Little Inside History Regarding Last Year's Tournament at Tacoms.

A little item in yesterday's Aston IAN, regarding the time and place of holding the ninth annual meeting and tournament of the Northwestern Firemen's Association, has elicited considerable comment from the boys, many Keen & Cook report lots selling at from the first which was held in this city, on the 4th of July, 1882.

They didn't belong to the Vancouver fire department, but had come expressly to do up the Astorians and win some Tacoma money. They got fooled, however, on both propositions. As a matter of fact, ten of the fifteen were the famous English Tattersalls team, of Toronto, Canada, world beaters, who had a record of twenty-three championships. A good many Astorians who were at Tacoma last September will remember

He was a wealthy Englishman, a had brought them from Toronto, to Denver, Colorado, to take part in the firemen's tournament there. While there and before the tournament had begun, some of the Colorado firemen begun, some of the Colorado firemen discovered who these men were, and they were not allowed to compete.

They had come at big expense, and hated to go back to Canada without picking up a little American money somewhere. At this juncture a circular from Astoria, reand as fast as steam could take them, they were in Vancouver, B. C., where they joined the fire department, in time to get in under association rules, and show up in great shape at the Tacoma tournament. The Victoria, Matilda Young obtained a divorce from Frank N. The question now comes up, when and where will the next tournament be held? The president of the association, B. S. Worsley, who may be styled the creator of the association, yesterday telegraphed to C. W. Watts, the secretary, at Albany, to call a meeting of the directors in Portland, for next Monday, 30th inst., where the time and place will be decided. The time and place will be decided. The board of directors is composed of J. N. Hoffman, of Albany, Geo. A. Bur-bank, of Tacoma, and W. J. Barry, of

There are now propositions for the tournament of 1890 from Victoria, B. C.; Ellensburg, Wash., and Spokane Falls. Victoria proffers $3,000, Ellensburg is not settled as to finances, Spokane Falls hangs up a purse of $5,000. Spokane Falls wants to have the tournament in September. So far as Astoria is concerned, Spokane Falls and September would just suit us.

The way the meetings are, practically, the annual gathering of the firemen from various parts of the northwest Pacific coast does not result as beneficially as it might. The idea is to get experienced men together from the different volunteer fire departments, discuss topics of common in-terest, and paramount importance to practical firemen, increase the stock of information on the matter of how best to subdue fires, and then have a few friendly contests, to create a spirit of emulation, and exhibit the efficiency of the saveral departments.

tournament overshadows the asso-ciation meetings. At Salem, at Van-couver, at Tacoma, we could hardly get a quorum of the representatives together to transact business; while together to transact business; while at the tournament track strong men struggled for places, and ladies were carried fainting from the throng. It has been suggested that the tournament and the association be held at different times. This is not practic able, in a country, where cities are so far apart, and traveling is so expensive as on this northwest coast. There must be a genuine zeal, a hearty de-

There is one thing about getting up a team to participate in a fireman's tournament, and that is about the same as sometimes comes up in a lodge when one will say: "O, I've been there; I've been through all the chairs; I've got all the glory that I want; get some other fellow; put him prices to er. Come through." That's about the way some of the boys feel who have been capering down the track at the various tournaments, and have come back as victors and been received and welcomed as becomes the city to welcome its victorious representatives. They're willting and in fact desirous that some one else would get in and drill this season.

time. But looking back along the years and noting the line of brilliant victories that have made the name of Astoria synonymous with success, and given our seaside city a prestige that should never be allowed to depart from it, it is probable that when September's sun shines on the tournament track at Spokane Falls, it will see bending to the word the Astoria boys. ready to speed down the dusty street, and listen for the shouts of applauss that comes from their seagirt ho
