THE "GOOD" IT WAS.
How a "Bug Sharp" Saved Millions of Dollars.
People, sometimes, when they read about the researches of scientific men among insects and flowers and sea weeds and fishes, etc., ask: "What good is it? Suppose that all they say they have discovered is so? What of it? What does it amount to?"
It very often amounts to a good deal. In conversation yesterday with Mr. Foord, a resident of Los Angeles, Cal., he told how a threatened disaster had averted in his county by the cleverness of a "bug man."
A few years ago the "white scale" made its appearance in the orange orchards of Los Angeles county. Innumerable white bugs, looking like mites, covered the trees, bored the bark, sucked the juices, ruined the orchards and depreciated the value of property.
All sorts of remedies were tried, but to no avail. Orchard after orchard was abandoned; Los Angeles county spent $30,000 in experiments; steadily the "white scale" covered the trees, till it seemed as if a great and profitable industry were doomed to annihilation.
There is in Washington, D. C., a department of entomology, presided over by Prof. Riley.
According to the expressed opinion of some, this is only a waste of public money; supporting a lot of lazy old snooters at government expense; men who do nothing but stick a pin through a butterfly or put a bug in a bottle to see what he will do.
In despair the Los Angeles orange growers called on the government bugologists.
On the train, two weeks after, came a slim young man with spectacles, who looked as though he didn't know enough to go in when it rained, who announced himself as an humble assistant of Prof. Riley, of whom he spoke highly, and said the professor had detailed him to look into the "white scale" bug pest that was causing a damage of ten thousand dollars a day.
The Los Angeles folks were a little disappointed, but let him alone till he got ready to report.
In a week he called the orange men together and told them he was going to Australia. That bit of news didn't seem of much encouragement to men who raised oranges in California. But he went just the same, as meek and lowly and placid as when he came.
Meanwhile the white scale kept getting in its deadly work, and many a Los Angeles orange grower cursed the day he ever invested his dollars in Los Angeles land at $1,000 per acre to grow oranges for a little white bug that could be exterminated by millions.
About three months after the "bug sharp" left for Australia, Mr. Dobbins got a pill box one day from Melbourne. It was sent by the bug man, the meek party from Washington, D. C. It had about a dozen little insects that looked just like what we call "dally bugs." The entomologist wrote to Dobbins telling him he had secured these bugs in Australia; they were called redolius—something or other—and he would send him a few more, when he had time to do so.
He said the redolius, etc., were great breeders and were death on the "white scale."
Dobbins put the bugs in the yard and let nature take its course. In a few days he had about a bushel of them. They struck out for the "white scale" bug; killed them by the million, ate their eggs, sucked the juice of the bug, touched nothing else, lived exclusively on "white scale" bugs, propagated themselves on the face of the earth, or the face of anything else that came handy, and in a week had exterminated every "white scale" in Dobbins' 200 orange trees and had gone into business in the next orchards. That was in March. By September, the little pill box of redolius caught by the meek and lowly in Australia had filled every orange orchard in the state of California, had exterminated, completely annihilated the destructive "white scale," and had saved the state of California many millions of dollars.
Meanwhile the pale young man with the spectacles and gone back to Washington, D. C., and when the enthusiastic orange men of Los Angeles county wrote back expressing their thanks at being saved from ruin, the bug man in the Washington department wrote back expressing quiet satisfaction at the successful issue of the labors of one of their assistants.
This is written to illustrate the "good" that is done, the actual, practical, dollars value of scientific research, and the wisdom on the part of the United States government in organizing and maintaining a scientific department to aid people engaged in agriculture and other pursuits to overcome and destroy predatory enemies of cereal, fruit and vegetable growth.

"CAPTAIN WILSON."
The Grand Fortune of an Astoria Boy.
A good many here, especially some of the older members of Astoria Engine Co. No. One, will remember "Briektop" Wilson, a former fire ladder, who, with Tiny Arrigoni, Joe Langdon and Frank Blakie, left here some years ago on the Tillie E. Starbuck for New York.
The following from "Briektop," who is now "Captain Wilson," if you please, was received yesterday. It is from the Halifax, Nova Scotia, Mail, and shows that Wilson is getting there in great shape.
Capt. Smith, R. N. R., in conversation with a Mail reporter, detailed the somewhat peculiar circumstances attending the examination of H. N. Wilson, of Barrington, who passed the other day for captain. It appears that a two-fold document was held out to Mr. Wilson. If he succeeded in passing the examination, Mr. Lovitt, of Yarmouth, would at once place him in command of his ship Narwhal. And—the lady to whom he paid attention would consent to become his wife immediately after he passed. With these incentives Wilson set to work to succeed, and succeeded he did, for according to the Mail, he passed a good examination. The news of his success was at once wired to Mr. Lovitt and also to his sweetheart. The ship was placed in his charge and the marriage solemnized. Captain Wilson is now on his way to Java in the Narwhal, accompanied by his wife. Upon passing his examination the boys of the marine school gave Wilson a good send-off.

PARDONED OUT AGAIN.
Wonder Who He'll Kill Next Time.
Jas. Harrington, who killed John Sullivan in Virginia City, in 1876, and was sent to state prison for twenty years, has been pardoned. He cannot live another year.—S. F. Call, 21.
Harrington is a survival of the fittest element of fifteen and twenty years ago in Nevada.
This man who has been "pardoned out," who "cannot live a year" brutally murdered a miner working in the Raymond & Ely mine, in Pioche, in 1875. The man's name was Florence Sullivan. Harrington was convicted at an expense of $10,000 and sentenced to a brief term in the Carson penitentiary. He had a "pull" the judge who sentenced him—Rives—now of Eureka, was coming up for re-election, and signed a recommendation for pardon.
Harrington was pardoned, took the train for Virginia City, and four hours after being out of jail, met John Sullivan in front of the International hotel on O street. John Sullivan had been the principal witness against Harrington, for the murder of his brother Florence. Harrington on meeting the brother drew a revolver and shot him through the heart, because of his testimony. This time his "pull" didn't avail him. He was a good way from Pioche. He was tried before Judge Rising in Storey county, and should have been hanged, but he got off with twenty years. Now he is pardoned out again. Wonder who'll he go for this time.

Yesterday was a quiet day at the custom house, as no vessels entered or cleared.
The Western Amateur band will have a rehearsal at Cosmopolitan hall at eight o'clock to-night.
The Independent says that a three foot boat adorns the Vancouver public school. W-a-a-a-a's that!

Judge Jewett yesterday in the police court found Annie Martin guilty of an indecent act and fined her $20, which was paid.
Rev. D. S. M. Campbell, of this city, is writing a life of Christ, which is at present appearing in serial form in the Oregonian.

"Have a good time while you're alive; you'll be a long time dead," is one of the cheerful signs in front of Jeff's restaurant.
One of the editors of the Spokane Falls Review has been appointed postmaster at Spokane Falls. His trouble is all before him.

Last year the wrecks of the steamers Yaguina City and Yaguina Bay could be seen from Newport, now they have entirely disappeared from sight.
S. T. McKean was thrown from his horse, which slipped and fell on him at Third and Cass streets yesterday afternoon, but he was able to remount and ride off, uninjured.

The people were glad to see more men employed yesterday afternoon on the replanking of Third street, for the sooner it can be completed the better it will suit the general public.
Passengers from Portland report that yesterday was "a scorcher" till they got as far as the Oak Point, when life grew more agreeable. So far, however, Seaside travel is very light.

Larry Sullivan was arrested yesterday for assault and battery and brought before Justice Cleveland, whom he gave bonds for his appearance for trial next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.
A 3 1/2 lb. snail seen yesterday, was the largest that has come under the writer's observation this season. They are caught in considerable numbers by the traps at Baker's bay, but are usually of small size.

The Oregon Short Line and Utah Northern are sued at The Dalles for $125,000, by four of the wounded and the relatives of the five men who were killed by the falling of a car through a bridge at the Cascades February last.
At the Athletic Association rooms last evening there was a glove contest between Gleason and Brown, consisting of three rounds at the end of which it was declared a draw. Brown returns to San Francisco to-day by steamer.

Justice Cleveland yesterday found the three Chinamen and John W. Wallace guilty of smoking opium, or frequenting an opium den, and each of the four were fined $50, making the smoke of the evening previous a costly smoke to each.

In the state circuit court in Portland C. M. Meeker has sued C. J. Hall & Co. for $2,251 for selling 300 lots in Columbia addition to Astoria. Meeker alleges that he had a contract with the firm which they violated by withholding commission on him.
Another warrant is out for the arrest of Larry Sullivan on a charge of assault and battery, said to have been committed on George Fenster, who is the complaining witness. The case will come up for trial next Tuesday morning, after the conclusion of the former case against him.

Under Seattle's new charter the mayor will receive a salary of $3,000, board of aldermen elected at large and a house of delegates elected by wards, serving without pay. Its elective officers are treasurer, $5,000; corporation counsel, $3,000; city judge, $2,400; city clerk, $2,000; city attorney, $1,500.
A gentleman who has been boarding at a city rotisserie (on the installment plan), says that he saw something in Astoria yesterday that he never saw before. When asked what it was, he said that it was at the Western Union Telegraph office, and that they were copying dispatches there by running them through a clothes wringer. Which they do, and do it well, too.

Just before one o'clock this morning two young men were arrested by officer Kirby for disorderly conduct. They threw a bench overboard, and were abusive to the officer when he requested them to restore the bench to its place. They defied his authority and said he could not take them to jail but both soon convinced them of their mistake as he landed them inside Barry's hotel on Genevieve street.

"Whenever a newspaper directs the attention of its readers to a new advertisement," says the Lantern of the Press, "it is an acknowledgment that the advertisement is not sufficiently attractive to catch the public eye and serve the purpose for which it was intended. Directing attention to an advertisement is a clothes wringer hanging out a big sign and then putting up a small one telling you to look at the big one."
Sweden, Norway and Greece yesterday lost four subjects, who took out their first papers, preparatory to becoming citizens of the United States. Mons Johnson and Martin N. Nelson left the ranks of the king of Sweden. Albert Olsen departed from among the followers of the king of Norway, and Pangiotis Katsionis severed all connection with the king of Greece, who, hereafter, at his palace at Athens, will drop that long name from the roll of the defenders of the archipelago and the Ionian islands.

WORK AT THE JETTY.
A Possibility of Its Discontinuance.
Active operations at Hinkle's quarry above Vancouver will close at 6 o'clock to-morrow afternoon.
This is where rock is procured for the government jetty at the mouth of the river.
About 20 men came up from Fort Stevens yesterday, who had been laid off.
The $75,000 special appropriation is about exhausted, and if the river and harbor bill is not passed the work must close.
Under the circumstances this would be a public calamity. Splendid and satisfactory progress has been made this season, and there are yet four months of good weather to still further advance operations before work need stop for the year.
The fate of the bill is now trembling in the balance, and on its prompt passage depends the prosecution of the work.

PERSONAL MENTION.
Judge C. H. Page has returned from Portland.
Sheriff Smith and wife returned yesterday.
Mrs. Kittie Mills returned yesterday from a visit to Salt Lake City.
L. A. Loomis, president of the Ilwaco Railway & Navigation company, was in the city yesterday.
Prof. A. L. Francis and family go to Seaside to-day to enjoy a week or more by the sad sea waves, and with his violin will doubtless join in a dirge with the rolling breakers.

The telegraph line along the Ilwaco railway is nearly completed, and will be ready for business to-morrow. There will be four offices—at Ilwaco, Sea View, Long Beach and Nahcotta. At Ilwaco connection is made with the government line to this city, thus practically giving Astoria telegraphic connection with those four places. This will be a matter of great convenience to all concerned.

A. J. Brownlie, superintendent of construction of the lighthouse department of this district, was at Point Adams lighthouse yesterday, inspecting a new barn which has just been built by the contractors. It was found to be correct in every particular, and the building is accepted. Mr. Brownlie went up to Portland last evening on the Telephone.

On Tuesday morning a black mare was stolen from Charles Shively. That evening a short, thick, curly haired, sandy beard was seen on the Walluku riding the animal, and inquiring the road to the Nehalem. Sheriff Smith was notified of the theft until yesterday morning, and immediately dispatched a deputy in pursuit of the thief.

Regarding the conflicting rights of seiners on Welch island, Judge Taylor last evening issued a restraining order enjoining those who have taken forcible possession, and Messrs. Lundberg and Getchell go up there this morning. The matter will probably come before the courts for ultimate adjudication.

There will be a match game of base ball at the new grounds at Smith's Point next Sunday, between the Astoria Browns and the Columbian. Trains will run on the Bay railway, leaving every half hour. The grounds have been put in good shape, and a fine game is looked for.

Several stores have recently purchased the new cash registers and money boxes, so that as one makes a purchase, and lays down the coin, the bill rings and up jumps from the machine a card with figures indicating the amount of one's purchase.

MARINE NEWS AND NOTES.
The steamer S. G. Reed takes up seven carloads of salmon this morning.
The four masted schooner Garfield City sailed from Knappaon yesterday, laden with lumber for San Francisco.
The steamer Alliance, Capt. Peterson, arrived from Portland last evening at 6:30, and sails for Gray's harbor to-morrow morning.
The steamer Gen. Canby, Capt. Parker, had about fifty passengers when coming in yesterday evening. Quite a number of them were discharged hands from work on the government jetty.
The steamer Louis Olsen was on the beach yesterday in order to have some slight repairs done on her propeller, which had become loose on the shaft. She will be aloft again to-day and will start for Portland.
The steamer Edipse has been on the ways at Arncliffe for several days, being overhauled, having the deck calked, and receiving a new coat of paint. She will be finished to-day, and ready for service to-morrow.

Big Stick of Timber.
Superintendent Simpson of the Port Blakely mills says:
"The Port Blakely Milling company, when the site for the coming world's exposition was selected, decided to send there a stick of the pride of Washington mill men, the state's fir lumber. I cruised around among the companies, and saw big sticks and long sticks of saw timber ever made from a tree. This will be exhibited at the world's fair in Chicago as an infant of the state of Washington, premier domain of timber the world."
This stick will be 150 feet in length, 52 inches square, containing 33,800 feet of lumber—and there is not a knot, a break or flaw in the stick. The Northern Pacific Railroad company has agreed to carry the stick to Chicago for use as a gift to the world's fair. It will take a train of five ordinary flat cars to do this. We have ample time in which to get the infant ready. Don't you think it will be a sort of surprise party to even our own lumbermen when they see it?"

Incoming Passengers.
The steamer Oregon is due from San Francisco this morning with the following passengers: J. Stewart, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Weston, Mrs. F. Hanson, Mrs. W. W. Walters, Bable and wife, Mrs. Smith, A. D. Grimwood, A. M. Wood, F. A. Barnett, R. Riggs, J. D. Wilson, B. Parke, G. W. Brown, Mrs. C. Depuy, J. E. Woodward, Mrs. Woodward, Grace Kelsor, W. S. Hanks, W. Cameron and wife, J. A. McFall, R. Irving, E. M. Kistler, F. B. Cornus, F. H. Balch.

Why Did He Go?
A St. Louis Merchant's Trip to the Postoffice, and the Result.
California's last session is beginning to take hold of St. Louis. J. V. S. Barre, the commission merchant of 122 and 124 North Commercial Street, was one of the first to test Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla stick headache. Its effect was such a gratifying one that he at once ordered a rest-off and told his friend, Thos. P. Calkin, sept of the registry district, who was also worried with headaches. The following letter details his friend's experience also:
P.O. BOX 150, ST. LOUIS, MO., FEB. 20, 1920.
DEAR SIR: You ask me, Did I get on your advice? I had to rest for two days. For years I have suffered from indigestion and headaches, taking your advice, I purchased for both of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Before I had finished it I could eat almost anything with impunity, and I have been since then free from all headaches of any kind, for which I give due credit to your advice and to your medicine.
Yours etc., THOS. P. CALKIN, Sup't. Registry District, Postoffice.
