Dealing Floods and Storms Throughout the Country.

Under Water and People are Taking Refuge in the Hills.

Pittaburg, Pa., Feb. 7.-The flood that threatened disaster to Pitisburg and Allegheny has it is thought, been checked by the cold weather and at midnight the worst was believed to be over. The lower parts of Allegheny and the south side are submerged, and the damage as far as known, is not large, but poor people who were forced to leave their home suffer greatly from the cold. The high waters seriously affected the railroads, and nearly all through trains are delayed. The famous Connemaugh river overflowed so that it has broken the embankments in several places, causing fear and consternation among many who reside along the stream. Trouble is expected at Johnstown, over thirty miles of telegraph line on the Franklin division of the Lake Shore road is destroyed by last night's storm. Dispatches from various points Wearen. Captain Bendegare was asleep at the time and knew nothing of the affair until some hours later. This is the result of the trouble between the Court Seamen's Union and the non-Union sailors, the former declaring that non-Union med must leave the ships. Kidnaping outrages of this kind are becoming quite common on the Sound.

There is much speculation as to who will be the new bar rilet in San Franelsco, to succeed William Damett. The pilot board meets on Monday next. In addition to Captains Erskine and Houdlette, already mentioned, there is a dark horse in the fight.

When the stevedores discharging the China knocked off work at 5 o'clock Monday evening at San Francisco, their foreman ordered the cargo plank in use at the forward hatch, hauled ashore. It was a heavy, awkward slide, but there were men enough to handle it, and it was sliding in easily until the rope sustaining the ship end of it parted. The slide was tilted at an angle of nearly 55 degrees at the time, and the smooth end slid along the dock with the rapidity and resistless force of a locomotive. Half a dozen of the men hauling on the dock end were knocked down and badly bruised, but all were able to help themselven up except Joseph Cartright, a stevedore. He aus-tained a fracture of the skull and other injuries of such a serious character that his recovery is pronounced doubtful.

Hostesses giving dinners should concandle shades, flowers and embroidery, it needs toning to take away a certain brassy effect on the skin. Green, also should not be the color through which light passes directly on the women's faces. The popularity of violet and helictrope feasts possibly lies in the fact that no shade is more softening and becoming in combination with gas and candle light. A violet distinct has the table scarf lightly embroidered with blossoms in natural colors, with napkins and doyleys similarly decorated. Bunches of violets in cut glass hows stand irregularly about the board, and the candles in the branching candelabra of silver or china, are violet shaded with violet shades. A few loose violets are in the finger bowie, and the ice is served in little urns of violet saily, whose covers are bunches of the flower.
