OUR LOCAL LEGISLATURE.
A Lively Time Toward the Close of the Session.
DR. TUTTLE HEALTH OFFICER.

At the regular council meeting last evening, present councilmen Bergman, Wickman and Welch, mayor Crosby in the chair, petitions of H. Grube and C. Francisovich for liquor licenses were granted.

The attention of the council was directed to the bad condition of the piling under Cedar and Henck streets, by the Astoria Street Railway company. Councilman Bergman corroborated the statement and moved that the matter be referred to the street superintendent with instructions to take immediate action.

Councilman Elton took his seat. A communication was received from Hon. C. W. Fulton, setting forth the facts regarding the recent aid of penitentiary laborers, provided for by sundry citizens some weeks ago, and suggesting that the city council take into consideration the fact that the money had been paid by two or three private citizens, though the payment of the claims had been given or authorized by the council.

There was a general discussion of the matter by the councilmen, but councilman Bergman's motion to pay the bill received no second. Councilman Elton moved that an injunction be granted against the petitioners that the councilmen pay the amount thereof.

A letter was read from senator Mitchell stating that while he thought it would be difficult to get the city's claim allowed he would do all possible in the matter.

The following was read:
ASTORIA, March 11, 1908.
To the Honorable the Mayor and Council of the City of Astoria:

amended by having it read for one year: Councilman Parker amended the amendment, by having it stated that the appointment was for the remainder of this year.

Dr. Tuttle was elected for the remainder of the year, at a salary of $25 a month.

Then the matter of paying the claims for board, etc. of the indigent railroad laborers, was brought up and talked over. No action was taken. Councilman Welch handed $5 to the auditor, saying that was his contribution, not as a councilman, but as a citizen.

The room was very warm, and everybody felt a little drowsy, but a resolution instructing the chief of police to use his judgment in suppressing the Salvation army, woke everybody up.

Councilman Welch thought that they should be severely dealt with, and that those who make a disturbance there should be arrested and prosecuted. Councilman Bergman thought that a row was just what the city needed. The best way was to keep out all but the members of the army. Councilman Elton thought that much of the opposition to the Salvation army was occasioned by the dance halls, which view the Salvation army as an enemy to their business. Mayor Crosby thought that the Salvation army barracks was a school for hoodlums, and should be suppressed by the police force.

Chief of police Barry said it was useless to bring a case to trial. No jury would convict.

Chief of police Barry said the matter was a very plain one. Now, at that moment while he was talking, he had a policeman stationed in the Salvation barracks, and it was as quiet and uneventful as a Quaker meeting; there was not a titter.

But if that policeman went out, it would be five minutes before one or two of the girls would be whooping it up with a tambourine up and down the aisles, and getting the boys to raise Cain. That's what the Salvation army wanted; it didn't suit them to have things quiet; there was no money in it, what they were wanting for was to raise Hades, and have a row.

Mayor Crosby thought such proceedings were disgraceful.

Councilman Parker thought the best way for decent people was to stay away and let them have all the trouble to themselves.

Councilman Bergman and Welch made some further remarks, and a motion that the chief of police be instructed to suppress the Salvation army was rejected: Councilmen Bergman, Parker and Elton, voted no; Councilmen Welch and Wickman voted aye.

Mayor Crosby expressed his disgust at the result of the vote, and thought that the council was not doing what the people expected.

Councilman Welch thought that there were too many policemen on the streets; any other policeman who was not doing his duty, Councilman Welch said if that Salvation army wasn't suppressed he wouldn't vote for any more liquor licenses. Councilman Bergman thought that was a splendid idea. After some other entertaining and edifying conversation the mayor declared the council adjourned. Then all rose and the janitor woke up.

After an extra session on the stairs the assembly dissolved.

THE SALVATION ARMY.
That to Beat the Game Is to Let It Alone.

The female department of the Salvation army was on hand in the police court yesterday to get an advertisement and prosecute one of their customers, but it was attorney Henry Curtis, who dismissed the case.

Chief Barry last evening stationed officer Hendrickson in front of their headquarters, with instructions to allow no one to enter, except, with the understanding that if he or she did go in, they would take their chances of being "pulled" in the event of any disturbance.

This Salvation army is a constant nuisance. They annoyed people around the corner of Fourth and Cass streets for a long time, then they went over Douglas's shop, till paid to go away, and now are making night hideouts for residents adjacent to the old Democratic headquarters.

It is a hard matter to settle. The difficulty of settling it is increased by the too prevalent idea that there is something religious about it, and "religious liberty" will some way be interfered with. There is no other religion about this salvation army business than there is about a boiler shop. They are in it for the excitement and change and chance to get around, and should be treated just as any other nuisance.

It should, likewise, be borne in mind that the best way to treat them is to let them severely alone. If no one went there of nights they would have no fights, no fun, no advertisement. It's just a lot for them to have a row; they like it; it makes business, and is a good advertisement; keep away from them and they'll go around and tell that they're going to have a halloo in time, and then try to rustle up a crowd. Of course the women are the main attraction. Every one knows that if the buxom ladies who work the town weren't there, the two old bums who bang the drum and blow the horn wouldn't make enough to pay the rent. As it is the female minister racket catches the suckers, and it is a cold night when someone doesn't contribute toward the rent, etc.

This is true business, and is the reason the show lasts so long. The best way to treat the only is to stay away. Those who are not there never get hurt.

MARKING NEWS AND NOTES.

Both the incoming and outgoing steamers yesterday were well loaded with freight, and had numerous passengers.

The government steamer George H. Mendell came up the river yesterday afternoon, towing six of the barges which are used for hauling rock and material for the jetty. They anchored just above the U. P. wharf.

PERSONAL MENTION.

E. C. Hughes went to California on the Santa Rosa yesterday.

Mrs. Anderson, mother of Mrs. Judge Taylor, went out on the Santa Rosa yesterday for a trip to California.

Colonel S. W. Blaisdell, eastern Oregon's candidate for governor on the Republican ticket, was in the city yesterday. He went to San Francisco on the Santa Rosa.

"Santa Rosa" and "State of California."

Several gentlemen at the dock yesterday were discussing the question as to the relative sizes of the two fine steamers then lying at the wharf of the Union Pacific Co., and referred to THE ASTORIAN. The question was settled, and as the same information might be desired by others it is here given:

The Santa Rosa was built at Chester, Pa., in 1884; is 324.5 feet in length, 40.9 feet in breadth, 29.7 feet in depth; has a gross tonnage of 2,416.78 and net tonnage of 1,333.69 tons.

The State of California was built at Philadelphia, Pa., in 1879; is 300 feet in length, 35.6 feet in breadth, 24.4 feet in depth; has a gross tonnage of 2,296.03 and net tonnage of 1,290.06 tons.

They are both excellent steamers and are remarkably well arranged for the comfort and convenience of passengers.

A Fisty Crowd.

On the steamer State of California yesterday came a crowd of folks that are perfectly able to take care of themselves, so far as self-defense is concerned.

Among them was Wm. McCarty, recently knocked out by Jack Dempsey, in San Francisco; Faddy Gorman, ex-middle weight champion of Australia; Con Readon, teacher in the Golden Gate club, San Francisco; Ed. Holman, manager of the Cremona.

They go to Portland to give a series of exhibitions there.

Scaly Skin Diseases
Cured by Cuticura

For a full description of this disease, see our advertisement in the issue of the 1st of March. My disease (psoriasis) first broke out on my left cheek, spreading across my nose and almost covering my face. It ran into my eyes and my physician was afraid I would lose my eyesight altogether. It spread all over my head and my hair all fell out, until I was entirely bald-headed; it then broke out on my arms and shoulders, until my arms were just one sore. It covered my entire body, my face, head and shoulders being the worst. The white scales fell constantly from my head, shoulders and arms; the skin would thicken and be red and very itchy, and would crack and bleed if scratched. After spending many hundreds of dollars I was pronounced incurable. I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using two bottles CUTICURA RESOLVENT I could see a change; and after I had taken four bottles I was almost cured; and when I had used six bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT and one box of CUTICURA SOAP, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years. I thought the disease would leave a very deep scar, but the CUTICURA REMEDIES cured it without any scars. I cannot express with a pen what I suffered before using the CUTICURA REMEDIES. They saved my life, and I felt it my duty to commend them. My hair is restored as good as ever and so is my eyesight. I know of others who have received great benefit from their use.
