

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: FRIDAY, MARCH 21, 1900. City and County Official Paper.

The Washington legislature adjourns next Friday. The Astorian extends its congratulations to our sister state. That infant commonwealth has borne up nobly under the severe case of Olympic colic.

The enterprising Albany Herald has begun taking some dispatches, which show up fine. But, if our Albany contemporary will pardon the suggestion, it appears to us to have made a mistake in raising the price of the paper per week. Raise the advertising rates, but let the price of the paper remain the same.

"Rule or ruin," seems to be the motto of the Republican leaders in Multnomah county. Lax discipline in former years, and the overlooking or condoning of party treachery is now bearing the usual fruit. Such boils inevitably come to the surface. This particular boil is of the suppurative species and needs a little poulticing.

Says the Seattle Post-Intelligencer: Pillsbury and Sawyer, the Minneapolis mill men, offer to pay $20,000 to any farmer who can ship a cargo of wheat to Liverpool and realize a profit of 1 1/2 cents a bushel over their prices. They also offer another $20,000 to any farmer who can ship a carload of wheat to any point and get within 1 or 2 cents of the Minneapolis market. It is clear that Messrs. Pillsbury and Sawyer have a "friendly arrangement" with the transportation companies.

Oregon is peculiarly fortunate in her congressional delegation, first in their devotedness to the interests of the state; second in their ability to compass their desires. No other state in the Union like population gets anywhere near the substantial recognition that Oregon does. In the senate our two senators are indefatigable, and in the lower house our lone congressman wields an influence greater than that possessed by many a state that has three or four representatives in the house.

Congressman Hermann has manifested a commendable persistency in urging the claims of Oregon upon congress in the way of appropriations for the Columbia river and the various harbors. If he secures the commencement of operations on the proposed boat railway, it will indeed be a grand work. The completion of this would facilitate the passage of freight both ways between Astoria and the upper Columbia and Snake rivers, and prove of inestimable benefit to the whole country in general and Astoria in particular.

The Pacific coast board of commerce at its meeting in San Francisco covered a broad field, and prepared a set of questions of vital importance to the entire coast. The replies to these, and a discussion thereon in the local organizations and by the press will serve to condense the popular opinion and crystallize it to such an extent that its expression will impress congress and the eastern people with a proper realization of the situation and enlighten them upon the true condition of affairs on this coast, about which they are now generally so wonderfully deficient.

Several months ago the formation of a trust and an advance in the price of binder twines was announced, and later it was stated that organizations of farmers had determined to do without binder twines as far as possible. Now it is announced from Montreal that a firm in that city, "with several hundred thousand dollars worth of stock on hand," has been compelled to suspend because of "an utter absence of demand for binder twines." "This is a brief statement, but," says the Philadelphia Times, "there appears to be a rather long lesson in it, and one of extensive application."

Both sad and impressive is the dedication of Langford's new book "Vigilante Days and Ways." The text memorializes the early pioneers whose endurance, fortitude, patience and intelligent endeavor made the new state possible, and the illustration shows a lonely plain with a recumbent skeleton, beside the bleaching bones of which lies an old-style army revolver, rusty and useless, but eloquent in its reminder of hopeless, brave defense against long odds. In script appears the sad query, "Why doesn't he write?" a query asked how many times God alone knows, or in how many grief-enroundered eastern homes. Mr. Langford was the first postmaster in that part of the land whose tales he tells so well, and says that he cannot begin to remember the number of letters he received, as such official, burdened with the question above given and sent by wives, mothers, sisters and sweethearts whose forebodings would have been changed into heaviest we could they have known that the loved one's bones were whitening in the rarified air of the distant hills. Happily in this day and date of the independence of these United States a replica of the picture is rendered well nigh impossible by the conditions existent.

USEFUL INFORMATION. Tubercy Fox, M. D., the eminent medical writer, in his work "Skin Diseases," gives accounts for the pimples so common on the face and neck. Eating too rich or too greasy food, or too hearty eating while the secretory organs are sluggish, causes in most people indigestion or a dyspepsial condition, which causes the blood to move sluggishly, and entitles the pores. The result is, that the excreting secretions block in the pores, which inflame, each distinct inflammation being a pimple. Dr. Fox therefore does not prescribe "blood purifiers" so called, but a "dyspepsia cure" to be taken, to use his own words "all the dyspepsial symptoms disappear." The old idea was, that eruptions were caused by a "humor in the blood," for which they treated the blood, giving the mineral, potash. Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla follows the modern ideas of Dr. Fox, and aims with gentle vegetable stimulants at the stomach and digestive organs. The reason is apparent why it cures dyspepsia and indigestion, and the pimples on skin eruptions which result therefrom, why sarsaparilla that use minerals fail.
