Mia registered on Monday to take the dancing class at the Broadway Theater. She needed to renew her registration for next week, as she could not attend the class last week due to illness. After this, she plans to attend the classes regularly. Mia's friends, who are also attending the classes, encouraged her to continue with the classes. The Broadway Theater offers a variety of dance classes, including ballroom, salsa, and hip-hop. Mia is excited to learn new dance styles and improve her dance skills. If you are interested in attending the classes, you can contact the Broadway Theater for more information.