

THE SALMON BUSINESS.

The Pack Estimated to be Equal to That of 1888.

The Cutting Packing Company has issued the following circular: Returns from all sections, near and remote, where salmon is packed, have now been received, and although it is difficult to obtain exact figures, as to the output of each separate cannery, it is tolerably certain that the total amount produced will not vary much from the quantity canned in 1888, say 1,700,000 cases, each containing four dozen one-pound cans, thus making it one of the largest years of production in the history of the business, but notwithstanding this enormous product, so much has consumption in the article increased, owing to its excellence as a food supply, furnished at a lower price than any other article having a corresponding amount of nutriment, that the market is in a healthy shape. The carrying over from previous seasons was small, the financial condition of most of those engaged in the business is good, and while there is no immediate prospect of any advance in prices, the outlook is good for maintenance of present figures. The spring pack of the Columbia is all sold and the fall pack from this river is not such as to commend itself to first-class trade. Of the pack of about 600,000 cases in Alaska, fully one-third is of varieties other than first-class red fish, which forms the standard for output from this section. The great increase in the pack this year is in the packing of British Columbia, including Fraser river, where the total amounts to over 500,000 cases, against about 400,000 cases, the largest pack in any one previous year; but there is small chance of the present year's figures being repeated in 1894, as fish have not in the past been numerous in immediately succeeding years. With ordinary prosperity in the world generally, we look for the consumption of the present season's pack before receipts of next year's catch.

STANDS WITHOUT A RIVAL.

Gentlemen: I have been troubled with very severe headaches for years, and have taken a great many different remedies, but have never found anything to give me as speedy and permanent cure as Krause's Headache Capsules. In my opinion they stand without a rival. They have cured me in every case. J. H. WILKIE, 26 Adams ave., West, Detroit, Mich. For sale by Chas. Rogers, sole agent, Astoria, Oregon.
