Headache and Dizziness.—Frequent Causes of Apoplexy and Paralysis.

The most recent and profound researches in this direction by specialists, have developed conclusively that the above disorders frequently result in death or permanent disability. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is the greatest remedy for either of these apparently insignificant causes. Nothing approaches it in merit. Mrs. W. E. Burns, of South Bend, Ind., who had suffered from constant headache for three months, was cured by it. The daughter of Daniel Myers, of Brooklyn, Mich., had been insane for ten years, and was having from 15 to 20 fits a day. Nervine cured her of both fits and insanity. Sold on a guarantee by Chas. Rogers. Get a book free.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Opinion, it seems, is slightly divided on the question of granting any further extension to Mr. Remington. No information having been disclosed by the subsidy company as to the reasons advanced by Mr. Remington for the non-settlement of the railroad question up to the present time, a little impatience is manifested, as the following will indicate.

Astoria, June 1, 1893. Mr Editor—I am not in the secrets of the railroad building and subsidy managers. I understand, however, that Mr. Remington is here again, asking more time to get started on the railroad. It is said that he wants to tie up the whole matter three months longer. He has had it nearly nine months now. Three months more would make just a year. What has he done in this nine months to lead to any confidence that he will be able to do anything in three more? We have heard time and again that the money was raised, and all the debts would be paid off, and work begun forthwith. So far nothing is done, and the prospect is not encouraging. Meanwhile, are not others who might take hold of the road being kept out by its being tied up with Remington? I want to see some work done. We have had talk and promises enough.

A CITIZEN.

ALONG THE WHARVES.

A letter has been received in this city from Captain Tate of the British ship Foyledale, which sailed hence with wheat in the latter part of last year after having lain so long at this port. Captain Tate was 154 days from port to port, and although the passage was long, it was better than that of many ships that sailed from Pacific Coast ports for England about the same time. The Foyledale will bring coal from Newcastle to San Francisco on her next trip to this coast.

The British steamer Conitlan, Captain Sears, arrived in yesterday morning from Vancouver, B. C. She had a cargo of Chinese merchandise for Portland merchants, and after being examined by Deputy Health Officer Walker proceeded up.

Captains Archer of the British bark Iredale, and Smith of the British ship Ulloch, both of which vessels spent many weeks in this port last year, have been relieved of the command of their vessels. During their stay here both of the gentlemen made many friends, who will regret to hear that when the Ulloch and Iredale again visit the Columbia they will not be in charge of Captain Smith and Captain Archer respectively.

The schooner Webfoot sailed from Knappa yesterday morning with a cargo of lumber.

The steamer D. S. Baker, which is to be brought down from the middle Columbia, will be in charge of Captain Baughman when she shoots the falls.

The steamer's Orient and Getzert were inspected on Wednesday by Messrs. Edwards and McDermott. Yesterday the inspectors went to the Cascades to inspect the steamers Quenett and Sakana.

The Harvest Queen and the barge Atlas have been engaged to convey the pilots' excursion party from Portland to St. Helens on Sunday.

WOULDN'T YIELD TO THE KAISER

How King Humbert Refused to Turn Out the Troops at Midnight.

Emperor William's passion for uniforms and his hobby for nocturnal alerts and the maneuvering of troops are well known, says the "Correspondence de Rome." The great clock of the quinal struck midnight. Conversation began to die away, and the princes and courtiers made no effort to conceal their fatigue. The emperor alone appeared wide-awake and full of energy. He was dabbling with a cup of tea. Suddenly he turned to King Humbert:

"Your majesty does not want to retire," said he. "With your permission we will now go through a most interesting experience. Sound the alarm and call out the troops!"

"Such a thing would be quite strange and contrary to our custom," replied the king.

"That is another reason why it should be done," said the emperor. "There is nothing like it for keeping your officers and soldiers in shape. Send out the order for the troops to proceed immediately to the maneuvering ground, the Prati di Castello, and there at day break we will review them in earnest."

"You must remember," said the king, "that Rome is not Berlin. Neither is it Strasburg or Breslau." But the emperor insisted. Happily the quinal has a good fairy in Marguerite de Savoie. She appreciated the difficulty of treating the eternal city like a citadel or a town in revolt. But to convince the emperor was another matter. However, she was equal to the occasion.

"Your majesty," said she, "is probably not aware that two regiments are quartered under the walls of the vatican. An alert in the night would create an immense noise and arouse the whole vatican, with the pope himself. The august old man might easily imagine that something terrible was about to happen and the consequences might be serious."

The emperor had to yield. Through respect for the pope and his repose he renounced his bugle calls and his proposed review. That is how Leo XIII, without knowing it, spared the garrison a bad night with curses for the triple alliance and a probable panic for the entire population. The Italian staff officers should burn two candles, one for the pope, and the other for Queen Marguerite.

HER BOOK AS A DOWRY.

How a Bibliomaniac's Housekeeper Secured a Husband.

An amusing story of how a confirmed old bachelor, who combined with his bachelorhood the qualities of the bibliomaniac, came finally to marry, is told by an English newspaper. The lonely old bookworm employed an old servant to take care of his rooms. Upon her fell the task of arranging and dusting the library, and she soon came to be smitten with a taste for reading. She began to spend all her earnings in buying books, and, strange to say, they were old books that she bought and read. One afternoon she came in with a parcel of volumes "picked up from the bookstalls. Out of curiosity the master turned over the leaves of her treasures, and we can well imagine the more or less supercilious smile that played upon his countenance as he thought of the humorous phase of this old woman turned bibliophile. Suddenly his face lighted up.

"How much did you give for this?" said he, picking up a volume with great eagerness.

"Fifteen pence," was the answer.

"Fifteen pence? Why, this is worth a thousand pounds," cried the collector. He reflected, when too late, how stupid he had been to speak and in vain tried to recall his words. "I will give you fifty shillings for it," said he.

"Sir, you have just told me it was worth a thousand pounds!"

The old creature was not to be cheated, and the bookworm at last offered £100. It was a first edition, extremely rare, of Montaigne. He was a good buyer, but his servant would not take a fraction less than £1,000, which sum was more than he could afford. That night the collector dreamt longer. At any price he must have the old book. "This woman takes good care of me; she appears to be smitten with the same passion for old books," said he to himself next. "Why should I not marry her? I would then have my Montaigne!"

So he went to her the following day and "popped the question." She accepted him, and they were married.

The clever old came brought him the book as a dowry.

A Wonderful Engine—Cannot Be Surpassed.

An engine exerting surpassing power is always a source of wonder, and yet how many are entirely forgetful of the existence within themselves of an engine more powerful and enduring than any ever invented. Not perhaps until they experience irregular pulse, heart fluttering, asthmatic breathing, tenderness in shoulder and arm, swollen ankles, weak and hungry spells, smothering, short breath, or pain in side, when its existence is no longer to be denied, and the possessor must know he has heart disease.

Mrs. Lellar, Fitchburg, Mich., had heart disease fifteen years; had to hire house help; lived on liquid food, used Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and all systems left her. Continued use cured her. Sold by Chas. Rogers on a guarantee, who will give you a doctor's book free.

Rather risky—the offer that made by the proprietors of Dr. Sego's Catarrh Remedy.

Risky for them. For you, if you have Catarrh, it's a certainty. You're certain to be cured if it or to be paid $500.

That's what they offer, and in good faith—they care you, or pay you, no matter how bad your case, or how long standing.

But—is it so much of a risk? They have a medicine that cures Catarrh, not for a time, but for all time. They've watched it for years, curing the most inveterate cases. They know that in your case there's every chance of success, almost no chance of failure.

Wouldn't you one trial such a risk with such a medicine?

The only question is—are you willing to make the risk? If the makers are willing to take the risk!

If so, the rest is easy. You pay your drug-fifty cents and the trial begins.

Can you ask more?
