ITEMS FROM KNAPPA.

Knappa, Oregon, July 9th, 1893. Editor Astoria: The Fourth passed off quietly, each one celebrating in his own way.

The weather is fine, a greatly accepted change, and crop prospects are good, loggers are happy, or would be if the lumber market was better.

Miss Laura Knapp is visiting friends in Forest Grove.

Miss N. A. Spencer just completed a term of school in the Fourth district which has been concluded very much to the satisfaction of its patrons and friends.

The school closed with an entertainment at the church by the scholars, which was well attended.

Marches, songs and recitations were rendered in a manner highly creditable to teacher and scholars.

Remarks were made by Revs. Kirkhope and Lyman, after which Miss Spencer was presented with a fine volume of poems from her scholars as a token of their affection.

All left feeling that it had been a delightful evening.

A RUINOUS LOSS.

Why is it that people in general are so prone to disregard loss of strength, clearly perceptible in bodily shrinkage, failure of appetite, broken rest?

It is something else, that may not be clearer to the sex. For ulceration, displacements, bearing-down sensations, "female complaints" of every kind, it's a never-failing remedy.

And, among all the medicines that claim to help women, "Favorite Prescription" is the only one that's guaranteed to do what is promised for it.
