CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW

Now Has a Chance to Gain the Votes of the Workingmen,

IF HE WANTS THE PRESIDENCY.

Special to THE UNITED PRESS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—"The strike on the New York Central is bound to be as important in the political as in the business world," said Wm. Price, one of the most prominent labor leaders in the city, to-night. "Chauncey M. Depew will make himself president or ruin all the chances of his ever getting the nomination by his action in this matter. It is believed among all labor men that Depew knew the strike was coming, and for that reason fled to Europe, knowing that while there political influence could not be brought to bear upon him, which would force him into concluding with the Knights."

"What then should he do under the circumstances?"

"He should either come home at once and show Vanderbilt that his intention is to hold the strike until which time he can no longer serve him, or else when they are members of the Knights. Mr. Depew, failing in being able to make Vanderbilt yield, should resign his position as president. If he settles the strike the laboring men all over the country would feel most kindly to him. If he should make a martyr of himself by resigning, they would worship him, and no power on earth could keep him from being nominated for the presidency and probably doing a great deal that would give them a chance to rise."

It is much the same in the navy, and if war should break out with England, the United States would have hundreds of ambitious men who would jump to fight.

Colonel Kellogg, who served for years on the staff of General Thomas, who married General Thomas' daughter and was on General Sheridan's staff. At the time the latter died he had been in the regular army twenty-five years. Speaking of the English and their actions he voiced the sentiment of many of his fellow Knights. "War is a soldier's harvest." Once my men had the chance to distinguish itself since 1865, and the officers of the regular army would welcome a war with England. For one I spent four years fighting the south and put in seventeen years fighting the Indians. I would now like to have a chance at England. If John Bull can't take care of Canada it belongs to us and if he gets into trouble with us we will take it. If we don't want that we can give it to the Irish and I imagine the Irish sympathizers on the other side would make a good living in England in a contest with the United States."

Secretary Bush was one of the party who listened to Col. Kellogg's remarks and the question next came up as to the available troops the United States had in case of trouble. The militia was referred to and the secretary, though he said he did not have any opinion to express as to the situation, stated that he could raise a division in Wisconsin in twenty-four hours' notice, and other states could probably do the same.

A notable innovation in building materials is plaster boards, the idea of which has been brought from Germany. They are composed of ground cork, plaster, hair and wood fiber, with reeds running through them.

The reeds are found in New Jersey and are said to be very tough and strong.

This compound is cast in sixteen eight foot long and varying thicknesses. The plaster is applied to the surface and dried directly to the furring of brick walls or the studding of partitions, and take the place of lathing. The advantage is that they are fire proof, and dry from the moment they are put up, thus obviating the tedious delays inseparable from the use of lime plaster. It is claimed that with their use a house can be finished in one-third the time required by the old method. Some architects think the material likely to have a prominent place in the construction of dwelling houses.—Burlington Free Press.

FOREST GROVE, ORE., March 10.—USEFULNESS OF THE OREGON KIDNEY TEA and obtained immediate relief. It is God's blessing to humanity. I take pleasure in recommending it to the afflicted. I am now nearly ninety years old, owing to the use of the tea in the early days of the Hudson's Bay Company, and since I began using the OREGON KIDNEY TEA I enjoy good health.
