

SHIPBUILDING on the great lakes of the north is an active industry, and the city of Cleveland, Ohio, claims to lead the way.

JAY GOULD, in a recent interview, said: "I believe in imposing a tariff which shall protect our industries, but still not be prohibitory."

COMMENDABLE energy is being shown by Pilot Commissioners Montgomery and Weeks, who are determined to have another pilot schooner in service as soon as possible.

WHENEVER the determined men of Astoria arouse to the proper conception of the work and determine to accomplish it, the construction of a railroad to this city will be an assured fact.

ASTORIA has been long enough in the dumps on the back seat, waiting for something to turn up. Let this continue no longer.

YESTERDAY'S Oregonian is a remarkably creditable production. It contains twenty pages and is a special manufacturing edition, devoted principally to a carefully prepared and statistical account of the principal manufacturing establishments of Oregon and Washington.

SELDOM has there been a better opportunity for Astoria to secure an important business, than the one referred to in the local columns under the heading of "Considerable Money."
