Along the Water Front.

The Truckee came in yesterday morning and unloaded 75 tons of freight at the Astoria S. Co's dock at the foot of Main street. About noon she moved over to the Telephone dock and discharged 45 tons of mixed cargo for Portland, the same going up on the steamer Telephone last night. The Truckee, after taking on a light cargo here, left out last night for Tillamook, where she will load with lumber for San Francisco. This makes the second trip of the Truckee where she has discharged her Portland cargo at this point and put back without proceeding up the river. Mr. P. F. du Fon, the Portland manager of the independent line of steamers, was in the city yesterday, and explains the action as follows: "We have lumber contracts at ports south of here that demand our immediate attention, and as freight is now running very light, it does not pay us to increase the number of boats at present, so in order to save time the Portland cargo is sent from here via the Telephone. This saves us three days' time on each trip, and as you can see, also saves a good sized pile of money. Of course as soon as we have cleared up the lumber contracts the steamers will resume their regular Portland runs."

Speaking of the Sound trade, Mr. du Fon said: "The trade here is far better than on the Sound at the present time. Of course, over there we are guaranteed a certain amount of freight, and the money comes right along if the freight does not. While times are quiet here in Astoria we have no cause for complaint, as the Astoria merchants, with one exception, are standing by us to a man. Your merchants here can tell you whether we have saved them any money on freight rates during the past few months."

The Solitaire went to sea yesterday morning in tow of the tug Columbia. Her crew was filled on Sunday and that done, Captain Thompson began at once making preparations for an early start on Monday morning. The sails were all bent Saturday night, and the last of the supplies taken aboard Sunday evening. As the tug ship swung around she came close up to the wharf, numerous friends of the genial captain were on hand, waving their hats and wishing him bon voyage.
