Sir Robert Peel's Daughter

Society has a way of avenging itself for the wrongs committed on the low-est of all its members. Sir Robert Peel gave his daughter a magnificent riding habit on her 19th birthday, and, attired in the embroidered gown she rode side by side with him in the parks of London. She had scarcely returned home before she was taken ill with the most malignant form of typhus fever and in ten days was laid rest in the churchyard. And secret was a very simple. The poor seamstress, in a one. The poor seamstress, in a garret in one of the slums, while she was embroidering that garment looked upon a husband shivering in the par-oxysm of chills, and she took the half finished garment and laid it over him and the garment took up the germs of fever and conveyed them from the hovel of the poorest to the palace of the statesman. And so we are bound together in one bundle of social life; and if we neglect the poorest and the lowest, society will avenge herself in the destruction of the highest and the richest and most cultivated.

Pay of the Census Takers.

The pay of the enumerators is based upon the density of population. In the larger cities of the state like Portland, Albany and Astoria, they will receive two cents for each name In the thickly settled farming districts they will receive two cents for each name and 15 cents for each farm described. In the more sparsely set-tled farming districts they will receive 2<sup>1</sup>4 to 3 cents per name and 20 cents per farm, and in those districts where the count is made with a great J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Philadelphia, Pa. deal of difficulty it will be the duty of the supervisor to fix the sum per capita so that the enumerator will receive at least $3 per day. Oregonian's
