CITY AND COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

The Clifton cannery of J. and V. Cook will commence business to-morrow.

There was a large audience at Resene club meeting last night, and an interesting and attractive program.

Hughes & Co. are having a counting room built in the front part of their store, which is more convenient than having their office at the rear end of the room.

Two divorces were yesterday granted in the circuit court, another was on trial, and a fourth one applied for. The marriages do not seem to keep pace with the divorces.

The services in the Congregational church to-day will be as follows: At 11 a. m., sermon; theme, "Bible Spiritualism." Eight o'clock, evening lecture; subject, "Monasticism."

The city delinquent tax list of Seattle is being advertised in the Times. Of the thirty columns of descriptions of property in the list, twenty-four are "unknown."

Rev. Mr. Granum will occupy the pulpit of the Methodist church to-day, at 11 a. m. Subject for thought: "The Pioneers of Faith." 8 p. m.: "Avoiding the Appearance of Evil." 7:30, some service.

The directors of the Athletic association, being positive that Bordin and Fraker had come here with the intention of making the fight a fake, rightly refused to give them any more money for the Friday night's contest.

"Shall we Sustain our Churches?" A question for Astoria. This subject will be discussed by Rev. Dr. Campbell this evening at the Presbyterian church. In the evening the subject will be "The Rich Man and Lazarus."

Yesterday a power of attorney was filed for record, by which L. L. Kimble and wife, of Salem, Oregon, D. M. Stuntz to sell for them their property in the Nolan tract in section 29, township 8 north, range 9 west.

A large number of people from Frankfort, Knappa and Deep River were over here yesterday purchasing goods, and the steamers Wenona and Elipse went over in the afternoon well loaded with passengers and packages.

The adjuster of one of the insurance companies who had policies on the stock of books and shoes burned last Tuesday evening is in the city, awaiting the arrival of the adjuster of the other company, who is expected to-morrow.

C. J. Lindell, county assessor, is in the city. He has been assessing around Young's river and Lewis and Clarke's and reports muddy roads. D. H. Welch, deputy assessor, will begin assessing Astoria property on the 1st of July.

Nellie McLeary, who has captured all the cities by her clever acting will appear at Ross' opera house next Thursday, with her clever company in "Lucky Peggy." The sale of reserved seats will begin next Tuesday at the New York Novelty Store.

Seaside Lodge, No. 12, A. O. U. W., had a very pleasant session last evening, several visitors being present. The junior degree was conferred on three candidates, nine received the workman degree, and there were eleven applications for membership.

The preliminary examination of Leo Outlaw, the colored man who shot P. C. Fox Friday morning, did not take place yesterday, owing to the inability of the wounded man to appear, and has been postponed until 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon in justice May's court.

W. J. Barry, yesterday resigned the position of deputy U. S. marshal. There are several applicants for the vacancy. It will be a week or ten days before an appointment will be made by U. S. marshal L. T. Barin. Mr. Barin came down yesterday morning and returns to Portland to-day.

Postmaster Hare says that he can go to the theater now. When engineer of No. 2's he used to go to the theater about twice a year, and whenever he went there used to be an alarm, and he had to get out p. d. y. Now he doesn't have to go out if he were there, and an alarm sounded, but ten to one he'd go, just the same.

C. C. Cooper, the efficient manager of the Seaside house, was in the city yesterday. That famous hostelry has been refitted throughout and will be thrown open to the public on the 1st of next month. The increased facilities for reaching it will doubtless tax its capacity this season. There is no more delightful sojourning ground on the Pacific coast.

Four years ago in the city of Santa Maria, Santa Barbara county, California, a man had both legs horribly mangled by being run over by the cars. Both legs were amputated above the knees, one being cut off twice. Yesterday he came down from Portland. He is seated on a small platform with three wheels, and by the aid of roller handles which reach to the ground, he propels himself along the street. He is a bright, intelligent man, an American, and quite interesting in conversation.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Some Stray Paragraphs on Some Stray Subjects.

WITH A VARIETY OF TOPICS.

Kentucky reports the discovery of a spring, one drink from which makes an old woman feel like a lass of sixteen. It makes one suspect that somebody has struck an old moonshiner's still home.

The Astoria Athletic association had two entertainments last week, largely attended; whether they were financial successes depends upon the point of view. Muscles like magnets grow weak from disuse. Physical culture is a need and a gymnasium with costly and complete appliances, is an ornament to our city. There is little, however, that is either useful or ornamental in having two costly houses let for each other in the mug, for what is in it—for them.

A Cincinnati paper ran against a biggest lost week for saying that a soup bone is good enough for a laborer. All was forgiven when it declared that a soup bone was good enough for anybody.

A few days ago the writer ran across a somewhat lengthy German word, consisting of thirty-seven syllables, 100 letters. Its translation is: "stock company of lumber manufacturers in Constantinople paying five and one-half per cent dividends." This is the word:

Constantinopolitisches Holzfabrikanten-Aktiengesellschaft.

Astoria last week discussed the water question pretty thoroughly. It is questioned on all hands that THE ASTORIAN'S position is the correct one: let the city own its own waterworks. The matter of ways and means lies largely with the next state legislature and the spirit of our citizens.

The newspaper that does its duty in protecting the public interest is sure to make enemies. But what of that? Enemies rather help a newspaper than otherwise, especially when their hostility is generally known to arise from an independent and public spirited course on the part of the journal that meets their displeasure. The paper that stands by the public interests is on solid ground, and the people will usually support it in its advocacy of their rights. In every small town or city there are persons who think themselves entitled to control everything, and that opposition to any of their proceedings is an affront to their personal greatness or affront. They want to lose the community, newspapers included. They lack understanding or appreciation of the true functions of a newspaper in its relation to public interests, and if they could have their way the local press would be simply the organ of their private interests and selfish aims.

The missionaries who go to convert the "heathen" report that the greatest obstacle they meet with in their work is the superstition of the people. Is it so very different with civilized, enlightened people right here in Oregon? How many hundreds of mothers are there who will not let their infants look into a mirror until they have passed a certain age? How many more are there who insist that their little ones must be carried up-stairs before they may "rise in the world?" How many sensible, well-educated people in Astoria feel unpleasant when a mirror is broken in the house? Thousands. How many consider it ill luck to see the new moon over the city? More thousands. How many people in Astoria feel unpleasant when a mirror is broken in the house? Thousands. How many consider it ill luck to see the new moon over the city? More thousands. How many people in Astoria feel unpleasant when a mirror is broken in the house? Thousands. How many consider it ill luck to see the new moon over the city? More thousands.

There's a poem about Santa Claus which, read one or two old Novadsians while in Case's bank, making out adjustments, etc. They got to talking of old bonanza days in Virginia City. One had been a newspaper man there in the exciting days when Fair and Mackay knew more of the bowels of the earth than they did of the surface. They always knew a good deal about the people on the earth, though, and managing deals was a matter that few could do as well as Mr. Fair expected. This newspaper man related a little incident that probably has never appeared in print.

"John Mackay," he said, "was never much of a manipulator. He was a miner, and always wanted to go straight at things. One time Fair went off and left Mackay to run things. They were drifting in the Union Consolidated, and in making three different drifts which formed a triangle, they came on strings of ore on all sides. John Mackay, like a miner, immediately came to the conclusion that there might be a large body of ore in the center or thereabouts of that triangle. He immediately started straight in toward the mine. There was some excitement, of course, in the stock, but as they went on with no indications of a body of ore, interest began to die out, and they got through without finding anything. Fair got back, and the first thing he did was to start a drift at an acute angle in the direction the stringers pointed. He came on a small body of 800 rock. He tried a deal, but he couldn't make it go.

"John Mackay," he said to Mackay, "you've knocked the stuff out of the mine. Why didn't you keep the center of that ground a mystery till we'd given the boys a deal?"

Then Bush told of the time that there was a fire in one of the mines whose works connected with Consolidated Virginia. A well-known Nevada mining sharp was standing in a broker's office, when a man with a white face rushed in and told them: "It's a bad fire, and there's two men in the shaft. God knows how we're to get them out.

"That's awful awful!" said the mining man. Then he turned to the broker and whispered: "Sell 200 Consolidated Virginia short for me. How many men did you say were in the mine?"

A chivalrous exchange bubbles over like this: "How can a man say that a woman has nothing to do? In one year she gets dinner 365 times, washes the dishes 1,095 times, gets the children ready for school twice a day for 180 days, gets the baby to sleep 1,450 times, makes about 300 calls, and as she wishes for something she hasn't every minute, she wishes 60 things an hour, or 4,380 things in a year. Who says that a woman has nothing to do?"

Judge Tuley, who used to be a director of one newspaper and is now judicially in charge of another, said: "No intelligent man at this day believes a thing to be true merely because he sees it so stated in a newspaper. He knows that what is asserted as true to-day will very likely be denied to-morrow."

This is one dictum. By way of reprisal it invites another.

No intelligent man at this day believes a judicial decision to be good law merely because it is announced from the bench. He knows that what is asserted as law to-day will very likely be upset by another court to-morrow.

Yesterday was the longest day in the year, and as lovely as it was long. The writer always has a certain sympathy for people who are unable to live in Astoria and enjoy our glorious weather. There is a breezy freshness, a vigor and elasticity to Astoria and northwestern Oregon climate, that is unapproachable, and only fully valued by residents when for a time, called away to other and less favored climes.

We are, of truth, a favored people, in having so glorious a country to live in, and ought never to have a word of complaint, or allow sorrow, sin or suffering to enter in to mar the harmony of life. Even with the stings of human insects at times annoying, the soil that is to itself a kingdom, can rise superior to malicious assaults and soar into a flood of sunshine, an atmosphere of serenity and a world of calm delight.

A word of praise and a word of blame is due some of the passenger boat employees. The purser and steward on the Telephone and Red are courteous gentlemen, who deserve commendation for their tireless efforts to accommodate the traveling public. But the Thompson has two or three friends aboard, who would be improved in manners if anchored in deep water over night. One of them takes delight in going through the cabin where women and children are trying to procure or secure berths, and other duties pertaining to a purveyor of spittoon, without the customary whistle and cigarette accompaniment. If this is indeed, it will save many a tortured lady's head much anguish at present silently endured while traveling on the right boat between Portland and this city.

An Elegant Present.

The Russian vice-consul, Gust. Wilson, is in the city, and last evening he was presented with a large and handsome gold headed ebony cane. On the head is engraved in the Finn language the following inscription:

"Presented to Gust. Wilson by the Oregon Elan Brotherhood of Astoria, June 21, 1908." A large number of countrymen were present and the affair was one of great rejoicing.

HE WAS ASHAMED

To Ask Again, but His Frank Letter Got It for Him.

A few months ago one of the unfortunate inmates in the San Francisco Alms House was inspired by the sensational statements in the newspapers with the belief that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla would help him. But without money, how get it was the question. Finally he wrote to the Edwin W. Joy Co., appealing to their generosity, and it was not unheeded, the coveted preparation being sent by the next parcel delivery. Its effect is best told in a subsequent letter, from which we quote the following:

"I suppose you know me by this writing, and my circumstances and condition. After a long and painful illness, I have been cured by your Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. It has so thoroughly regulated my system that my catarrh, rheumatism, constipation, and indigestion are all better. I feel able to work in this way, but what shall I do? I thought I might not need any more, but I am now anxious to keep it; but you see how it is."

It was sent, and he can get more if he needs it.

The Dallas Times-Mountainier says that on June 14th Messrs. Seafert Bros. caught the first shad in their wheel near Celilo, and it weighed three and one-half pounds. It was as fine a one as was ever seen in the New York markets and caught in the North river.

Merit Wins.

We desire to say to our citizens that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Baken's Eucalypti, and Electric Balm, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. J. W. Cox, Druggist.

O. P. Huntington is lobbying in Washington in the interest of the Central Pacific company as relative to the Pacific railroad funding bill. Mr. Huntington says that in this the Central Pacific company should receive better treatment than the Union Pacific company, as the Central Pacific for 600 miles is built through a barren waste, while, on the other hand, the Union Pacific is through a fertile country, and the Union Pacific has already sold lands enough along their road to retire their bonds. This the Central has not been able to do in its barren country.—Special to ASTORIAN from Portland World.

A thrilling suicide occurred at Pasco Friday evening. A man named Breats walked up to where a crowd was standing, pulled a revolver, and with the remark, "Boys, here's a go," shot himself in the head, inflicting a night scalp wound. He simply said, "I can do better next time," and again pulled the trigger. The bullet ploughed through his forehead and entered the brain, death being instantaneous. He thus ceased to keep an eye on Pasco.

Tired of Matrimony.

Yesterday Mrs. Kate Farney applied for a divorce from Matthew Farney, to whom she was married in this city, February 14, 1884. There are three children, one of four years, one of two years, and one of five months. She asks the custody of the children, $100 to pay for costs of suit, and $500 alimony, claiming that he has $800, the result of their united savings. Judge Taylor yesterday enjoined him from disposing of that money, and ordered him to pay for clerk for costs of suit $100, and for the support of the wife during the suit $200. In the complaint she charges her husband with having called her vile names, struck her, and threatened her life.

Says the Cathlamet Gazette: McCabe & Spencer's three traps at Clifton are doing well. They are catching altogether about one ton of fish per day. These are the only traps that have made any profit for their owners this season in this part of the river. The liability to being washed out by freshets or injured by driftwood piling against them makes the trap business very hazardous as a speculation. Who they, on the other hand, they make money rapidly, as the expenses of operating are very small.

Another plat of land was filed yesterday. It is a subdivision of blocks 8 and 98 in the east addition of Astoria, Upper Astoria, and contains 68 lots. The owners are Richard Marion and Hugh McCormick.

Out of the Fire

Tormented with Salt Rheum—Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Only those who have suffered from salt rheum in its worst form know the agonies caused by this disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla has had great success in curing salt rheum, and all affections of the blood.

"I owe the gratitude to Hood's Sarsaparilla that one would to his rescuer from a burning building. I was tormented with salt rheum, and had to leave off work altogether. My face, about the eyes, would be swollen and scabbed, my hands and a part of my body would be raw for weeks at a time, my flesh would seem so rotten that I could roll pieces from between my fingers as large as a pea. One physician called it type Poison, and gave me medicine accordingly; but salt rheum cannot be cured in that way. Finally I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It helped me so much that I took two more bottles, and was entirely cured. I have not been troubled with salt rheum since. I also used Hood's Sarsaparilla on the places affected, it stops the burning and itching sensation immediately. I will recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla not only for salt rheum, but for humors, and that 'salt-gene' feeling so often experienced."
