The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:

OUR COUNTRY.

We are the foremost nation on the earth. This is not said vainly, nor vulgarly. It is not said boastfully, nor vauntingly, but is said as a simple and truthful statement of an existing fact. In all that makes power, wealth and greatness, we lead. None approach us. England comes nearest The youngest salutes the oldest, and America nods greeting to those of the language across the Atlantic.

Two hundred years ago, from every and, of every speech, driven by want, ed by hope, exiles and immigrants ets fought, toiled, suffered and inased. They began to talk about erty, and reason on the rights of in. They asked no aid from distant gs, and doubted the use of paying ibute to the useless. They lost reect for dukes and lords and held in esteem all honest men. They egan to dream of independence; they and that they could make and exe ate laws better fitted for them than fetters forged across the seathey tried and succeeded in the exent of self government.

But the old world wished to dominate the new. On this day the story struggle between kings and ists should be told. We should All tell them the history of the dechuman rights, that all are equal, and have the right to liberty and joy. Our forefathers triumphed. In their day they achieved liberty day sixty-five million people in ms untion, composed of an inruetible union of sovereign states, the zenith of national prosperity.

responsibility, and that July orations; in our just boasts of We great cities the bitter would be aristocratic if they knew w. We have an element who are willfully ignorant, and who mistake liberty for license. These are among election of the republic; these are mong the currents that threaten to igulf our ship of state. There is but stidete, of universal application. but is education.

We fear no foe. There is no outde enemy]that dare cope with us. We are looked on with friendly eyes by all the nations of the earth. Our sole danger lies within. If harm ever comes to our beloved country, it will come from her own unfilial children. It is for us to this day resolve that so OPTICIAN far as in us lies we will be faithful citizens, worthy members, and zealous defenders of that for which our fathers fought, and which next to life itself is best worth preserving.

OUR FLAG.

THE Rag that floats on our free hills to-day has forty-three stars, each star swereign state. That flag for which brave men have fought; for which they died, is the symbol of all that we are, at that we hope to be. On this Fourth day of July, 1890, the 114th somiversary of our birth as a nation, it is what it was when it waved above Washington at Valley Forge or Yorktown; the fing of Liberty; the emblem of equal rights.

That fing means free hands, free speech, self government, and the sovcreignty of the individual. It means that this continent is dedicated to freedom, it means universal education, Orders Delivered Free of Charge, Country light for every mind, knowledge for Orders Solicited, Third Street, next to Pioneer office.

It means that "governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed," that each man is accountable to and for the government, that responsibility goes hand in hand with liberty. It means that it is the duty of every citizen to bear his share of affairs of his town, his county, his GENERAL MERCHANDISE, state, and his country. It means that the ballot box is the ark of the covepant, and that the source and symbol of authority is not to be poisoned. It means the perpetual right of peaceful revolution. It means that every citizen of the republic native or naturalized, must be protected at home in every state, abroad in every land, on every see. It means that all distinctions based on birth or blood are banished om our laws, that our government shall stand between labor and capital, between the weak and the strong, between the individual and the corporation, between want and wealth, and give and guarantee simple justice to each and all.

He Was in No Doubt.

Poots, looking out of the window of his sitting-room, saw a man ascend the steps of his residence whom he didn't wish to receive. To be candid, he was a bill collector. Calling the servant he bade him tell the man that he (Poots) was not at home.
"Did you tell him I was out?" said

Poots, when the servant returned from inswering the bell.
