HARD ON THE NEGRO.

A Scheme to Disfranchise Blacks in the South.

Special to THE ASTORIAN.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—N. P. Brown, a Democrat from Vicksburg, Miss., who is in the city, talked to a reporter to-day about the work of the constitutional convention which has been in session in Jackson for several days. He said: "The incorporation of the educational qualifying clause in the new constitution was, I admit, for the main purpose of disfranchising the great majority of the blacks. By it about 120,000 negroes will be debarred from voting and between 10,000 and 15,000 whites. But we in Mississippi have no desire to have our property, to say nothing of ourselves, ruled by ignorant blacks and such Republican demagogues as have come down there, and nobody can blame us. It may be wrong in theory to deprive any living being of his vote, but if the human being so deprived is absolutely unable to take care of himself, let alone anybody else, I say they be hanged; practice is what we want."
