

OUR DAILY MARINE COLUMN

The State of California came in from San Francisco yesterday and after discharging Astoria freight left for Portland.

The Oregon went out yesterday to San Francisco.

The three masted schooner Sailor Boy, Captain Peterson, arrived in Seattle from San Francisco shortly after noon on Monday. She had 135 tons of merchandise and carried a non-union crew.

Captain Peterson when seen by a Telegraph reporter, said: "I have always been in sympathy with the union men, but when I found that they wanted to run my business, then I concluded to employ men who are not members of the union."

Soon after the longshoremen had commenced discharging the Sailor Boy's cargo Chief Jackson called on Captain Peterson.

"If your crew wants to go to work," said the chief, "we'll protect them if it takes the entire force."

Captain Peterson, however, was willing that the longshoremen should continue, but he asked the chief for police assistance so long as his schooner remains in port.

The City of Topeka arrived at Seattle from Alaska, Monday, and is now taking coal at the Oregon Improvement Company's bunkers.
