PULL FOR YOUR TOWN.

It is a great good thing to love one's town and to serve it, as one in a large relation may love and serve one's country. Real loyalty to country must begin at home, and he who cannot unite with his neighbors to serve the community wherein he lives, and do so gladly, is a poor patriot at best and under all conditions. The Salem Journal has never tired of saying this, and it hopes it never may.

When one finds he is out of sympa thy with his town, and can only say a good word for it coupled with an apology, he ought to get out. If he cannot find a congenial town on the face of the earth, he might look for such a place elsewhere and meanwhile serve his race best by living in the utmost possible retirement.

Many people fall into a sort of unconscious habit of growling and do not price for him. mean anything bad by it. It is as dangerous for a stranger to take sides with them as it is for the average mortal to interfere in a quarrel between husband and wife. But it is a miserable habit. Such people make themselves particulary independent. The town is precisely like the individual. The individual has about all he can do to get along under his own loads and he wants help and encouragement from those going his way, and salt salmon and carry the rest down who are identified with him in interest. So with the interests to care for, And it needs all the pluck, all the energy, all the co-operation and helpfulness its citizens can provide and bring

Every man is a part of his town.

The town embraces the fortunes, and in some measure at least, takes on the geles?"—Tacoma News. character of the man. So loyalty is in the line of all well-shaped human nature. Therefore it is right to say that the man who does not stand up for his town is in some way dwarfed. There is something wrong about him. His tellows will pass their judgment upon him, and the chances are that while he may add to the discomfort of others, he will not escape making himself unhappy.

Society is so ordered that its healthfulness rests on a basis of mutual dependence, and therefore individual members of society can only discharge their benefits of its order by doing their part to help others. The success of life is in the measure of good service one may render. All honor able, praisworthy, lasting compensations lie in the direction of services and not in the direction of selfishnes and purely self-seeking. It is hard for many people to appreciate this fundamental fact in social economy but the truth of it is established by all the history of the world.

It is healthful to cultivate a love of one's town and of its people and of all Tanzy Point, Ft. Stevens, Ft. its interests. It enlarges one's heartone's powers, one's capacity for service, and if he has strength to spare, the schooling widens his vision so that he is enabled to look out into the world and see how innumerable are the doors that lead to the brotherhood of man, inviting to many avenues of

There is no lack of genuine leader ship-leadership that invites confidence, that promotes respect, that promises helpfulness to others. The spurious article is inevitably shortlived. The character that wears, that grows in confidence and esteem, is the genuine character that really makes neighborship and honest co-partner-

Work for your town, then. If you cannot trust your fortunes with it, it is your plain duty to get out. Don't be a deadweight. Don't throw yourself in the way of others and insist that the only way for the procession to move is to run over you or to carry you bodily Wherever you may be, get right into the traces and pull. It will make you strong.

In a hundred years the United States has spent $93,000,000 on a lighthouse establishment. During this year the amount will be $3,500,000. It is customary for statesmen to lament in congress the decline and neglect of American shipping interests. According to the British Admiralty lists, the Umted States now ranks second in its water tonnage of all the countries of the world. And this ment excludes yachts and vessels of less than 100 tons. "Britannia rales the waves," of course. Everybody knows that. The British tonnage is nearly one-half of that of the ntire world. That of the United States is only one fifth of Great Britain's, but it leads all other countries.

CONGRESS is considering the expediency of constructing a ship canal twenty feet in depth, around Niagara falls. One of those proposed will be 18 miles in length, and cost $23,000,-000. Such a proposition has often been mentioned, and no doubt it will ventually be accomplished.
