

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1890

"A PANIC is people losing their heads," says Mr. Jay Gould. This may be the right and official definition, but it somehow doesn't seem to have the picturesqueness of the description given once by Mr. Gould's old-time partner, Uncle Daniel Drew, whose remark was: "It's h—!"

The Salem Statesman calls those who are urging the removal of the Willamette university from that city, "wreckers," and says: "The feeling against the absolute dishonesty of the attempted removal of the Willamette university is almost universal in Salem. There is no spark of honesty in the proposition. This phase of the question does not seem to have entered the calculations of the wreckers."

Excitement Runs high at J. W. Conn's drug store over System Builder, as everybody is using it for Catarrh of the stomach, Dyspepsia, Constipation and Impure Blood, and to build up the system it certainly possesses wonderful merits when all speak so well of it.

First-class shaving, 25c, Ferd Ferrell's.
