ABOUT THE CITY.

First Sunday in Lent.
There was a heavy dew yesterday.
Lobbyists are free for another two years.

Our legislators, with armfuls of triumph will be home today.

Local weather for the twenty-four hours ending at 5 p. m. yesterday, furnished by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Weather Bureau:

Herman Gans, of Gans & Klein, of Helena, Montana, the purchaser of the Dinmore stock, has been at work with his manager, Mr. Lee Kohn, and O. B. Olson, for the last week, invoicing and preparing the stock for the big sale now starting.

Upon a complaint issued by Deputy City Attorney Munly on Friday, four drivers for the Standard Oil Company in Portland were arrested for doing business without a license. Bail was furnished for each, and their cases will come up in the police court Monday. It is understood that the company will fight the matter, bringing up the point that it is not required to pay license for running its wagons.

The following is a list of patents granted to Pacific Coast inventors this week: J. S. Biggar, Whitesborough, Cal., gas engine; C. E. Blake, Sr., San Francisco, Cal., surgical forceps for dental use; J. H. Griswold, Oakland, Cal., combined fruit-picker and pruning implement; M. A. Hart, Scribner, Cal., suspended chair; G. D. Horton, Snohomish, Wash., fly-catcher; J. Jett, adjustable map or chart stand; P. & J. St. Mary, San Francisco, damper regulating apparatus; P. L. Youngren, Oakland, Cal., continuous kiln.

The Rescue Club met at 8 o'clock last night. W. J. Crawford presided. After prayer by Mr. C. M. Huxford, the following excellent program was rendered: recitation, "The Volunteer Organist," Miss Fay Liebermann; recitation, "Jane Conquest," Miss Clara Dunbar; instrumental music, Profs. Bonavia and Bain; reading, "Moderate Drinking," Rev. F. K. VanTassel; song, Messrs. Wm. Belcher and Harry Van Tassel; J. W. Thompson, accompanist on piano; Miss Martha Powell, G. P. Brower and C. M. Huxford are the program committee for next week.

Col. E. C. Hughes had a narrow escape from drowning on Friday while out duck hunting. He and Fred Davidson were out in two small skiffs near Burnside's place. When moving from one part of the skiff to another, his foot slipped and the boat gave a lurch. He tried to regain his balance, but still kept slipping and one leg got over the side. This caused the boat to upset, and threw him into the water. He clung to the gunwale of the skiff, and as it slowly turned towards him, clambered on to the bottom. While in this position Mr. Davidson came up and rescued him. The frail craft was righted and Mr. Hughes got off with a slight ducking, but he lost his gun and all his cartridges.

While digging a drain to connect with the sewer on Front street, Portland, between Ankeny and Ash streets, about 1:30 Friday afternoon, Robert Wyeck, a laborer, was nearly suffocated from inhaling escaping gas from a main. While engaged with a shovel, he suddenly fell over and was taken out in an unconscious state. Cold water was thrown in his face, and the police were notified. Officer Moore and Patrol Wagon Driver Al Wohles went down, but, as the man had recovered, he was not taken to the station. City Physician Wheeler was called to see him, but the danger was passed, and a few hours later he had entirely recovered. He is about 22 years of age. He refused to talk when questioned concerning himself.

At the Cosmopolitan this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock, Utzinger's band will give a free concert.

"The various officials of the city building," says the Oregonian, "are anxious to see the charter as amended by the legislature. The assessor wishes to know whether his office has been abolished, the surveyor and street superintendent are interested in the new city boundaries, the auditor is anxious to ascertain whether certain amendments needed to facilitate work in his office have been included, and all are waiting for a sight of the bill as it passed. It is said that the new city limits included everything in sight. The council at its next meeting, will probably order a certified copy of the bill, unless someone orders it in time for the meeting and lets the council pay for it afterwards." Same here.

For a pleasant afternoon go to the Cosmopolitan and hear the concert by Utzinger's band today.

Chief Wolf, the wealthy Snake Indian who is now in Washington, D. C., trying to get the president to refund the money he was compelled to pay for taxes on his large band of horses, was robbed of $200 the other day. About a month ago he sent to his son at Pasco for $200 and told the young man that the money was buried near his home near Fishhook Bend, on the Snake River. When the boy went to the place and dug up the box supposed to contain about $200, the money was all gone, and nothing but the empty box remained. Young Wolf, when he found the money was gone, rushed to town as soon as possible, to tell of his father's loss. The facts in the case were at once sent to Wolf at Washington, but he as yet has apparently paid no attention to the loss. Old Wolf has spent nearly $200 to get $200 of taxes refunded.

Take our advice and have your photos taken at Crows Gallery, the only place in the city where you can get first class work.

Mrs. Leonhardt, a clairvoyant, and Professor Hanson, "the healer," were arrested in Portland on Friday, by Deputy Sheriff Woods, a complaint having been sworn out in Justice Wood's court by a man named Rhodes, charging them with obtaining money under false pretenses. Rhodes, throughout his complaint, admitted himself to be about as rank a "sucker" as is generally caught. He says he paid a visit to the fortune tellers some time ago, and they guaranteed him that if he paid them $15, they would give him the number of the winning ticket in the Louisiana lottery. When the drawing took place, Rhodes' ticket did not call for anything, and it was then he saw how he had been taken in. The cases will be heard in court Monday.

Utzinger's Band will give one of their popular instrumental concerts this afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock. A choice program has been prepared and it will be well worth hearing.

The trial of Daniel Cronk and Fred Holm, the men arrested by Police Captain McKevitt, came off at the police court yesterday afternoon. Cronk was first arraigned on the charge of vagrancy, and as the evidence was not considered sufficiently strong to substantiate the charge, Judge Osburn acquitted him. In the case of Holm, a jury was called for by the defendants' counsel and the following jurors were sworn: A. J. Mestler, T. Boelling, Frank Stevens, W. B. Ross, N. Schlusel, and D. F. Carty. The evidence was substantially the same as stated in the Astorian yesterday morning, and after being out about three minutes, the jury came in with a verdict of not guilty. A complaint has been sworn out against Captain McKevitt on a charge of assault and battery. This will come up before Judge Cleveland on Monday, if he returns. In all probability Holm will bring suit against the city for damages and defamation of character. Chief Loughery suspended Capt. McKevitt from duty immediately after the trial, pending the action of the police commissioners, who will have a hearing on Monday night at which the matter will be considered.

During these stirring holidays of the Celestials it is doubtful whether the laundry left with them will ever come back, to say nothing of dirty and yellow clothes, with a probable hole burned by firecrackers. Take no chances, but send your clothes to the Model Steam Laundry office at William's barber shop, on Second street, near Jeff's restaurant.

Charles Holman, the newly elected food commissioner, is a son of Captain Charles Holman, long identified with the steamboat and transportation interests centering at Portland. He is about 35 years of age and a practical farmer, having been engaged in the business for 12 years in Clackamas county. He is a gentleman well known and esteemed as a practical man, having made a study of dairying and kindred matters. He has successfully managed a farm of 600 acres on Milk creek, about 25 miles from Portland in one of the most fertile and best portions of Clackamas county. His selection is a just recommendation of an Oregon boy he being a native of Portland, who has shown his ability to become a practical and successful farmer. Ferris Henshaw, game protector, has been a resident of Portland for a number of years. He is an expert bookkeeper by profession, but at all times an enthusiastic sportsman. Mr. Henshaw was deputy city auditor under W. F. Matthews and gained considerable notoriety by refusing to resign when Mr. Matthews went out of office. He is popular among sportsmen and his election will be satisfactory to the members of the fraternity in this city. W. J. Riley is a popular sportsman of Portland, and the proprietor of a gun store. He has for a long time been among the foremost in the efforts to secure better protection for game and fish in the state. Although still a young man, Mr. Riley is possessed of sound judgment, and will prove a valuable addition to the board.

THE PILOT BILL
Despite the opposition of the U. P., Campbell's Pilot Bill has passed, and once more our pilots will be enabled to make a decent living.

Prosperity for one class is to the benefit of all; there's no gain in sending money out of town, or by patronizing concerns who bring their old trash here and take our good money away from us.

If you believe in building up your town, trade with your home merchants, who stand by you in hard times as well as when times are good.

You cannot possibly do better than by trading with the Reliable Clothier, Herman Wise, because his stock is first-class and his prices are very reasonable.
