TRANS-PACIFIC BUSINESS.

New Steamers Will Be Put on All Lines.
Special to THE ASTORIAN.
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—There will be marked changes in the Trans-Pacific situation next spring. The steamers of the Canadian Pacific Steamship Co. will be supplanted by magnificent fast steamers. The Canadian Pacific Road Co. will then be in a very stirring position to compete for freight and passenger business.
The Pacific Mail, however, will next year have a line of new American-built steamers running. They have been determined on and will be as fine, but not quite so large as the Canadian Pacific steamers.
Should the Tonnage bill now before Congress become a law the Occidental and Oriental Co. will also build new and fine steamers and return its present chartered steamers to their English owners.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—The only event of interest in sporting circles in this city is the wrestling contest between Evan Lewis and D. S. McLeod on Wednesday. 'The Stranger' will try to throw the Scotch champion three times out of four, catch-as-catch-can. The match is for a purse of $800.
THE EVER READY REVOLVER.
A Wife Beater Resents Interference With Fatal Results.
TWO BULLETS IN HIS BREATH.

Special to THE UNITED PRESS.
SAN LUIS OBSO, Aug. 24.—McCauley, aged about 19 years, shot and killed Alfred Craighill at Bean's hotel Santa Margarita, this afternoon. Craighill received a 45-calibre bullet in each breast, causing death in two hours.
Craighill was an old resident of intemperate habits and irascible disposition. Last night he was abusing his wife, when McCauley, who was in Craighill's employ and stopping at his house, endeavored to make peace. Craighill resented the interference and attacked McCauley savagely. The latter escaped for the time being, but Craighill pursued him further, to-day, abusing him and threatening his life, until finally upon Craighill making a motion as if to draw a pistol, McCauley drew a revolver and fired. McCauley came in at once and surrendered himself to the sheriff. He is generally justified by public sentiment.

THE ARMY BOARD.
Secretary Proctor Will Appoint His Own Staff.
Special to THE ASTORIAN.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—One of Secretary Proctor's first official acts on returning to Washington will be to appoint the army board provided for by the fortification bill to visit the Pacific coast and select a site for an ordnance foundry for the army. The board is to consist of three officers not below the grade of lieutenant-colonel, one to be selected from the ordnance corps, one of the engineer corps and one of the artillery.
The secretary is anxious to have this board organized as early as possible so that it can at once visit all the available sites and after a careful study of them file their report in time to be submitted to Congress as soon as it convenes in December for the second session.
The secretary and ordnance officers are anxious to begin the erection of the new foundry early next season.

THIS WEEK IN CONGRESS.
How the Time Will Be Taken up in Senate.
Special to THE ASTORIAN.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Tariff discussion, to exclusion of almost everything else, will again predominate in the Senate this week. In conformity with a mutual agreement of the Republican and anti-Democratic leaders in the Senate, Mr. Aldrich, it is expected, will come day during the week, ask that a day be fixed for final vote on the bill. The discussion may be interrupted by the conference report on sundry civil bills should an agreement be reached this week on the originating reservoir item.
Monday, in the House, will be for the committee on the District of Columbia. Tuesday and Wednesday have already been set apart for the consideration of the Butterworth bill to prohibit dealings in 'futares,' etc. on which a vote will be taken on Wednesday. The committee on rates will bring in an order setting apart Thursday and Saturday for business brought up by the committee on labor and this order will probably be agreed to. Friday will be private bill day.

ENCOURAGEMENT FOR THE FEEBLE.
So long as the falling sickness of vitality are capable of being re-kindled into a warm and genial glow, just so long as there is hope for the weak and emaciated invalid. Let him not, therefore, despair, but derive encouragement from this, and from the further fact that there is a restorative most potent in renewing the dilapidated powers of a broken-down system. Yes, thanks to its unexcelled tonic virtues, Hibbard's Stomach Bitters is daily reviving strength in the bodies and hope in the minds of the feeble and nervous. Appetite, refreshing sleep, the acquisition of flesh and color, are blessings attended upon the reparative processes which this priceless invigorant speedily initiates and carries to a successful conclusion. Digestion is restored, the blood fertilized and sustenance afforded to each life-sustaining organ of the frame, which is ineffective even to the feminine palate, vegetable in composition, and thoroughly assimilable and regains vigor.

THE RAILROAD STRIKE

Caused by Vanderbilt Carrying Out His Famous Policy.
THE NATIONAL CONVENTIONS.
It is Too Late Now to Arrange for a Postponement and the Meetings Must Be Held.

Special to THE UNITED PRESS.
NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Delegates Hannan of the Firemen's Brotherhood voiced their sentiment last night, when he said that Webb and Vanderbilt were only carrying out the public be- d—policy, and if General-Manager Touney had had his way there would never have been a strike.
It is given out officially to-night that strike or no strike, the national convention of firemen and conductors and trainmen, which have been announced for next month, for San Francisco, Los Angeles and Toledo, respectively, must take place under the constitution of each order. A postponement can only take place upon an affirmative vote of a majority of the lodges and it is now too late to take the machinery into operation.
At 10:30 the Supreme court adjourned and the session was adjourned. The sub-committee in session throughout to-day.
The advices referred to in Sargent's letter to Powderly are the bills of grievances upon which the council is required to act.

DEPEW DON'T CARE.
The Railroad Strike Does Not Worry Him Any.
Special to THE ASTORIAN.
PARIS, Aug. 24.—Depew was interviewed here last night. He says he has no intention of letting the railway strike at home break his vacation. He will sail from Hamburg on the Ten-tonic, September 3d.
Continuing Mr. Depew said: "The notifications I have received from the officers are to the effect that the situation is sufficiently serious to require my personal attention. Had I anticipated the rupture I would not have taken a vacation, but now it has occurred in my absence I will not return on account of it. I have known my officers so long that I have also fully confidence in their discretion, wisdom and justice. I have received no message asking me to arbitrate. All the information I receive from America comes from the Central office."

All Spiders Are Poisons.
Spiders, for some reason, are as scarce in Washington City as moths and butterflies are plentiful. This, however, is not an insect; unlike insects, its head and chest are in one piece, and it has eight legs instead of six. It is a fact worth knowing that all spiders are poisonous, secreting in their mandibles a venom which, from the effects produced by it, is very likely more powerful, in proportion to its quantity, than that of the cobra di capello or rattlesnake. The most dangerous spiders are the "black widow" with the red dot on the under side, and its cousin, the "katipo," which often kills human beings in New Zealand by its bite. The common "jumping spider," with the three red spots on its back, that one often sees on sunny walls, is to be avoided; it will jump at you if you point your finger at it and its bite is dangerous. Severe spider bite produces symptoms resembling those of lockjaw. The ordinary "gossamer spider," that one sees floating about in its web on warm fall days is fond of attaching a thread to the ground and permitting the breeze to blow it off in the air, where it remains suspended at anchor for days at a time, often for miles and miles from its place of anchorage. The greatest enemy of the spider is the wasp; but monkeys eat spiders, as do also snakes, turtles, birds and some mice.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

More Honors For Hearst.
Senator George Hearst of California has reached the full measure of public fame. A literary society has been named after him. It is a colored literary society and its object is the promotion of culture. Senator Hearst is a first rate judge of horse-flesh and he can tell better than any man in America whether a hole in the ground can be worked for silver ore, but he has always been a little weak in his spelling. It will take some time for him to feel at home as a man of letters, but the Senator Hearst Literary society has the senator's permission to use his name.—Washington Corr. Chicago Tribune.

PROBABLE MURDER.

The Mutilated Body of a Man Found on the Track.
Special to THE ASTORIAN.
SEATTLE, Aug. 24.—A Journal special from Centralia, Wash., says: "Yesterday Peter White, a stranger, came here with two others, presumably friends. He spent the day making a tour of the town and visiting the saloons, intending going south as far as Kalama on the night train.
This morning his remains were found on the Northern Pacific railroad track opposite the new Arlington hotel. His body was badly mutilated, both legs being cut off. Some believe he was killed in trying to board the south bound train, which passed here about 2 o'clock in the morning, while others believe he was foully dealt with, and his body placed on the track.
The absence of any considerable amount of blood or bloodstains tends to sustain the latter theory. An inquest will be held. Meanwhile the remains lie in a 'Batterwork's' undertaking parlors."

A WHOLE FAMILY MURDERED.
A Maniac Butcher's His Wife And Children With a Broad Axe.
KILLED IN BEING TAKEN.

Special to THE UNITED PRESS.
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 24.—A Livingston special to the Tribune says: A man who gave his name as Arlington reported to Sheriff Templeton about 5 o'clock this afternoon that a rancher named Quim, living twelve miles west of Livingston, had killed his wife and five children with a broad axe.
The man was crazy, and when discovered was sitting in the corner of a room eating from the arm of one of the children.
The bodies of all were horribly mutilated. The arms and legs had been severed from the bodies. The oldest, a girl of about 15 years, was cut almost in two.
Several men went to the house and tried to capture the murderer, but he would allow no one to approach him, and he was killed by one of the men in self defense.
H. WALTER WEBB.

Vanderbilt's Young Man Who is Fighting the Knights of Labor.
Mr. Webb is a son of that James Watson Webb who was a famous New York editor in the days of the war. He inherited much of his father's determination of character and concentration of purpose, and having had advantage of a thorough training in railway service, the directors of the New York Central system decided that he was the man for the emergency which had arisen.
Mr. Webb, furthermore, has an infatuation for the railway business and an honorable ambition to win esteem as a most competent manager. He does not need to work for his support. He is sufficiently well off to be able to pass his days in ease if he so chose, but he is something of a workaholic and a proper ambition impels him.
He labored so extensively when he took the new office that he was suddenly seized with a peculiar illness, which caused temporary blindness and threatened the permanent loss of eyesight, but a brief period of rest, combined with an ocean bath, relieved the ailment. He returned to work just in time to see the emergency which had been threatened arising. It is probable that much of Mr. Webb's labors was devoted to ferreting out the causes of the demoralization which exists along the line. It was a work which entailed patience, secrecy and great determination, and it resulted in the discharge of the sixty-five men.
There is no doubt that Mr. Webb discovered that outside influences had been secretly at work for some time to bring the whole body of employes on the New York Central system under the control of the Knights of Labor. There is also good reason to think that he has reorganized the same, and energies were thus directed to assume toward the corporation a policy which must have regarded not only as offensive, but as impervious to his business.
There is no doubt that Mr. Webb and his associates in the management of the road alone know. Nor do they admit to an indiscriminate public that they have discovered any such condition of things as has here been described. Yet those who are close to the management of the road tell me that there is no doubt that a discovery of this kind was made, and that, in the opinion of the managers it called for immediate and heroic treatment. This was administered when the orders came for the discharge of sixty five employes.—Philadelphia Press.

SHIELLED BY FRENCHMEN
Massacre of Hundreds of Natives in the New Hebrides Islands.
MURDER OF WHITES AVENGED
An Entire Village Demolished—The Natives Flee to a Volcanic Mountain For Safety.
Special by THE UNITED PRESS.
MELBOURNE, Aug. 24.—News has just been received here from the New Hebrides Islands, of a disastrous result of an attempt on the part of the commodore of a German vessel to secure native laborers to work on the docks at Sydney, where the shipping is all tied up and commerce paralyzed by a strike of stevedores and ship crews.
The German commodore anchored his vessel off the island of Ambrim, whose inhabitants are warlike savages and went ashore with his crew to negotiate with the natives, for a large gang of men. Whether or not he attempted to seize some of the natives and take them aboard is unknown, but for some reason the natives became suspicious of his intentions, and taking the captain and several crew members, made a sudden attack upon them in the night and killed all who were ashore.
The mate and a part of the crew remaining on board the ship learned in the morning what had happened, and to escape from the natives, who were apparently intending to attack the ship, made sail and stood off from the island.
A day or two later they spoke a French vessel and informed the commodore of the massacre.
The French captain laid his course for Ambrim and when within short range of the shore, opened fire on the village of natives.
The Frenchmen shelled every collection of huts on the island, killing a great many of the inhabitants, who were too terrified for some time by the bursting of shells to do more than rush about in aimless panic.
After a great deal of damage had been done the natives fled from their villages and sought refuge on a volcanic mountain in the center of the island, where they were safe from the Frenchman's fire.
The French commodore continued bombarding until scarcely a vestige of a hut remained, but did not land any men to pursue the fugitive natives.
"SAID S." STILL QUEEN.
"Samol" fails to beat her record, but wins New Laurels.
Special to THE ASTORIAN.
CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—"Maude S." is still queen of the turf. "Samol," this afternoon failing to beat her time. The latter, however, won new laurels by lowering her four-year-old record to 2:10 1/2.

Indians Capture a Whale.
J. D. Lowry, who has just returned from Quinault reservation, brings an account of the capture of a great whale of the Quinault river last week. The Indians at that place engage in whale fishing as a regular vocation, using their canoes and crude appliances for ensuring the monsters of the deep with great ease. This particular whale, forty-five feet in length, they were three days and nights in subduing and bringing to shore. It is a coast whale, its value to the Indians being about $100.—Graft's Harbor Times.

THE RANIER COMPANY'S MAMMOTH MILL LAID IN ASHES.

The Flammes Begin All Efforts to Check Them—Origin of the Fire Unknown.
Special by THE UNITED PRESS.
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—An Examiner's special from Seattle says: The Ranier Company's mill on the shores of the harbor at the foot of Mercer street took fire this morning at 11 o'clock. Before assistance arrived the flames were beyond control and the mill, together with a large stock of lumber was destroyed. The origin of the fire is not known, but it is thought it originated in the boiler room or in the dry kiln.
President Evans, of the mill was standing near by when some one came running out of the mill yelling fire. Mr. Evans turned and saw flames darting out of the building, directly over the boiler and before anything towards staying the blaze could be accomplished they spread with great rapidity and beat all through the mill.
Mr. Evans summoned men and tried to work the pumps, the plant having a private fire department, but owing to the heat nothing could be accomplished. The proprietors of the mill had taken every precaution against fire, for realizing their cases in the mill, they knew that in case of an emergency the fire department could render them no material assistance. All along the roof of the building were barrels filled with water, and buckets and extinguishers were placed at frequent intervals all through the mill. Water and extinguishers were nothing to the fierce flames that ate their way along rafters, through shavings, flooring, seasoned quantities of shashes and doors, until the entire mill was one place was crowded. The men who fought the fire gave up the unequal contest in terror and fled for their lives.
The fire department was called out, but the mill was in an inaccessible place and the firemen abandoned the engines and set to work with axes to chop away the connections with the lumber yard and trestle of the Seattle Lake Shore and Eastern railroad, and adjoining wharves.
Several hundred thousand feet of lumber were thrown overboard and in this way saved. Within an hour after the alarm was given, nothing was left of the large mill but a few smouldering piles of timber. A post, as it burned away, dropped into the bay leaving nothing to mark where the building stood.
President Evans estimated the loss of the company at $50,000. A complete plant of such a mill or machine had just been put on and this the estimated loss is $15,000. The company held on their plant and stock an insurance of $15,000, and Mr. Evans held $2,000 in insurance with the Hanford & Beach insurance agency for machinery in the building.

BLOCKADED BY RAINS.
Serious Washouts on Transcontinental Roads.
ONE BAD WRECK REPORTED.
Special by THE UNITED PRESS.
ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 24.—Heavy rains are prevailing along the Atlantic & Pacific and the Atchafalaya, Topoka & Santa Fe roads and as fast as one washout is repaired others occur. Twice this week washouts have occurred in the vicinity of Houck's tank, on the former road, but the one last night is the most serious. Several hundred yards of track is gone or under water and three passenger trains from California are due.
A freight train on the Santa Fe went into a washout near Pope's siding, south of San Marcial and a number of cars jumped the track. The wreck delayed last night's east-bound passenger train from the south twelve hours.
One brakeman sustained painful injuries about the body, but no one was fatally hurt.
The Churns of a Frivolous Woman.

The frivolous woman is much more necessary to the nation than a president. She is as delightful as fresh soda and as easily shut off. She is a rest after the cares of the day and her frivolity becomes charming if she couples prettiness with it. Frivolous women seldom do the mischief in this world. Women who affect frivolousness do. Everybody would lose by the disappearance of the frivolous woman. Business would stop, no classes for general culture would be formed, and women would be as uninteresting and as tiresome as most of the men. The charm of a frivolous woman is the same as that of a baby, irresponsibility, and yet there have been frivolous women who, when the time came, could do great things, could endure pain without wincing, could smile and make the best of poverty, or, putting their dainty shoulders to the wheel, could help the household cart out of the deep mire into which it has gotten. A frivolous woman is likeliest to arise equal to the occasion, and that's all you want her to do. Bring a man home from a dusty day, put him down to the dinner table and he would much rather hear the sile chat—chat that is at once amusing and interesting—of a frivolous woman than the weighty argument on political economy that is always possible to the woman with an iron frame. Women framed in iron mentally and physically, who couldn't send a girl to jail or cure to a friend, the women who make men think that women are wiser not to know anything. Let a woman know everything under the heavens that she wants, but let her learn when to use this knowledge. First at a treat meeting, it is booming that will come back and strike her dead.

It was a frivolous woman who said: "I have been going to a class in literature all winter and I don't know how to put a letter to my mother. A woman who wears her hair off her forehead and affects a reformed style of dress speaks of him as 'Gerty,' the divine writer." Another one who wears a stiff turban, hat, with no bit of hair showing under it, calls him 'Guty,' (it rhymes with duty) and says he really knows the meaning of love. A young lady who has been culturing herself ever since she left school, and who from great culture presumably, in the color of a lemon, and would stand a training with sulphur and molasses, admirably refers to him as 'Guty,' (rhyming it with putty) the prince of Germans. A stately lady whose point lace is a thing of beauty calls him 'Go-eth,' and she's frowned upon by another woman who addresses him as if he were present in spirit as 'Geeth.' The nearest achieved by my own class rhymed with 'duty.' For my own part I always say 'Go-eth' in contrast to cometh, as the nearest that I can come to it.—Terre Haute Express.

Many persons, of all ages and both sexes, in perfect health cannot hold their tongues when asleep. This comes from a habit of talking or conversing irritability. The remedy is an early meal before going to bed, taking half a pint of cold water before putting the head on the pillow, and always sleeping on the right side—never on the back. In case of premature wakefulness a copious draught of water usually induces sleep.—New York Telegram.
