Be cheerful, you gloomy, misanthropic individuals who go through life with downcast eyes and dejected countenances. Why not turn your heads to the bright sunshine and appear as if the milk of human kindness had not entirely evaporated from your system? However despondent you may feel, however much of sorrow and grief you may have to bear, be not ungrateful of the many blessings you enjoy which are so thickly interspersed all along life's pathway. If you would be happy, look around and see the thousands of earth's unfortunate whose misfortunes are far greater than your own; whose joys are one-tenth your own, and then thank God you are so well situated. If you have a sunny day, be grateful and enjoy it. Don't stand out, "It's only a weather-breeder." Speak a kind word whenever you can, have no opportunity to benefit another, and thus by bringing gladness to the hearts of others you will find bright gleams of sunshine streaming across your pathway, making life and radiance where before was darkness and gloom.

"The world owes me a living, and I'm bound to have it," is the remark an ASTORIAN representative heard yesterday afternoon. The speaker was among a party of men standing on the sidewalk as the writer passed, and the latter as he heard the remark, gave a glance at the man who uttered it. Both hands were plunged in his hip pockets, and a huge quilt of tobacco swelled out one cheek. It suggests a thought: Why does the world owe you a living when you have your own debt? The world owes you no more than a living, unless you own it, for it would mean slavery to you even if you should drop out and you never would be missed." Every individual has a living to earn, and whether he does it with muscle or brain, it is all the same, but no one can say honestly "the world owes me a living," and "I'm bound to have it." If such an individual desires to see how the world would miss him, let him set a glass of water on a table, then stick a fine needle into the water, pull it out and let it fall to the hole. This is the way the world would miss you if you suddenly passed away. Remember then, young man, that you are entitled to what you earn, and the more good you can do, the more you are worth, as one of earth's countless millions.

Card of Thanks. We take this means of returning thanks to the gallant firemen and many friends that helped to save our furniture from the fire.

ITEMS FROM KNAPPA.

The Nation's birthday anniversary was appropriately celebrated in Knappa on Friday, at Crow's grove. Rev. P. T. Howell opened with prayer and read the Declaration of Independence. Music was furnished by the Knappa choir, with E. T. Powell as leader, and Miss Dea Mitchell as organist. Hon. W. H. Walker delivered the oration. A basket dinner was served, and by way that it was excellent does not half express the facts, for it was indeed a good dinner, worthy the day.

The evening was occupied in dancing, in Union hall, which was crowded with a merry party, and dancing was continued until daylight Saturday morning. Music was furnished by Will Moody, Judd Moody, T. P. Norman and D. P. Ross, while D. Sutherland and William Whitstone were prompters.

J. F. Bender, of Seattle, a former resident of Knappa, is here on a visit to his old friends and neighbors.

C. W. Longbery is here from Astoria.

Mrs. Holmes, of Astoria, is here on a visit to her mother, Mrs. C. C. Knapp.

A large amount of hay, which was cut and cured, has been hauled in the last few days.

There was also a fine celebration of the Fourth over at Svensen's landing. The logging business is not very brisk, as the weather has been unfavorable of late.

Will E. Bender is at home spending his vacation.

DEATH OF CAPT. STRANG.

Dropped Dead on the "City of Topeka" Yesterday Afternoon.

Capt. James E. Strang died on board the steamer City of Topeka, opposite Kalama yesterday afternoon. He was piloting the vessel down the river, and was just sitting down to dinner, when he fell heavily forward. He was immediately picked up, but life was extinct. Deceased was a well-known steamboatman. He came to this country from Iowa nearly 20 years ago, and ever since had been engaged in steamboating on the Columbia. He was 60 years of age. He leaves a wife and two married daughters, who reside in Portland, where the body will be taken to-night for interment.

LOST MILES.

But She Got It. - A Sample of Letters Daily Received.

Only those who have tried it can know what it is that prompts one to send 1,200 miles to get it again. Here is another of many such instances:

DEAR SIR: I send $5 for which please return a half dozen of your "Robertine" pills. I have moved here from Sierra City, Cal. I took three bottles before leaving, hence I have sent you the way here to California for me. It was just before I left Sierra City that you sent me a bottle of your very valuable pills. My skin was very yellow, and had such pains and aches, especially under my shoulders and my head. The doctor said it was my liver, and gave me some medicine which relieved me somewhat. She had started to take Joy's Vegetable Compound, and advised me to take it. I did, and with such good effect that I now feel like a new being. I have persuaded one of my neighbors here to take it, so part of it is for her and part for myself.

MRS. GIBB, DELBRIDGE. Butte City, Montana.

The reader, who has not tried it, has no idea what the vegetable juices in this remedy will do for diseased systems.

Fresh fruits and vegetables received every day at THOMPSON & ROSS.

OVER THE RIVER.

A Rousing Celebration of the Fourth at Skamokawa.

For the first time in its history, the old town of Skamokawa, Wahkiakum county, Washington celebrated the anniversary of American independence, and they did it in the genuine old fashioned way, which is always attended with but little style, but a great amount of genuine pleasure.

The exercises took place in a grove at the junction of three valleys, in a rich farming section, a short distance from the town. A platform had been erected under two huge fir trees, and appropriately trimmed and decorated with flags and evergreens. C. J. Curtis, of this city read the Declaration of Independence, the young lady who had been appointed reader, having been taken suddenly ill. Mr. Curtis delivered the oration, which was very interesting, and was well received, being enthusiastically applauded.

People came from all directions, from the surrounding country in wagons, on horseback, in boats and in a rich farming section, a short distance from the town. A platform had been erected under two huge fir trees, and appropriately trimmed and decorated with flags and evergreens. C. J. Curtis, of this city read the Declaration of Independence, the young lady who had been appointed reader, having been taken suddenly ill. Mr. Curtis delivered the oration, which was very interesting, and was well received, being enthusiastically applauded.

I. N. Lott was president of the day and sang in fine style the old song, "Uncle Sam is rich enough to give us all a farm." Fine music was furnished on violin, cornet and harp by Prof. A. L. Francis' orchestra of this city.

Dancing commenced immediately after supper and was continued until 4:30 A. M., Saturday morning. The hall was not large enough to accommodate all, so they danced by numbers, and 40 dances including 20 quadrilles and 9 round dances. That is a record for a hall, which is seldom equaled and not often surpassed. But it was the finest celebration in the town, and they intended to make it complete.

Women's Ways are Winning.

Nothing Succeeds Like SUCCESS.

So said Bulwer, that greatest of novelists, and he never spoke more truly, and he might have added with equal force, that Merit is the Essence of Success.

Wisdom's Robertine is the synonym of merit, and its history is success. The magical effects of this preparation have been attested by thousands of the leading ladies of society ever since its discovery. It is the only article ever discovered which cures a Natural and Beautiful skin to the complexion, removing all roughness of the face and arms, and leaving the skin soft, smooth and velvety. It has long been the study of chemists to produce an article that, while it would beautify the complexion, would also have the merit of being harmless, but these two important qualities were never brought together until combined in Wisdom's Robertine.
