SHOCKING ABUSES.

Perfect King Ruins Several Youths In Asylum for the Blind.

SOME LATE WASHINGTON NEWS.

Special to THE ASTORIAN.

PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—Shocking stories were told before the committee investigating alleged abuses in the blind asylum. Several inmates testified that the food was insufficient, meat, tainted and bread mildewed. Most of the story was of perfect King's practices. Frank Williams said:

"I had only been in the asylum a short time," said David Wyckoff, "when King sent for me to come to his room. When I went there he frightened me and told me if I ever said anything I would be terribly punished."

The saddest stories are those of Joshua McClintock and Joseph Ganes. He was thirteen years old and had been in the asylum but a year when King made a victim of him. For three years he has been a sufferer. Jos. Ganes is a physical wreck, and his mind is beginning to totter, and his nervous system seems almost completely unstrung. If he dies King will be responsible for his death, for he was a strong healthy boy when he first came to the asylum.

King has been arrested. President Battles testified to-day, and made a vain attempt to explain away the charges. It is expected that his arrest will follow.

"King used to try and make the boys carry favor with him. Some of the boys were punished because they would not lounge about King's room. Oh! the suffering of some of those poor victims. King ruined them mentally, morally and physically."

"Eleven boys were the victims of this man. There is evidence that the greatest sufferers were Joshua McClintock, Joseph Ostrander, Wellington Crissin, Howard W. Wyckoff and Joseph W. Ganes. The boys range from 13 to 18 years of age."

More Duty on Tinsplate Not Desired.

Floods in Pennsylvania.

Special to THE ASTORIAN.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 22.—Reports from the head waters of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers give the alarming news of a sudden rise. At some places rain has been falling thirty-six hours, and the head waters of the Monongahela are higher than ever known, while the river is rising at the rate of from five to eleven inches per hour. Great distress is experienced by several farmers along the river as the low lands are flooded in several places.

At Johnstown on the Conemaugh, Poplar and Iron streets are flooded in portions and the Cambria Iron works have been obliged to shut down. In this city but little anxiety is felt as all the coal barges and boats have been well secured. The steady rain has given ample warning, and goods are being moved from cellars along Water street as they are being flooded, with back water. The Monongahela here was 11 feet at noon, nineteen at 4 o'clock. At the present rate it will reach the danger line, as advised from the headwaters indicate twenty-six to twenty-nine feet by to-morrow night.

Fatal Shooting.

Special to THE ASTORIAN.

NEW YORK, March 22.—William Turnbull, a ticket speculator who plies his vocation in front of the Fourteenth street theatre, was fatally shot in the abdomen by James F. Hyde, another ticket speculator with whom he had a dispute on the sidewalk near the theatre. Turnbull died a few moments later. The parties were enemies for years and both were well known to the theatrical profession.

More Flood.

Special to THE ASTORIAN.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 22.—The rivers here are booming and although they had receded over three feet during the day they are now higher than last night and are still rising fast. Grave fears are entertained for the safety of all bridges. The people are thoroughly alarmed.

West Virginia Floods.

Special to THE ASTORIAN.

PARKERSBURG, W. V., March 22.—For thirty-six hours it has been raining here in torrents with no indication of ceasing. Both the Little Kanawha and the Ohio rivers are rising rapidly. The Ohio has risen ten feet to-day and is now at the thirty-foot mark, and rising at the rate of one foot an hour. The Kanawha measures twenty-nine feet and at the head water is still rising three feet per hour.

The gravest fears prevail of a flood equal to the memorable one in 1884.

Special to THE ASTORIAN.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Sheriff Jas. A. Flack, his son William L. Flack, and referee Joseph Weekes have been convicted of entering into a conspiracy to obtain a fraudulent divorce from Mrs. Flack. Intense excitement prevails.

In the new court house, prior to the deliberations of the jury, Dilworth Choate a reporter for the World was discovered concealed behind a curtain in the jury room ready to take notes of the proceedings.

He was brought before judge Barrett, reprimanded, and released there being no law to cover the offense.

Accident at Sea.

Special to THE ASTORIAN.

LONDON, March 22.—The steamer Illinois, from Antwerp for New York, put into Plymouth with her stern badly twisted and the forward compartment filled with water, the result of a collision with an unknown steamer off Eddystone. The latter vessel was only slightly damaged.

Lance in British Cavalry.

Special to THE ASTORIAN.

LONDON, March 22.—The older British cavalry officers are against the probable introduction of the lance as a general weapon of the mounted service. To be compelled to learn the new drill at a time of life when innovations are so disagreeable, or else display their ignorance before subordinates will cause many of them to go upon the retired list in disgust, or mourn over the decay of the service. Some juniors, particularly those in India, who are familiar with the use of the "pig sticker" anticipate a welcome lift by its adoption and are naturally enthusiastic in its praise.

No homes should be without it to arrest disorders promptly, which, if not taken in season, often develop into serious diseases.

Rev. JAMES M. BOLLING, Pastor M. E. Church, S. Fairfield, Va., writes: "I have used Simmons' Liver Regulator for many years, having made it my only family medicine. My appetite and digestion does not exist, but it is a safe, good and reliable medicine for any disorder of the system and in a great preventive of sickness."

"Bob," said a wise old West Virginian to his improvident but generous brother, "You'll always be a poor man. If the whole world was a globe of gold and you owned it all and had hell to melt 'in you'd be poor."

We'll Suppose a Case.

You are nervous and dyspeptic, your appetite flags, your stomach is broken or disturbed, you are unable to get your sleep, you are fatigued, your nerves are deadened the nervous bed time with a narcotic. Neither of these. Try Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It will relieve you more than a trial. You will continue to use this justly renowned nerve invigorant and stomachic. It is in the highest esteem of what is wanted. It is a beautiful stimulus to appetite and digestion, does not excite, but quiets the brain and nerves, is an excellent diuretic and a speedy reformer of a disordered condition of the liver and bowels, it counteracts a tendency to rheumatism, nullifies the prostrating effects of overwork, mitigates the infirmities of age, and hastens convalescence. Persons exposed to rough weather should use it as a preventive, as should also tired students and business men.

Proposed English Reduction of Tea Duty.

Special to THE ASTORIAN.

LONDON, March 22.—The house of commons will adjourn for Easter holidays from the 1st to the 10th of next month. Probably Goschen, chancellor of the exchequer, will deliver the budget speech April 14th. The politicians had concluded from the speeches made that no part of the surplus of the year would be applied to free or assisted education, but the remarks of Salisbury at the Carlton club meeting on the subject of assisted education have changed their opinion, Gaunt will no doubt introduce the bill at the earliest possible opportunity. Goschen has looked very carefully into the tea duty and is not disposed to reduce or repeal it. More advisers of the treasury have recommended a reduction of tea duty, the question regarding which is regarded as simply that of retention.
