawrence st., Lowell, Mass.

Last May a large carbuncle broke out on my arm. The usual remedies had no effect and I was confined to my bed for eight weeks. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Less than three bottles healed the sore. In all my experience with medicine, I never saw more

Wonderful Results.

Another marked effect of the use of this medicine was the strengthening of my sight."—Mrs. Carrie Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

"I had a dry scaly humor for years, and suffered terribly; and, as my brother and sister were similarly afflicted, I presume the malady is hereditary. Last winter, Dr. Tyron, (of Ferdinand, Fla.) recommended me to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and continue it for a year. For five months I took it daily. I have not had a blemish upon my body for the last three months."—T. E. Wiley, 145 Chambers st., New York City.

Last fall and winter I was troubled with a dull, heavy pain in my side. I did not notice it much at first, but it gradually grew worse until it became almost unbearable. During the latter part of this time, disorders of the stomach and liver increased my troubles. I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after faithfully continuing the use of this medicine for some months, the pain disappeared and I was completely cured."—Mrs. Augusta A. Furbush, Haverhill, Mass.

Characteristics of Potatoes.

Different kinds of potatoes vary widely in their habits of growth, and these must be understood if they are to be grown with success. Some need to be planted further apart than others. Some require deep plating, while others set their tubers at about the same depth wherever the seed cutting may be put. The old-fashioned peachblow had wide spreading roots, that pretty fully occupied the soil from hill to hill, if planted in rows three feet apart each way. Most of the newer kinds of potatoes, especially of the rose family, bunch their tubers all in a heap, making them easily dug. With the peachblow it was hard to tell when all the potatoes belonging to a hill were secured. If the earth were not piled up evenly about the plant, then roots with large tubers attached could often be found a foot from the hill, or even in the middle of the rows. The peachblow also usually set pretty deeply, while the early Rose is apt to be sunscalded or greened, no matter how carefully the earth is piled around the hill. In case of rot, the depth at which the tubers naturally set is a matter of much importance. The White Star and other deep setting potatoes do not rot so quickly as those which set at or just beneath the surface. The spores of the disease which cause rot fall from the vines to the tubers, if they are near the top of the ground, and in case of heavy rains they are carried down to those beneath. Often when digging potatoes that were rotting badly, we have found the only sound ones deep down at the bottom of the hill.

A great difference exists among various sorts of potatoes in withstanding excessive moisture. Some are very thin-skinned, or, rather, tender-skinned, and rot easily. The late Beauty of Hebron and the late Rose are specimens of this class. It is said that both these varieties were originated by sports, one from the early rose, and the other from the early Beauty of Hebron. They are very strong, rampant growers, and in dry seasons will yield heavily, but always ripen late. So far as our experience goes, potatoes that are copiously vigorous and prolific, but which originate from the seed hill, are less likely to rot than these two varieties. The Peerless and the White Star came from the seed, and are good keepers, but the Monroe seedling, which much resembles the White Star, and is thought by some to be only a sport, rots pretty badly. It grows more vigorously than the White Star, and the cause of its poor keeping qualities may be immaturity, leaving its skin thinner, and more liable to rub off in handling. Whatever may be the cause, potatoes that have been kept well all summer are difficult to save from rot in the fall. This is especially true where the potato blight came as the tubers were only half grown, and kept them from maturing.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION. "I have been practicing medicine for twenty years and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons' Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system."

Old Wallula is nearly extinct. In former years, during steamboat days, three old adobe buildings stood on the banks of the river, and a hotel, and this constitutes the town. The adobe consisted of Pt. Walla Walla, and the Walla Walla of to-day was the Wallatop mission, where Rev. Marcus Whitman was massacred by the Indians. Old landmarks are constantly being removed and being obliterated by time. New Wallula is a lively little town of considerable pretensions to business and railroad importance, with strong expectations for the future.

The Fruit of Violence.

In no case is the folly of violence in medication more conspicuously shown by its fruit than in the effect upon the intestines of excessive purgation. The stomach and bowels are first painfully gripped, then the latter are emptied, suddenly and repeatedly evacuated. This is far beyond the necessities of the case, most unnatural, excessively debilitating. The organs are incapacitated from resuming their function with normal moderation. An astringent is resorted to which reduces them to their former condition of inaction. This monstrous and harmful absurdity, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the happy alternative. It relaxes gently, naturally, sufficiently, it diverts bile from its blood into its proper channel, it insures healthy digestion and complete assimilation. It is a complete, safe, reliable, and certain cure for rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness, kidney and bladder trouble.

Melancholy or Despondency. Commonly called the "blues," generally proceeds from a sluggish Liver. It either causes Dyspepsia, or follows it, being both cause and effect. To cure it take Simmons' Liver Regulator.

"I was so sick and low spirited I would have given anything to get well; and if anyone had assured me the good health produced by using Simmons' Liver Regulator, and charged me a thousand dollars, I would willingly have paid it—in fact, $10,000 would be worth less to me than what it has done for me."—GEO. F. BARRETT, Macon, Ga.

Effect of a Single Vote.

Forty years ago Colonel Seaton, then mayor of the city of Washington, as was his custom gave a large dinner party at which I was present. In the course of the entertainment the importance of one vote and its consequences and good results was, among other things, the subject of conversation and Governor Corwin, then United States senator, narrated in his inimitable manner, the following to show, as he said, the bad results as well as the importance of one vote and how a pig, from whom the devil had not been cast out, nearly, in his estimation, rained the country, to wit: "In the spring of 1811, at the annual election in Rhode Island, in one of the towns or precincts the voting between the Federal and Republicans, or Democratic, Peace or War, parties had been for years very close, not more than a majority of one or two votes. The polls closed at 6 o'clock, and a Federal farmer living a mile or so distant from the voting place, having been busy all day, allowing himself just barely time to reach the polls in the evening. He hurriedly crossed his fields on foot and reaching his last, or division fence, found one of his valuable pigs fast between the planks and stopped to get it out, which he found more difficult than he expected, but he worked with all his strength to pull the pig out, and failing in that tried to pry off a plank from the fence, which, after some time, he succeeded in doing, and then started on a run for the voting place. Just as he got within 100 feet of the town clock struck 6 and the polls closed without his vote. The result was that a Democrat, or war representative from that town, was elected by one vote. When the general assembly met a few weeks afterward a Democratic, or war, United States senator was chosen on joint ballot by one majority. In 1812 the declaration of war with England was carried in the United States Senate by one vote. General Jackson was nominated as a major-general and confirmed by one vote. On January 8, 1815, he commanded the battle of New Orleans, gained a great victory, became a popular military hero, and as his reward was elected and re-elected president of the United States, turned all the whigs out of office, removed the deposits, vetoed the National bank bill, and played the devil generally; and all because that pig was up in Rhode Island got fast in a plank fence."—Indianapolis Sentinel.
