The remains were preserved and will at once be embalmed and taken to Bannock, Maine, by Captain Curtis. At 4 o'clock yesterday morning Officer Thompson was walking on his beat on Olney street when he noticed smoke coming from underneath the flooring of Flynn's tailoring establishment lately attached by creditors. He at once went over and bursting in the door of the shop discovered that the whole place was full of suffocating fumes, with flames under the corner of a counter in the workroom. Assisted by Mr. Bratt, the photographer, who lives above the place, Thompson put the blaze out with four buckets of water, but not before it had burnt a hole through the partition into the marble shop next door. The place was insured with the Farmers and Merchants' Insurance Co., of Albany, for $1000, but it is stated that the policy lapsed when the shop was attached. It is believed that the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion among some woolen rags saturated with linseed oil lying on the floor of the front room.

The residents of Bay City on Tillamook Bay are feeling happy, and now and again when one comes to Astoria he loses no opportunity of speaking of the advantages of that thriving little locality. Some time after its foundation, when the coast boom burst, matters were very dull, but the citizens were made of solid stuff and having survived the dead season, are now on the high road to prosperity. Grading has been started for the site of a school house to cost $4,500, the coopeage factory and Bay City lumber mill are working full time, and a big mill is now under construction which when completed will have a capacity of 100,000 feet per diem. The steamers Elmore, South Coast, and the other traders, no longer pass by Bay City without calling, for its outside traffic is showing a steady increase in volume, and both to Astoria and San Francisco are sent many tons of stuff weekly. Altogether Tillamook's little neighbor is making a good strong race for metropolitan honors, and its future is assured.

The managers of the library association intend to "keep up with the times" in all that is best calculated to add to the interest and usefulness of the library. To this end, they have decided to purchase the articles necessary for the adoption of the Carel Catalogue System, which is now in use in all the largest and most prosperous libraries of the United States. This step is made absolutely necessary from the number of books that have been added to the library since the first catalogue was made. Another large order is expected from Chicago this week. The ladies are planning a very novel and interesting entertainment to be given in the near future, to provide the necessary funds for this purchase. The reputation already established for library entertainments, will insure a crowded house for this one. It is hardly necessary to say that everybody is expected to help by their presence, for it is daily growing more evident much to the satisfaction of the board of managers, that the Astoria Public Library is a power for good in this city. That it is highly appreciated and enjoyed by the general public is proved by the large number of daily and evening visitors, especially the young men and boys of the city. Due notice will be given by advertisement of the time, place and price of admission to the entertainment.

Mrs. Madison was unquestionably the most popular woman that has ever presided over the social life of the executive mansion. She was extremely beautiful in person and gentle and courteous in manner. Consummate tact made good her lack of liberal education. Madison first met her when he was a member of congress at Philadelphia, and, with Aaron Burr, boarded at the house of her father, Mr. Payne. She was then the widow Todd. The future president promptly fell in love with her. But having some doubts about her mental qualities, he one day handed her a book to read and asked her to give him her opinion of it. She gave the book to Burr with the request that he would write a letter for her to copy. This he did with his usual brilliancy; and Madison, on receiving the note, was fully convinced that his lady-love's intellect was equal to her beauty. He at once offered himself and was accepted. From "Historical Houses of Washington," by Teneis G. Hamlin, in the October number of Scribner's Magazine.

TO RESIST THE ATTACK of the germs of Consumption, Scrofula, Grief, Malice; and many other diseases—means fight or die for all of us. These germs are everywhere in the air we breathe. The odds are in favor of the germs, if our liver is inactive and our blood impure. What is needed most is an increase in our germ-fighting strength. To do this successfully you need to put on healthy flesh, rouse the liver to vigorous action, so it will throw off these germs, and purify the blood so that there will be no "weak spot," nor soil for germ-growth.

We claim for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, that it does all this in a way peculiar to itself. It is the development of generations of medical thought—it has stood the test of a quarter of a century of cure.

That is why the makers can guarantee it. In every trouble caused by torpid liver or impure blood, if the "Discovery" fails to benefit or cure, your money is refunded.
