Doctors, no matter how prominent they are, can't begin to demand the fees that physicians of comparative standing can in New York City. I happen to have personal knowledge of a case in point.

New York's most successful heart and lung specialist has a practice that is estimated at $80,000 a year. This is not a large estimate. He was one day summoned to the bedside of a very wealthy banker, who lived up in Connecticut, over one hundred miles from New York City. The eminent physician was ushered into the sick man's room as soon as he arrived. It took him just five minutes to form his opinion, without resorting to severely any examination.

"When the physician came out of the room the banker's brother said: 'Well, Dr. Price, what do you think?'"

"Your brother will not live twenty-four hours," was the laconic reply.

"Is that what our physician here has told us, but we don't know but that there might be a chance for him."

"None whatever."

"What is your bill, doctor?"

"It will be $1,000."

"What—a!?" exclaimed the other. "Why, that is outrageous. You haven't done a thing for us."

"I have abandoned my practice in New York for a whole day to come up here in response to your imperative summons. You wanted to know just what your brother's chance of life was. You have found out. My bill is $1,000, no more and no less. I shall not see you again until you have paid me one cent of it, unless I make it nothing. You can take your choice between these two courses, for I wouldn't see you for less."

"I will pay you anything you like," said the banker's brother. "But I don't want to see you again until you have paid me one cent of it, unless I make it nothing. You can take your choice between these two courses, for I wouldn't see you for less."

"I will pay you anything you like," said the banker's brother. "But I don't want to see you again until you have paid me one cent of it, unless I make it nothing. You can take your choice between these two courses, for I wouldn't see you for less."
