The appearance of the vernal season has been so backward, that it becomes a matter of universal interest to observe and register the development of vegetation.

April 18.—The modest and beautiful little Claytoria Siberica is among the first flowers to hail the appearance of spring.

April 22.—Stellaria media, chickweed, and cerastium plumosum, mouse-eared chickweed, closely allied to each other, are among the garden weeds which take early possession of the soil.

April 24.—Oxalis Oregona, springs up as if by magic and hides the dingy soil, first by foliage, making a fair carpet spangled with snow white blossoms, worthy to be pressed by the footsteps of passing beauty.

April 25.—Spargelia arvensis, corn spurry, next arrives like the locust of Egypt. It is one of those European emigrants that could well be denied a foothold on our soil.

April 29.—Trillium ovatum, wake robin. This beautiful lilaceous plant is among our earliest visitors, sending out its snow white flowers to adorn every portion of nature's realm.

April 30.—Trillium ovatum, wake robin. This beautiful lilaceous plant is among our earliest visitors, sending out its snow white flowers to adorn every portion of nature's realm.

Rather risky—the other day I was made by the proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery, Risky Remedy. Risky for them. For you, if you have Catarrh, it's a certainty. You're certain to be cured of it, or to be paid $500.

But—is it so much of a risk? They have a medicine that cures Catarrh, not for a time, but for all time. They've watched it for years, curing the most hopeless cases.
