These statements are made on the avenue, New York, so this paper states, is a fine white sandstone metaphysical college devoted to the promulgation of this science. This ture and work of Christian Science in the following language:

"The physical, personal Jesus has disappeared, and mankind dwells to-day in the place he promised to prepare for us. He has come again to receive us unto himself in his Father's kiugdom—a condition of mind, not of locality."

"Then you believe that Christian Sci-suce is the second coming of Christ?" we

"The Bible declares that the second coming of Christ shall be without sin unto salvation," replied Mr. Mason. "Christian Science teaches that sin has no existence in reality. Neither, indeed, do sickness and death. They are but Him anything but 'a very present help in time of trouble.' Therefore sin destroyed to the human consciousness would in-deed be the second coming of Christ. But bear in mind this second coming of Christ is not physical, but mental." The report embraced also an account of an interview with Dr. J. F. Eastman, of which the reporter said: "Dr. J. F. Eastman agreed with all Dr. Mason had said about Christian Science healing. According to his belief, the world is entering the millennium, and depends only upon the spread of the Christian Science for a complete overthrow of sin and worldliness.

On the subject of the indefinite con-

spiritual sense?"
"I mean the physical."
"I supposed you meant that," said Dr.
Eastman with a smile, "and my answer is yes."
"Do you believe that you can sustain your own life indefinitely?"
"I do."

"Then why cannot you sustain others with the same perpetual life?"
"I can, under the right conditions."

Every man or woman who does not own a house and many that say that house hunting is harder there 1,427. than it is anywhere else, except it may be Astoria. The town is not big enough for its population, and it is essentially a city of lodging houses. It is estimated that six out of ten houserenters in Washington, take houses without any reasonable ground for believing that they will be able to pay the rent. They hope to pay it by taking lodgers during the season of congress. Tais is the reason that house-hunting is more distressing than it is in cities where the native population does not try to rent the town on speculation and thus handicap the would-be resident renter. Even the cabinet officials have had an unusually hard time, and although they have nearly all at last succeeded in getting houses, all of them are not settled. While house hunting cabinet officers have a hard time the senators and congressmen have even more obstacles to combat. an officer. Advertisements like the following crowd the daily papers:

As a rule the members of congress do not go until just before the session and then there is a grand scramble for rooms and houses.

Stry-seven million people give thanks in this nation yesterday for the pleasure and privilege of living in this favored land. Every section of the union has cause for thanks: none more so than we dwellers on this moist northwestern shore. We have peace and plenteons prosperity: our wants are commensurate with our needs and we can all have what we jike, by liking what we have. Thousands of little unnoticed blessings drop into our daily lives and the being does not exist that has not some just cause for thankfulness. In general this community has great reason the Monroe doctrine is still active.
