Hemlock Is

Valuable Wood.

The following article from the Northwestern Lumberman is is published as it is of interest to owners of timber in this section where hemlock has been looked upon as of little value. It shows that the time is not far distant when this wood may be considered as valu able as the fir that is now so much in demand. Those who have forests of hemlock will probably do well to keep till called for. There are many here who can ustify to the value of hemlock as a building material, and especially as to its durability for floor-

Evidences are accumulated that hemlock is to be a greater dependence, in the line of framing dimensions, in the centeral west this season than ever before. One leading wholesale dealer in this city remarks that the trace must resort to hemlock more extensively than heretofore, for the simple reason that there is not a sufficient supply of pine. He might have added that pine has come to be too costly for framing purposes. Hemlock, though having during the past year advanced in value in ratio with white and Norway pine, still sells at prices $1.50 to $2 a thousand below the prices of pine. This is an important factor in the increasing furious from start to finish. use of hemlock. It has been hard work to push the once despised wood into recognition among western consumers, but a good start has been made, and hereafter dealers will have less trouble | lulu, today to join the cruiser Boston. than formerly in inducing contractors She takes a large quantity of stores and carrenters to take hold of it. The lumber busi ness of Michigan and Wisconsin will be greatly prolonged by the cutting and marketing of hemlock. Pennsylvania will also help in the western supply. Considerable hemlock from that state is arriving in this city. If it can be alongside Parker's dock. shipped to this point, it can be distributed to other portions of the old Northwestern states, at least those east of the Mississippi river. The result will be a notable strengthening of the hemlock market in Pennsylvania.

throughout the West in the northern load of shooks. it looked as if yellow pine would soon become a powerful competitor in the Works. dimension line with white and Norway pine; that it might crowd the latter to the wall, in fact, throughout the greater portion of the distributive field. But hemlock is likely to check this tendency. Southern pine will grow in demand for timbers and joists, where strength is an important requisite, but for ordinary use in the smaller and less costly structures, hemlock will fill the bill, because it is sufficiently strong for the purpose, and can be sold much cheaper than yellow pine. It also has the advantage of a short haul, and much of it can be carried to market by

It will also be interesting to observe the effect of the growing competition of hemlock on white and Norway pine river by Captain Tibbetts, of the is likely that pine dimensions will have Sound. to come down from the altitude it has attained during the past year or more, This would be the natural result should a dull year for demand succeed the urgent requirement that has recently prevailed, largely on account of preparations for the World's Fair. Some offset to this probable condition will be experienced by the growing general 10quirement for inch lumber, which now seems to dominate in all the markets, and will thus continue as the stumpage supply in the older sections of the bear some part in the wedding expine states shall diminish.

One question is forever in the air: Cannot a bridegroom when he has more of this world's goods than the bride, penses? Prepriety shakes her head and reiterates: "No part whatever, but paying the minister." Grooms frequently do provide the carriages, the cards, the flowers, or even the caterer. In so doing they trample upon one of the most sacred laws of etiquette, which decrees that they must have nothing to do with the legitimate expenses, though they can be as lavish as The case against the Irving Club was they like in present-giving. What is that terrible ailment? you ask. It is Heart Disease! "But." you reply, confidently, "I haven't any heart disease—my heart is all right." Are you sure?
Dr. Franklin Miles, of Elkhart, Ind., the distinguished specialist in diseases of the heart and nervous system, states that disorders of the heart are as common as those of the lungs, liver, stomach, bowels or kidneys, though often unsuspected. The reason people are not aware of this important fact is because symptoms of heart disease are not usually recognized as proceeding from this organ, but are attributed to some other source.
