York Presbytery, it would not yet be a final decision, for the defendant pres-

as wither constitutional or valid." Dr. Briggs spoke bitterly about the omission from the brief of the prosecutors of questions put to him to test the charge that he had preached doc- Friday or Saturday. trines against the fundamental doc trines of the Church.

"I affirm that I believe," he said turning with outstretched hands to the audience, "the Holy Scriptures to be the work of God."

Briggs closed with an appeal that the case might go to the synod of New York. If that were done, he would aid in a solution of the case, and then if assembly, he would abide by its decision, whatever it might be. He regretted it if he had said anything that caused trouble in the church. He had taught for twenty years at the Union Theological Seminary, and of all the persons that had been taught by him, he challenged any of them to say he had taught them anything that had their whole duties. Dr Briggs concluded his address at 3:10 o'clock and as he took his seat a wave of applause ran over the rear of the church, which evoked an indignant rebuke from the moderator. Then Colonel McCook began the closing argument for the prosecution. The committee was in support of the recommendation that appeal be entertained. Almost at the opening, Dr. Briggs interrupted to correct what he claimed was a misstatement. Moderator Craig said to Dr. Briggs that he had been allowed four and one-half hours without interruption; that McCook heard him through without an objection, and that Briggs should allow McCook to go on in the same way.

Colonel McCook said: "Great weight has been given the technical questions raisted in the interest of the appellee and based on a clause in the fifth amendment of the Constitution of the United States: 'Nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in copardy of life and liberty.' It had been ingeniously claimed that an appeal from the New York Presbytery would place the appelee's ecclesiastical life in jeopardy a second time. This is an inappropriate use of the term "ecclesiastical life.' It seems to have con- hibit at the world's fair. fused the minds of some. These are not criminal proceedings involving peril to life or liberty of the appellee. They are proceedings to enforce a contract, or tract had been maintained in all its byterian General Assembly. integrity." In conclusion, McCook gave the reason of the prosecuting committee why the appeal should be say it is imperatively necessary that a
