Deputy United States Marshall Gregg passed through town yesterday on his way to Portland, with the crew of the steamer Alice Blanchard, who were arrested at Coquille, where the vessel has been for some time, on a charge of mutiny. It appears that the men demanded to be paid at the rate of forty cents an hour instead of by the month, and a few days ago when the steamer was leaking badly, and her engine room was full of water, they refused to work unless their terms were complied with. They also demanded that the captain and cook take spells at the baling, as the pumps had been rendered useless. They were bounced over in the sum of $400 each to appear before the United States district court on a charge of mutiny.

Buy "Prize of Japan" tea. Our own importation; rich, pure, fragrant, and at no higher price than you usually pay for an inferior one. Ross, Higgins & Company.

The location of the pleasure resort contemplated by Mr. R. L. Nolf and mentioned in these columns yesterday, has been changed to Fairfield, at the foot of Captain J. H. D. Gray's property, instead of at Williamsport. This eliminates from the project the Boynton Bicycle railway, as Judge Taylor, of the Bay Railway Company, agrees to extend the motor line to the end of Taylor's addition, and Mr. Nolf agrees to build a plank walk to the proposed site of the boat house. This walk will be some 1200 feet in length, and will give a resort much nearer home. Mr. Nolf will today solicit stock subscriptions, and in view of the small amount he requires to make the project a success, it will be a source of regret should his efforts prove unsuccessful.

The logs from the big raft that broke away on the Lewis and Clarke river a short time since have nearly all been recovered, after almost incessant labor on the part of the owners. Yesterday morning D. J. Ingalls and one of his neighbors succeeded in securing a few of the logs which had been appropriated by Chinese and others at Smith's point. The Mongolians had taken a cut worth about three dollars off one log, while a white man had performed a similar operation on another, when they were caught and chased off. The raft, which included about 400,000 feet, was the property of D. J. Ingalls, Watson & Wisner, Frank Dow, Frank Sales and the Olsen Brothers. The property recovered at Smith's point will be towed back to the Lewis & Clarke by the steamer Rich.

Sad Accident In Uppertown.

An extremely serious but not necessarily fatal accident occurred yesterday afternoon in Uppertown, and as a result Mrs. N. Nyman now lies in a precarious condition. About 3 o'clock Mrs. Nyman, whose husband is a butcher, for Messrs. Christenson & Co., took her husband's rifle in her hand and proceeded to demonstrate to him the ease with which she could handle the weapon. Taking a cartridge, she inserted it in the chamber and from there it was transferred to the rifle barrel, but in some manner became fast. After endeavoring for some time to extricate the cartridge, Mrs. Nyman grasped the weapon with both hands and dashed the butt against the floor. Instantly there was an explosion, and the unfortunate woman dropped to the floor, apparently dead. The grief of the husband at the terrible sight was pitiable. Mrs. Nyman soon showed signs of still being alive, and Dr. Estes was called. He responded promptly and was soon engaged in hunting for the bullet. When he was informed of the manner in which the rifle had been held at the time the accident occurred, he looked near the shoulder blade for the missile and was rewarded with success. Just above the shoulder blade he found two chunks of lead, the ball having split by contact with either a portion of the lady's corset or against one of the bones which it struck. It was found that it entered at the lower and outer edge of the left breast, and ranging upward passed clear through the lung. Mrs. Nyman's maiden name was Annie Johnson, and she is only 19 years old. She is a great favorite with a host of friends. At last reports her condition was regarded as critical.

Sales of Columbia river salmon, says the San Francisco Herald of Trade, are reported at $1.37 1-2 for tails and $1.52 1-2 for flats. Astoria mail advices are confirmatory of a light run and more or less loss of boats or nets met by fishermen, with loss, in some instances, of life. From all we can learn canners on the river are rather indifferent about business, owing to the light profit in the business. On the Sacramento river nothing is being done.

The United Norwegian Lutheran church, of the Pacific coast, will hold its district meeting in this city from Thursday evening the 4th, until Sunday evening the 7th. The meeting will open with services at 7:30 p. m. at W. Parker's Hall, Upper Astoria. All Scandinavians are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

A Gross Insult To Ould Ireland.

As the result of an indignation meeting recently held in New York, by a number of the Irish residents of that city, the park commissioners have determined to change the names of the animals in the park zoo. The meeting was held under the auspices of the County Mayo Association and was amusing in the extreme:

"If a new monkey arrives at the zoo, they call it Pat or Bridget, or O'Brien," said T. T. Toney, in response to a call by the chairman. "If a new hippopotamus comes, they call it 'Murphy.' They hold the grand old Irish race and name up to ridicule. No graceful swan or liquid-eyed gazelle is called Pat or Bridget. They call them Maud, or Reginald, or Duke of Buckingham, or something English. I tell you brothers, it is an infamous degradation to call sealions and baboons and chimpanzees and hippopotami after our brothers and sisters in the dear old country. We must rise and smite this outrage!"

"Yes, the Irish must arise and stamp out this outrage," cried John McShane, of Kerry.

The venerable Daniel O'Shea then took the floor. "Why, gentlemen," he began, "it is a burning indignity long continued and entirely inexcusable. Only a few weeks ago a baby hippopotamus was born. Did they name it Princess of Wales? No! Did they name it Princess May, of Teck? No! They named it Murphy—Miss Murphy! that goggle-eyed, thick-skinned, amphibious brute was given the good, old Irish name of Murphy." (Murmurs of indignation.)

"And, brothers," continued O'Shea, "we have rights here which must be respected. Who discovered this country? An Irishman named Brandon, 400 years before Columbus was born! We have a better right to live here than men from foreign parts."

"Yes," shouted a Tyrone man in the back part of the room, "better than the English."

"Aye," responded Mr. O'Shea, "we helped to drive the English from America once, and we can do it again." "The insult offered the noble Irish must not be tolerated any longer," exclaimed P. Maloney, of Kerry. "They insulted us when they named that dirty chimpanzee Crowley, and his dirty wife Kitty Crowley. There isn't a monkey in the monkey house that isn't a Muligan, an O'Brien, a Mahoney, or a Reilly. It must stop, and at once."

Patrick Sweeney, also of Kerry, said the Irish had become the ruling power in the nation. "We give the democratic party our votes when it asks for them, and now we demand of that party, that this insult be wiped out."

"Call the next baboon 'Balfour,'" shouted a Killarney man.

"O'Johnny Bull!" cried a man from Cork.

"And the next baby hippopotamus after one of Beatrice's little German-English Battenberg babies!" added a voice from Antrim.

These sallies put the meeting in good humor. Then Patrick Mahoney took the floor again. "It has often made my flesh creep," he said, "to hear a baboon called after a distinguished fellow-countryman and christian friend of mine, Crowley. It has made my blood boil to hear that honored name made the laughing stock of every visitor at the zoo."
