LIFE IN THE REVENUE SERVICE.

A Pleasant Visit to the Cutter "Thos. Corwin."

COURTESY NAVAL OFFICERS.

In response to a kind invitation previously extended, a representative of THE ASTORIAN, in company with three ladies, on Sunday afternoon paid a visit to the revenue cutter, Thos. Corwin. Signaling to the vessel from the dock, for she lay at anchor in the stream, a boat was at once sent to the shore and the visitors were borne over the rocking waves and swiftly ebbing tide to the stairway on the starboard side of the stanchel craft.

Lieutenant Ainsworth was on deck, extended a cordial greeting and led the way to the social hall where Lieutenant Dennett endorsed most heartily the greeting already extended and introduced the party to Capt. Hooper, in whose cabin a comfortable and comfortable cabin an hour or more was passed delightfully. He has long been in the service, has cruised extensively in distant waters, more especially in the northern seas, where the weather is that cold and sterile climate, and has collected a great number of relics and curiosities. He is a remarkably courteous gentleman, with a splendid education and cultivated mind, thorough-ly conversant with the history, peculiarities, manners and customs of the inhabitants of all the northern lands, and communicates in a very entertaining manner all the points of interest in reference to the many curios he so kindly exhibited.

A long time was spent in looking at the many peculiar articles and relics in Capt. Hooper's elegant stateroom, some of which are as follows: Indian arrows from Alaska, miniature canoes from the Aleutian Islands, small canoe from Cape Flattery made by an Indian boy and ornamented with pictures of mermaids; miniature paddle, spears, bows and arrows; Indian saddle of various designs, narrow shoes, singular looking Indian pipes, trimmed with bead chains of fine work; straw shoes for children, from the Korean islands; pictures of various vessels and of towns and villages in the northern part of the world, including Alaska, Little ornaments of bone and ivory, feathers, plumes and hosts of other articles.

In the cabin, seats were taken and on the large table were displayed elegant and valuable articles, including silver, white fox, blue fox and red fox, of numerous varieties, some of which were beautiful in color and texture. These had been brought from the vicinity of the Arctic ocean and from the extreme north, including Asia, America and Europe. There were reindeer boots with seal skin soles, which are said to be remarkably warm as well as very durable.

One of the most valuable, as well as interesting articles, was a large overcoat made of reindeer hide and lined with fur. The top is trimmed with gray wolf skin and the bottom with wolverine. Around the bottom are various articles of seal skin, red and white, over 1,200 pieces in all, cut out with a knife, about two inches long and one-eighth of an inch in width, all of which are neatly sewed together and form a very attractive trimmings. This coat was the work of Indians in Kamtschatka, and is very heavy and warm.

Numerous small articles were then shown, among which were fine spat heads, jade stones, a carved ivory deer skin, red and white, over 1,200 pieces in all, cut out with a knife, about two inches long and one-eighth of an inch in width, all of which are neatly sewed together and form a very attractive trimmings. This coat was the work of Indians in Kamtschatka, and is very heavy and warm.

Three singular items were shown, drawn and carved. The first was a hairy mammoth found on the Siberian coast, yet some scientists claim such animals do not live in cold countries.

The party were escorted all over the vessel, including the galley, where the cooks are a Chinaman, a Japanese and a negro; the pilot house, where the fire signals, charts, signal flags, trumpets and compasses were examined with interest; the armory, bristling with muskets, rifles, revolvers, swords, cutlasses, handknives and leg irons; and the engine room, with its bright steel, polished brass and glistening copper. The very models of neatness and perfection.

On deck just forward of the pilot house, one on the port and one on the starboard side are two brass rifled cannon, 20-pounder Dahlgren guns. The usual complement of small boats are carried, while lead lines, patent log, sounding apparatus, etc., are all on board and well cared for.

The officers of the ship are as follows: L. C. Hooper, captain; John Dennett, first lieutenant; J. C. Cantwell, second lieutenant; J. J. Ainsworth, third lieutenant; J. E. Jefferson, chief engineer; S. B. McLennan, and F. B. Falkenstein, second assistant engineers. The crew consists of thirty men, all of whom are familiar with the use of cannon, cutlass and revolver.

An excellent dinner was served, and after that there was violin and banjo playing by two of the lady visitors, who are also composers on THE ASTORIAN, violin music by Lieut. Dennett, and fine banjo music by Lieut. Cantwell, as well as a recitation by the scribe. A full boat's crew, with Lieutenant Dennett in command, safely landed the party on the dock. The pleasant hours spent on the Corwin, the courtesy and hospitality of its gentlemanly officers shown to THE ASTORIAN representatives is gratefully appreciated, and the happy recollections of the occasion will long linger in memory's casket as among the brightest jewels of its joyous participants.

The Arlington Entertainment.

There was more hearty laughing last night in the opera house, on the part of the people, and more genuine wit and humor by Billy Arlington, than was manifested in the same place on the evening when Bill Nye appeared.

The bass solo, "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," by V. Harris was excellently rendered; the recitation, "The Old Actor's Story," by Miss Kate Shively, was highly creditable; the guitar solo by Prof. Francis pleased all, and the piano duet by Mrs. K. Osborn and Miss Edith Conn was an artistic effort. These were the local participants.

Billy Arlington and wife as the "Two Deeds," Peterburg as to whether there ground for China's fears, but this silence indicates nothing. Russia is not in the habit of publishing to the world either her foreign or domestic policy. Besides, others have usually allowed rather than permitted their generals to undertake movements that meant or led to war, and especially has this been the case in Russia, where districts have been absorbed and extensive hostilities carried on at various times within this century without any declaration of war against anybody. The enemies, however, have been half savage tribes, and khans with little authority beyond their own borders. ### A Surprise Party.

Some of the many friends of Miss Winnie McKean made all the necessary arrangements, and last evening gave her an agreeable surprise at the residence of her father, T. S. McKean. Games, social converse and dancing made the time pass very delightfully, and all were happy and joyous. Intermission was given, during which choice refreshments were served, of which it is needless to say that all were partakers.

Those present were as follows: Misses Winnie and Eliza McKean, Jennie and Nellie Monteith, Lottie Keene, Aggie and Daisy Skoetkon, Katie Grant, Josie Deady, Nellie Sherman, Nannie Reed, Stella Spalden, Zetta Smith, Allie Jackson; Messrs. L. Howes, F. Curran, F. Racker, O. B. Prael, W. Hallonquist, E. Reed, W. Trullinger and F. Spittle.

W. O. Toggie, LaGrange, Ga., writing about Darby's Prophylactic Fluid, says: "It is a priceless jewel as a disinfectant and deodorizer. My wife states for the benefit of young mothers that it is a valuable adjunct to the nursery." It is equally so to parents travelling with children. Not only is the fluid invaluable as a deodorizer, but a few drops added to the water in bathing will remove all eruptions from the skin, chafing, etc., and greatly refresh and soothe.

Mr. Bruce, "Could answer—"Papa," asked Johnny, "where do politicians come from?" "Well, my son," replied the father, with the confidence of positive information from reliable sources: "they come all the way from $10 to $10,000, according to the pull they have."—Washington Star.

FEARS FOR FINLAND.

The Russification of the Finnish People.

LONDON, April 5.—The scheme to convert Finland from a free state, with the czar as constitutional sovereign, into a Russian province, with the czar as autocrat, excites considerable comment in Europe. People generally have their eyes fixed upon the Russian operations in the Danubian provinces and on the Dardanelles, to the neglect of encroachments of the vast and restless power in other directions. Russia is feared by Sweden not less than by Turkey, and Sweden looks to England, just as the sultan does, for protection from the grasp of Muscovite despot. The Scandinavians are not united in feeling, for reasons apparent to a student of their history. Between Russia and Denmark there has for ages existed strong sympathy, while Russia and Denmark regard Sweden with unfriendly and the former with covetous eyes. The Russification of the Finns therefore, means one more step in Russia's advance toward an attack upon Norway and Sweden. Finland was part of Sweden for centuries. Russia first annexed one half, and in 1808 seized the other half, but not until after a heroic struggle, which is commemorated in the grandest Scandinavian epic of the age. The eyes of Europe were bent at that time upon Napoleon; otherwise the Russian conquest of Finland would have been the greatest Scandinavian epic of the age. The eyes of Europe were bent at that time upon Napoleon; otherwise the Russian conquest of Finland would have been the greatest Scandinavian epic of the age.

THE CHINESE FEAR RUSSIA.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The house committee on commerce has reported to the house favorably, the bill making an appropriation for a life-saving station at Tillamook bay, Oregon, with an amendment limiting the cost to $10,000. The commerce of this section, the committee says, is rapidly increasing, and the committee urges the establishment of a station as soon as possible.

The house bill for the establishment of a life-saving station at the mouth of the Siuslaw river, in Oregon, has been reported to the house favorably, with a recommendation that it be passed as soon as possible with an amendment limiting the cost to $10,000.

Discovered by Stanley.

Stanley says that during his recent African expedition he came across a new and interesting race of blacks, the Wahomias, who were absolutely European in type and very intelligent. They appeared to be descendants of the ancient Ethiopians, who settled in some way not known to him in Equatorial Africa. These people never mingled with the aboriginal races, but kept their blood intact, considering the ordinary negro beneath them.

All the patent medicines advertised in this paper, together with the choicest perfumery, and toilet articles etc. can be bought at the lowest prices at J. W. Conn's drug store, opposite Occident hotel, Astoria.

A "square" man, who never owned a hundred dollars in his life before, was made happy last week by receiving $100,000, the purchase price of 80 acres of land owned by him, just back of Fort Townsend, for the past quarter of a century. The money in his possession, he treated his Indian wife and four half-breed children to a trip to Seattle. His name is Braken.

Huntington Will Succeed Stanford.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—The Chronicle to-morrow prints an interview given by Senator Stanford, in course of a discursive conversation he said: "I shall tender my resignation as president of the Southern Pacific company at the annual session of the board of directors to-morrow of next day. It will be accepted and unless he declines, my successor will be C. P. Huntington. My only motive in resigning is to relieve myself of the active cares of the office. While I have no organic disease I am troubled at times with nervous derangement, and consequently desire greater liberality of action. I shall remain in the directorate and may probably accept some authoritative appointment."
