THE HAWAIIAN QUESTION. The secret intentions of the state department, supported by President Cleveland, have been tolerably well kent, if we are to believe the reports that Idlionkalani has been or is to be reseated on the throne. There were from time to time rumors that the true dreamed it was so, or that it could signify more than that the royalists allewed themselves to have foolish hopes. It became notorious that the Sugar King was for the queen and her crowd, as he would be the actual ruler and go on with his monopoly, backed by the Asiatic slave trade. It is exasperating to know that while the American people were studiously kept in the dark to the fixed policy of our democratic administration the queen and her hangers on had the information and were rejoicing over it, "claiming everything and doing it exultingly," and getting drunk on champagne in celebration by anticipation. The game of deception was not discontinued until, owing to a slight miscalculation, the Gresham paper was exploded two days before the arrival of the steamer that it was believed would bring the news of the action, under full instructions, of the American minister, a gentleman reared in the diplomatic schools of Kentucky, and probably as plucky in doing a foolish thing as polite in stating a bad case. The document given out by the state department was only meant apparently to prepare the public for the shock about to be imparted at Honolulu | the civilized world. The steamer got away just before the throwing of the dynamite bomb by the minister of the United States. The royalists had fixed the 7th of November as the day on which the queen was to be restored by the bayonets of the United States marines; and our minister, duly accredited to the provisional government, as are the representatives of other nations, was not telling anybody what he was ordered to do, but carefully carrying the impression to the provisional government and also to the pretenders that their wishes were according to his intentions. We may hope that there has not been bloodshed at Honolulu, and trust that the next steamer will bring intelligence to lift the cloud that now hangs over the Pacific. Perhaps the provisional government, which has given the islands a quiet business man's administration, and has a few hundred well-armed men at call, may deeline to surrender to the representative of a power which has professed friendliness, and has no more right of decreeing reaction than any other power. What then? Is the American minister to transfer his person and his potentiality to the queen's champagne court? Is he to call upon the semiburbarians, the great interests of sugar.

Mr. Carlisle, the secretary of the treasury, has been in New York, in consultation with the Wall street men. of course he knows fost what the powerful populistic people will say—that he has come in order to claim his reward. I kinds of fresh cakes and homeerful populistic people will say-that he Americanism?

The populists have the courage of the feelishness of their convictions, and they do not in the least mind making the most absurd accusations, because they do not know the extent and excess of the absurdity. Some of them think the New York banks got up the panic that gave them so much trouble simply to scare the people into submission to the demonstration of silver. vertisers the largest circulation of any newspaper published on the Columbia Advertising rates can be obtained on application to the business manager.

> Modern inventions are putting say age and semi-barbarous warriors at disadvantage, much lamented by phil inthropists. The machine guns mowed ranks of the South African blacks playing upon the massed thousands with awful certainty, cutting them down in long rows. There was a reaper whose name was death! And in North Africa the cruisers at Melilla illuminated the parade ground of the Moore at midnight, and discovering the location of their swarms, opened on then from ships and forts, and the brave barbarians could not understand it, but fled like wild animals. Well, civilization needs all its advantages.

Ex-Speaker Reed pointed out in a Boston speech the control of the ways and means committee of the house by Southern members, and said that sec "was neither affected by the election, nor does it possess any knowledge or instruction as to the desolation which reigns in Northern towns. Hence they are difficult to reach with sound knowledge of the subject." The remarkable thing in the South is the idea that the passion of the Northern people for silver money smashed things the other day.

Brazil has been buying German ships and preparing them for war. She will have to concentrate her fleet somewhere before swooping down on the mutineers.

Meantime, there is a scheme that may excite some interest. It is to send up an enormous balloon, loaded with dynamite, to be dropped on the decks of have to concentrate her fleet somewhere the rebel vessels. We suppose people weak from loss of blood it is probable he can be found to go up in a balloon with will recover. About 9 o'clock last night a dynamite bombs, but it must be ad-

Ex-Governor Campbell, of Ohio, makes a curious explanation of the defeat of Neal. He says: "The people knew that times were good and wheat a dollar a bushel when Cleveland was elected. A few months afterward times were panieky and wheat drops to 50 cents. What is the use of explaining?" Very little indeed.
