Chicago an Easy Winner in a Contest of

There was more fun in the Grand Pacific office last night than at a Sioux Falls election. Many prominent Da-kotans, together with a few Chicago politicians, held a sort of experience meeting. Each man tried to tell the biggest lie in the shape of a western experience, and, strange to say, a Chicagoan won the prize. "Joe' Bailey, who was the treasurer of Dakota for some time, dealt the first hand. "Why, Dakota is a veritable fairy land," he ventured, "when compared to other western states. I saw a cy clone in Kansas once which made me feel ashamed of that state. I was go-ing to Caldwell and rode right into the storm. Had to stop at a farm for shelter and chain my wagon to a stake to keep it in the county. Was invited into the house and ate dinner. We were about half through when the wind freshened, lifted the house from farm, and then moved to Dakota."

"I remember that," broke in Govern-or Mellette. "The wind was so fresh that several safes were blown open at Caldwell that night."

"That's almost as bad as Montana, volunteered Colonel King, of Rapid City. "I was out on Fox Lake last summer pulling in black bass when one of those Montana blizzards struck us. Temperature fell from 82° above to 10° below in 2½ minutes. Squall came so suddenly that we lost both oars and were helplessly adrift in the cold, vexed lake. Waves higher than Eiffel towers. Boats pitched like a recourt shock in the second state of the second state of the second state. like a peanut shuck in the ocean, and we gave up all hopes of ever reaching shore alive. We were just about to perish when the lake froze up and w walked ashore on the thick ice." Then Col. Babcock for Chicago be an. He was so heavily handicapped by the previous spectacular stories that his friends advised him to with draw, but he refused.

"Last month," he proceeded, "I was visiting Dokota. I looked at Sioux Falls, Aberdeen, Rapid City, Dead-wood, Pierre and other famous towns. In each place I met a hundred real estate men, yet I couldn't get one to tell me of the wonderful growth of his thriving city and the rare chance for safe investment."

At this jar governor Mellette and Mr. Bailey turned pale. "You won it fairly," exclaimed the governor, and the Colonel led the way out of the office into another room. Chicago Tribune. The population of Rome is increa ing at the rate of 1,000 a month. The current saying that all roads lead to
