Additional Prizes Secured.

When it was found yesterday how responsive business men and citizens generally had been in donating handsome gifts at the call of the executive committee of the Astoria Football Club, it was unanimously decided not to tax their good nature any further, and all solicitation was at once dropped. Notwithstanding this, costly prizes continued to pour in all day yesterday. Among these may be mentioned a fine rifle and cartridges from Mr. J. H. Mansell, a gold and opal ring from "a friend of honest sport," who does not sign his name, and a high bred bull calf, the gift of Colonel Adair. This latter will be brought over from Warrenton on the day of the sports, and led into the football grounds by the colonel himself, who will not lose sight of his charge until Mayor Crosby takes the rope in his hand and leads the animal to the lucky winner. The list of prizes is now swelled to 47, and though the programs set their value at $500, they are worth very much more at a low valuation.

All day yesterday people crowded the front of Colmann Bros', store, where a few of the gifts were displayed, and their beauty called forth unanimous admiration. The prizes will remain on view up to the day of the sports. It is impossible to show the whole of the presents, as many are crowded out of the windows for want of space, but all are alike costly and beautiful.

The committee once again desires to announce that the kindness of Astorians in this respect, far more than repays the football club for any aid it may have given in the past to public enterprises and charities.

Judge Cleveland is busy preparing one of his characteristic orations for the big day, and the mayor is a little awed to think of the number of speeches he will have to make, when he presents the prizes that seem to be coming in without end.

Thirty energetic young men are hustling for the magnificent gold headed cane, that is to be presented to the one who heads the list of ticket sellers. The tickets were only printed at noon yesterday, and by 4 p. m. there was a general cry for more. Several of the contestants are already so far and many have sold from 150 to 20 apiece.

Yesterday morning Street Superintendent Chadwick was seen by some of the members of the club, and he stated that his name was used in connection with the street celebration on the Fourth without his authority. He would, he said, decline to act, and further, would do all in his power to assist the football club to make a success of the field day at Smith's Point.

Mr. Danielson, another of the citizens whose names were used in the same connection, declined to serve.

A practice game was played last evening at Smith's Point, and two full teams turned out. The contest was a warm and fast one, lasting for ninety minutes without intermission, and the members, almost to a man, showed the benefits of their training. Nearly all are getting in good shape, and are not easily fatigued. Master George Cherry made his first appearance on the oval, and acquitted himself remarkably well in many respects. He proved himself cool at receiving charges, and neatly upset some of the heaviest and strongest players on the ground.

In addition to the races already announced the executive committee has decided to offer a special prize for a professional event, the distance to be 100 yards, handicap. The winner will receive $20 and the second $5.

In the article in yesterday's issue containing a list of the prizes offered, several lines were accidentally transposed, with the result that the names of the gentlemen who donated the beautiful and costly trophies were not, in a few instances, set opposite their respective donations. The list, together with the givers, is therefore republished, as follows:

A Revolution in Eating.

has been brought about by the introduction of COTTOLENE, the new vegetable shortening. The discovery of this product, and the demonstration of its remarkable qualities, has attracted the widest interest. Hitherto the common shortening has been lard, or indifferently butter. Every one has probably suffered occasional discomfort from lard-cooked food; while it is well known that thousands are obliged to abstain entirely from everything of that kind.

To such people, COTTOLENE is of peculiar value, widening as it does, the range of what may be eaten and enjoyed. COTTOLENE is a cooking marvel. It combines with the food—imparts to it a tempting color, a delicate flavor, and an appetizing crispness. No trace of greasiness remains to offend the taste, or disturb the digestion.

COTTOLENE is worthy of the careful notice of all those who value good food, of itself or for its hygienic properties. Sold by Leading Grocers. Made only by N. K. FAIRBANK & CO., ST. LOUIS and Chicago, New York.
