Don't fail to see and read the World's Columbian Exhibition Illustrated, B. F. Coe, agent.

Salmon were running well yesterday, and John Mattson, who is in charge of boat No. 99 of Kinney's cannery, caught sixty fish with his first cast. The total weight was 2,000 pounds, netting the happy fisherman an even $100. Several other boats came in bringing respectively, 1400, 1500, 1600, and 1700 pounds of fish.

Wing Lee has just received a full line of Japanese curiosities and fancy goods. Will sell at cost. 523 Third street.

During Mr. Wingate's stay in Portland, he was in conversation with Manager Hay, of the Postal Telegraph Co., and was informed by that gentleman that his company contemplated building a telegraph line down the river to this city. Mr. Wingate stated to him that if it could be shown that such an enterprise would pay, Astorians would subscribe liberally to the stock. The Postal has long contemplated taking such a step, and from what Manager Hay stated, the inference is drawn that the time is at hand when active operations will be begun.

Parties visiting in Portland can get The Daily Astorian at Handley & Haas' news stand, 150 First street.

All children who intend going to the cemetery will form on Olney street by 9:40 sharp.

Del. Ferguson, general job printer, Astorian building, upstairs. First-class work at reasonable rates.

There was a more hopeful feeling yesterday among those interested in the railroad proposition. Mr. G. Wingate, who was in Portland for a few days, returned and brought the pleasing though somewhat indefinite news that Mr. Remington was very hopeful, and that he would be down in this city today. Mr. Remington would not explain the grounds for his faith in a satisfactory solution of the problem, but asserted that strong grounds existed for such belief.

Free at Crow's gallery, a life-size crayon with every dozen cabinets ordered. Offer good for 30 days.

There is every reason to believe that a telephone company will be organized in Portland at an early day for the purpose of constructing a line between the metropolis and this city. The information was obtained from Mayor Crosby, who was informed that a meeting of Portland business men had been held for the purpose. One of the most enthusiastic of those present was Mr. Ed. McKee, of the firm of Meyer, Wilson & Co., and it is stated there was a strong sentiment manifest in favor of building as speedily as possible.

J. W. Thompson, organist at the M. E. church, wishes to take a few more pupils in music, piano or organ. Address, 589, Astor street.

Sheriff Smith and Constable Oberg patrolled the river on Saturday night in search of violators of the fish law, but as far as the gill-net men were concerned the mandate of the law were obeyed. A number of pots of the fish traps were found down, however, and complaints were filed against the following: Francis Jessor, Louis Hoff, J. Johnson, Oscar Tenneson, N. Billee, Chris Olsen, M. J. Kinney, S. Elmore for the American Star Packing Co., and Henry McGowan. The cases will come up for hearing tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Bail of $75 in each case was deposited for the appearance of the interested parties.

Ryan & Co. 537, Third street, have just received a full line of 1893 patterns in wall paper, and comprising all the latest designs and shades, at the lowest prices. Call and see them.

Liberty Hall was well filled last evening to see the Big Bonanza Co. Minnie Marden is indeed a wonder. She weighs but 94 pounds, yet resisted the utmost efforts of six large and powerful men to lift her from the stage, while she, without apparent effort, carried with one hand, the same six men across the stage. The LeHoen children are the best on the American stage. Little Max is a whole show by himself, and his drill would do credit to an old soldier. Cora, only six years old, won the hearts of the audience in her character song. She is also well up in the art of dancing. There is a rare treat in store for the children this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when the company gives a parting performance.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. M. J. Ford was in the city yesterday.

Mrs. C. Stone and daughter left last evening on the Telephone. They go to the Sound to spend a few weeks with relatives.

Dr. J. A. Fulton, who has been absent for some weeks visiting Chicago and the world's fair, returned to this city on Sunday.

Mr. E. Jay Smith came up from his Silver Cliff ranch yesterday. Mr. Smith is building an extensive addition to his seaside residence, which he will occupy with his family during the summer.

ALONG THE WHARVES.

Friday morning the steamer Augusta, left Tillamook for this port, and when off Nehalem bay met with an accident that may prove serious. She was under full speed when her propeller shaft broke, leaving her in a disabled condition, with a stormy northwest wind blowing, and in a heavy, choppy sea. She carries plenty of canvas, which was soon spread, and then an attempt was made to beat in at the mouth of the Columbia, but with poor success. All day Friday and Saturday she lay off the coast between Point Adams and False Tillamook, beating back and forth, but unable to work far enough north to make the Columbia or sight any of the bar tugs Sunday about 9 o'clock Engineer Lebo, accompanied by Mr. Henderson, of Garibaldi, left in a small boat, and headed for the coast, intending to secure aid for the disabled steamer. She was then lying about twenty-five miles south-west of Tillamook rock, and had her flag at half-mast. The two men pulled straight for the Tillamook lighthouse, which they reached at 2:30 p. m. After a rest of a few minutes the second keeper put them ashore in a little cove near Seal Rocks, from whence they proceeded directly to Seaside. At the latter place a conveyance was secured to Skipanon, and a small boat landed them safely in Astoria at an early hour yesterday morning. It was but the work of a few minutes to awaken the crew of the tug Columbia, and at 2:30 they were steaming toward the bar. When the Columbia returned Captain Matthews was seen by an Astorian reporter. He said he had been down as far as Tillamook Rock, but could see nothing of the disabled steamer. He supposed she had headed for Tillamook Bay or Yaquina, and had probably put in to one of those places. The weather was hazy outside, and Captain Matthews was able to see but a short distance.

Captain Brown, of the Mendell, says that on Friday afternoon he sighted a small steamer a few miles to the south-west of the Point Adams light, and he is now sure it was the Augusta. She was under sail, but he did not notice that she was flying distress signals.

The Augusta left Tillamook about fifteen minutes before the R. P. Elmore, with several passengers on board. Captain Tatton of the latter lay at the dock until the Augusta had a fair start, when he pulled out and gave chase. Very soon the Augusta was overhauled, and the Elmore passed her as if she had been anchored. Huge clouds of black smoke were rolling upward from the Augusta's funnel, but the firing was useless; the speed was not there. A heavy northwest wind sprang up shortly afterward, and before long the Augusta's flag was flying at half mast. It was thought that an insane woman, who was being brought to this city, had jumped overboard.

The steamer Elmore arrived in last evening, but brought no news of the missing steamer Augusta.

The steamer Scotia, of the opposition line, which left San Francisco last Tuesday, arrived in port last evening. Captain Johnson was interviewed by an Astorian reporter after his arrival, and stated that the long passage was due to the strong head winds and seas encountered. The Scotia was fairly close to shore during the entire trip, but nothing was seen of the Augusta. It was impossible to see for a greater distance than five miles, Captain Johnson said, and it is possible the Augusta may have been beating on and off shore and escaped his notice. The Scotia brought 250 tons of merchandise for Astoria and Portland merchants.

The following "Marine" item is from the Commercial News of San Francisco: "Just as day was breaking on Sunday morning there was launched at the northeast corner of Bush and Powell streets, a little craft built from designs furnished by Edward G. Wade, marine reporter of the Commercial News. The new craft is clipper built, has what Captain Jim Bruce calls a 'ten-pot' figure-head, and is classed Al for 67 years by Captain I. E. Thayer, inspector of the Bureau Veritas. Its dimensions are: Length 10 inches, beam 3 inches, carrying capacity, one spoonful of paregoric. It is fitted with the latest improved fog horn, whose piercing sounds can be heard many blocks away. The builder has loaned his plans to Captain Thomas Henderson, who is having a yacht built on the same lines."

These figures represent the number of bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which were sold in the United States from March, 1891, to March, 1892. Two million, two hundred and twenty-eight thousand, six hundred and seventy-two bottles sold in one year, and each and every bottle was sold on guarantee that money would be refunded if satisfactory results did not follow its use. The secret of its success is plain. It depended on as the very best remedy for Coughs and Colds, etc. Price 50c. and $1.00. At Chas. Rogers, druggist.
