A jolly picnic party will leave here at daylight this morning for the wilds of the Nehalem and Fishhawk falls. It will consist of Hon. C. W. Fulton and wife, G. C. Fulton and wife, Walter Robb and wife, P. A. Stokes and wife, the Misses Nora and Dora Nicolsen, Fred Prael, and Mr. Ah Lem, Esq., chief cook and bottlewasher as well as chaperone. Needless to say, Mr. Ah Lem will have his hands full. At the stroke of 6, Senator Fulton, on board his famous Glen Dudley thoroughbred, and attired in a sombrero hat, a brace of pistols, and the other necessary garments that cruel civilation demands, will ride out of the Transfer stables, followed by the balance of the party in vehicles and the provision wagon in the rear. This wagon contains nine tents, two cook stoves, guns, fishing tackle, smelling salts, canned goods, three volumes of the laws of Oregon, an insurance certificate, butterfly nets, kettles, pans, bedding, catsup, novelettes, poison oak specific, two marlinspikes, etc., etc. Mr. Ah Lem will ride on the seat of honor on this vehicle. At the junction of Cass and Second the caravan will come to anchor and Crow is to take a cabinet photograph of the group before they leave on their perilous journey. Last evening was spent in bidding tearful adieux to friends and relatives who have probably gazed for the last time on some of the youth and beauty of the flock. Though G. C. Fulton and Walter Robb have been trying to hide the real reason why they joined the party, the fact has leaked out. In the deep forests of the Fishhawk, Robb intends to race against time, punch the bag, climb trees, jump creeks, and otherwise get himself in readiness for the next football match. Clyde Fulton has been engaged at a handsome salary as his trainer.

Over $120,000 was paid out in wages today to fishermen by the various canneries and on Monday another $100,000 will be dispensed in the same way. Next week canners will be busy filling final Eastern orders, and receiving boats and gear from the men.

The bark Thermopylae arrived in from Victoria today in tow of the tug Wanderer. She will load lumber at the Clatsop Mills for Shanghai.

THE CUSTOM OF THE COUNTRY.

Is to give a fair trial to articles presented for popular approval and then to testify to the merits of the best. Tried by this standard, the best external remedy known to both the medical fraternity and the general public is the Allcock's Porus Plaster. Its fair trial has extended over a period of more than thirty years. In all that time it has never failed in remedial and early effect. There is no experiment about it. Buyers of Allcock's Porus plasters take no chance. They are getting standard goods which have been known and proved for a generation. Their composition and ingredients have not been equalled in any imitation plaster. The people know this. They have found a true friend in Allcock's Porus Plaster. Other so-called porus plasters are feeble imitations of the genuine. They may, now and then, be sold to the unwary, but experience and use soon show their worthless character. For all purposes wherein a plaster is required Allcock's is the only one that is worth buying or trying. This is not the unsupported assertion of the manufacturers (they need no such factitious aid to popularize their remedy), but the voluntary and hearty testimony of the living men and women who have had a personal experience of disease and their cure. The "custom of the country" has put Allcock's Porus Plaster at the head of external remedies, and there it will stay, for the simple reason that it is thoroughly good, safe, sure and speedy in action. What more could be asked? Ask your druggist for Allcock's and accept no other.
