RAILROAD HUMAN NATURE.
It Takes a Woman to Get There Successfully.

Now then, says the Star, one finds a person who understands railroad human nature, as exhibited by the gatekeeper in the depots. Their orders are to pass no one in without a ticket, and it is the easiest thing in the world for them to wave back old age, youth, beauty and anybody else who wants to pass in to meet a friend expected in on that train. One of the earliest officials I ever saw has a gate in the L. & N. depot in Cincinnati, and I have seen him turn stiffly away from desperate men, weeping women, and howling children. To every protestation he had but one answer: "Can't pass 'bout a ticket."

"The other day while I was watching him a little, blue-eyed woman came gliding into the throng waiting at the gates. Of the two tenders she selected this one to operate on, although any one could have seen that the other had the biggest heart. After several people had been turned away she slid forward in a graceful way and inquired:

"Beg pardon, sir; but am I speaking to the president of the road?"

"N-n, ma'am," he stammered, thrown on his beam ends by the query.

"Ah! you look so much like him. Are you the experimentalist?"

"No, ma'am—not exactly."

"Then you must be the manager?"

"Hardly, ma'am."

"Dear me! but how could the people be so mistaken," she went on, "a dozen of them said you were one of the high officials, and I am so disappointed to find you are not. Perhaps, though you have the general manager's powers when he is not here?"

"What is it, ma'am?"

"My sister will be in on the 6:30 and I so want to go inside the gates and help her with the children. As you must have the authority of the manager in his absence, I make bold to—"

"Certainly, ma'am; walk right in," he interrupted.

"You are so kind."

"Don't mention it."

"But all leading railroad men are ever courteous," she said as a parting bit of tattle and then she made a bee-line down the depot.

We turned to look at the gatekeeper and the change was surprising. He had braced up until his height was increased by four inches, his chest was thrown out, and he was standing as stiff as a crowbar while a man pounded him on the back and offered to lick the stuffing out of him if he would come off the perch. The little woman of all had found his weak spot.
